Flier and Father-in-Law Jubilant Over Event; Baby Resembles Dad, Report

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 23.—What will they name the new baby?

This was the question that today was agitating the village of Englewood as congratulations came from all parts of the world by telegraph and cable to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, proud parents of a son—born at 3:15 yesterday afternoon.

It was an exciting event, not only to the residents of Englewood, but to the whole United States. The good news no sooner became known than it was flashed over the radio.

MOTHER "DOING WELL"

Reports were current that the Lone Eagle's "Eaglet" would be named either Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., or Dwight Morrow Lindbergh, after "Lindy's" father-in-law, Dwight W. Morrow.

Mrs. Lindbergh and child "were doing well" today, to use the old familiar expression. So well, in fact, that Lindbergh himself left Englewood for New York City where he kept an appointment with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Biltmore Hotel.

Col. Lindbergh, beaming as a happy father should, firmly declined to discuss the "Baby of the Century."

No information beyond the fact that Mrs. Lindbergh and the baby were in fine condition was forthcoming from the Morrow estate where the infant was born—on Mrs. Lindbergh's twenty-fourth birthday. It was learned, however, that the baby weighed seven and three-quarter pounds.

'Not Alarmed' In Vote Appeal, Says Pinchot

I am not worried about the eventual outcome, declared Gifford Pinchot over long distance telephone from Philadelphia, today, when asked his opinion of the State Supreme Court's decision setting September 29 for a hearing on the legality of votes cast in Luzerne county at the primary election.

He said:

"I'll be ready to make a statement in a few days. Just now I am going over the situation in all its angles with friends here. I don't want to say anything until I am sure that I have carefully considered the whole matter and everything that is bound up with it."

LUZERNE HOLDS FATE

Pinchot carried Luzerne County by a plurality of about 27,000 and won the Republican nomination over the entire state by about 20,000. In the event the Supreme Court throws out the Luzerne County ballots, the Republican nominee likely would be Francis Shunk Brown.

The Supreme Court hearing was granted to friends of Brown who petitioned to have most of the Lu-

COURT TO GET VOTE REPORT

A partial report, covering 30 of the 72 ballot boxes ordered to be recounted, was to be submitted to Judge James R. Macfarlane today by Leander Trautman, of the recount board. Attorney Trautman refused to divulge the nature of the report.

He did admit that the missing voters' list from the first district of the Sixth Ward had not been recovered.

Stock Rally Wipes Out Losses

By W. S. COUSINS.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Though handicapped with a heavy load of selling orders resulting from the wiping out of margin accounts by the thousands, the stock market was able to bring about a brisk rally today and to restore a good part of the ground lost on Friday and Saturday.

Bearish professionals launched a severe drive against the industrial blue chips in the third hour and succeeded in driving a dozen or more of the active shares to new low levels. United States Steel receded to 152½, down 2¾; General Electric under 64; Westinghouse to 125.

Wall street was cherred by reports that powerful bankers and bullish interests in their over-Sunday conferences had come to the conclusion that prices of their favorites had receded far enough. Determination of this group to support the market caused a quick change of front on the part of the bears, short covering took place all along the line as prices bounded forward in the pivotal stocks.

Ex-Gov. White Enters W. Va. Senate Race

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 23.—(AP.)—Former Gov. A. B. White, of Parkersburg, whose term as state senator expires this year, filed a certificate here today of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the August 5 primary.

Three others, former Congressman Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling; C. Lewis Wilson, of Parkersburg, and former Congressman E. T. England, of Charleston, previously had announced their candidacy for the seat now held by Senator Goff.

GUNMEN ROB 2 STORES, ESCAPE

Lock 2 Victims in Ice Box, Take $2,800; Loot Hill Shop, Downtown Market

Two pairs of robbers held up two meat markets, one downtown, the other in the Hill district, within 10 minutes, early today, and escaped with a total loot of $2,224 and a diamond ring valued at $600.

Two young nattily dressed bandits entered the White Front Market, 304 Market street, shortly after 7 a. m.

One of the bandits walked up to W. E. Massey, clerk, of 605 Pressley street, who was standing at the end of a counter near the office in the rear, pushed the muzzle of his gun in his ribs and said: "Go on in back."

PROPRIETOR VICTIM

The same robber approached H. B. Silverman, 2324 Pitlock street, the proprietor, seated in his office, with the same command.

While one bandit pointed a revolver at the two prisoners the other went through their pockets. Massey's pockets yielded $4.50. Silverman's $9.

Locking Silverman and Massey in the huge cooler, one of the robbers stood guard while his pal went to the office and picked up a package containing $1,100, Saturday's receipts of two stores. He then rifled the cash register of $11.

BULLETIN.

Walter J. Lyster was sentenced to one year in the Allegheny County workhouse and Harold P. Watts to 10 months in the same prison for the killing of John Borkowski, Tyre coal miner. The former industrial policemen were convicted of manslaughter here after being freed on a murder charge in Allegheny County.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park and his second assistant, Roy T. Clunk, are in Franklin to ", where Judge William M. Parker, of Venango county, was to sentence Harold P. Watts and Walter J. Lyster, former industrial policemen. The two were found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner. The former officers face terms of two years imprisonment.

Attorneys C. B. Prichard and E. G. Coll also are in Franklin representing the defendants. Prichard and Coll have prepared papers for appeals, it was said. After sentence is pronounced the court will be asked by the defense attorneys to grant a supersedeas, freeing the men on bail pending the appeal.

OATH BACKS CHARGE OF POLITICS

Silly to Think Boss Gives Permits, Declares Mayor, But Petroni Can't Get One

Mayor Kline today had this to say about the Sun-Telegraph's report of the conversation in which Andrew Frazier, assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection, advised Morrey Petroni, North Side merchant, to see Petroni's ward chairman, John O'Donnell, for a permit to sell fireworks:

"The story is so silly I can't see any reason to investigate it. I do not believe Frazier ever said it. I may call up Frazier, if I find time."

AFFIDAVIT FOLLOWS

In reply to the Mayor's statement, a Sun-Telegraph reporter immediately made an affidavit that the conversation had taken place, and that he had listened to it.

The reporter said he had accompanied Petroni to Frazier's office Saturday.

Meanwhile Petroni led himself a merry chase. The man from whom he is buying his fireworks promised to get the permit.

The wholesaler reported to Petroni that he had tried to confer with Public Safety Director James M. Clark and failed, but that, nevertheless, he would still get that permit.

Petroni himself tried to see Clark and was directed back to Frazier.

REFUSES TO SEE PETRONI

Clark again refused to see Petroni, but promised him an audience tomorrow, when the director expected to have the facts in the case.

Meanwhile the Fourth of July approaches.

O'Donnell himself contributed this statement:

Public Safety Director Clark promised this:

"I'll investigate."

As Petroni today saw fireworks being sold in a shop nearby which does not have a fire escape, he recalled Frazier's comment that Petroni did not have a fire escape on his place of business.

LINDY SILENT ON SON, SEES BYRD

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd met today and exchanged congratulations.

Colonel Lindbergh congratulated the admiral on his conquest of the South Pole. Admiral Byrd congratulated Lindbergh on the arrival of a son yesterday.

They met in the Hotel Biltmore, where Admiral Byrd is making his headquarters, and went immediately to the room of a friend for a good visit.

The flying colonel was deluged with congratulations on his fatherhood when he arrived at the hotel, but did not mention the subject himself. He answered the "congratulations, colonel" with only a shy grin.

The admiral's schedule was so crowded that only a few minutes could be given to Col. Lindbergh, and the two friends agreed to meet some time in July for a long discussion of aviation in all its aspects.

After congratulating Col. Lindbergh on the birth of a son, Admiral Byrd also congratulated him on his recent high altitude record-breaking flight from the west coast to the east.

Col. Lindbergh spoke of the value to aviation of Antarctic flights such as the Byrd expedition, and spoke of the way in which aviation had changed the methods of Polar exploration.

Prince of Wales 36 Today; Shuns 'Apron Strings'

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
International News Service.

LONDON, June 23.—With all thoughts of matrimony apparently as far away as ever, Edward, Prince of Wales, England's heir to the throne, today quietly celebrated his thirty-sixth birthday. His only formal engagement for the day was a regimental dinner tonight.

And for many the dominant question of the day was—will the prince be the first bachelor King of England since George III ascended the throne in 1760?

The answer remains one of the greatest unsolved problems of current history. Indications are that the prince is steadfast in his determination to be a bachelor, and even his accession to the throne, in the opinion of those who know him well, will fail to alter his ideas in the matter.

Only recently he gave further evidence of his frame of mind when he told a close friend that he was afraid to take a wife for fear she would attempt to boss him in the few hours daily in which he is "off duty" from the affairs of state.

PACT APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP.)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved the London naval treaty.

By 16 to 4, the committee ordered it reported to the Senate.

Senators Johnson (Rep.), California, and Shipstead, (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, announced they would submit minority reports.

The overwhelming support for the treaty in the committee was believed to insure ratification of the pact when it is taken up by the Senate in special session.

Borah announced he would submit the treaty to the Senate today, without a report, but merely introducing a resolution of ratification.

British Dirigible Awaiting New Trial

CARDINGTON, England, June 23.—(AP.)—The airship R-101 British dirigible was hitched to its mooring mast here today preparatory to trial flights this week.

Since her last outdoor appearance before Christmas the R-101 has been reconditioned, lightened and her lifting capacity increased by six tons.

New York Expects 1,126,515 Gain

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—New York City is expected to show a gain of about 1,126,515 in population when the census tabulation is completed. This estimate was announced today by Dr. Walter Laidlaw, executive secretary of the Cities Census Committee, Inc.

The estimate fixes the population of New York at 6,746,563, as against 5,149,778 in 1920.

Missing Dormont Youth's Body Found in Lake

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—(AP.)—The bodies of two of three young men drowned in Lake Erie June 14 when a sailboat capsized have been recovered. One of them was that of Robert Burrington, 23. The other has been identified tentatively as that of William Brown, 28, of Dormont, Pa.

The body of John Higgins, 21, still is missing. Coast Guardsmen found the others yesterday. The discovery ended an investigation resulting from the request of William S. Brown, father of the Dormont youth, that the authorities inquire into the possibility that they were victims of foul play.

Miss Olive France, 23, told police that the three sank with the boat after strapping a life preserver about her.

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—(AP.)—The body of John Meyers, operator of the speed boat which cost the lives of eight prominent Toledoans in Lake Erie last Saturday, was recovered near here today by members of a Coast Guard crew.

Meyers' body was the seventh to be recovered, and search will be continued by the Coast Guard tomorrow for Herbert W. Nauts, internal revenue collector, the only victim of the lake tragedy whose body has not been recovered.

MURDER-MANIAC BELIEVED MASQUERADING AS WOMAN

HUNT ENTERS SECOND WEEK

Threat, Demanding Paper Or Life Received by News Agent; Disguise New Clue

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—A man in woman's clothing was sought today as police began the second week of their search for the mad slayer of two men in Queens.

Meanwhile, a Brooklyn newspaper distributor, Meyer Newmark, received a letter threatening his death unless he returned document "U 4 4." This, the ninth letter purporting to have come from the maniac, followed an alleged announcement Saturday that his mission of death was ended and that he was returning to Russia.

MASQUERADE SCENTED

Police were uncertain as to the authenticity of either letter.

The theory that the maniac has donned woman's clothing to elude the police was advanced today after Mark E. Brown, Manhattan, reported that a person at first thought to have been a woman accosted him and his family as they were eating a picnic lunch in Queens yesterday and asked for a ride to New York.

They invited the "woman" to lunch with them, Brown said, but as their guest left they noticed trousers under the skirt.

LIKE 1925 KILLINGS

Some similarity between the Queens murders and the slaying of nine trysters along the "lovers lanes" of Indiana, Illinois, Colorado and Wisconsin by a "sweetheart murderer" in 1925 was discerned today by the New York Sun.

The "sweetheart murderer" never was captured. Unlike the Queens murderer, he killed both women and men, mutilating the faces of his women victims.

SPARING THE ROD — By Quin Hall

CAPITAL TOLD RIVER PROJECT IS 'POSSIBLE'

Army Man Urges Delay in Flood Control Program Pending Survey Result

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—The Army engineers' chief, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, believes flood control on the upper Ohio River through the construction of 11 dams would be possible from an engineering viewpoint.

Testifying today before the House Flood Control Committee, he said these dams would lower the flood stage at Pittsburgh by 10 or 11 feet.

Questioned by Representative Dunbar (Rpp.), of Indiana, on the preliminary survey of the project by Army engineers, Brown said the cost estimates of about $95,000,000 in the report were "conservatively high" and that the estimated benefit of about $60,000,000 was "conservatively low."

URGES DELAY

The report concluded that because of the spread between the cost and expected benefits, the project would not be economical.

Dunbar said monetary consideration was not given as much weight as the humanitarian question involved in flood control projects on the Mississippi, and demanded why the same rule should not be applied to the upper Ohio.

"The same rule should be applied, but there is not as much danger on the Upper Ohio," Brown replied.

SURVEY IN PROGRESS

He added that a survey of the Ohio and all its tributaries was being made by Army engineers, and that, until it is completed, it would be unwise for Congress to formulate a flood control program on that river system.

Referring to the Wabash River and its tributaries, the officer expressed doubt that the reservoir plan alone would be adequate for flood control, and said it should be combined with a levee system.

FAIL TO AGREE ON SUBSTITUTE VETS' BILL

Senate Republicans Take Up Reed's Measure; Seek Means to Forestall Veto

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—Senate Republicans, at a conference today, discussed but failed to agree on several substitutes for the Finance Committee's veterans' relief bill opposed by President Hoover.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, predicted the committee measure—which would add an estimated cost of $102,000,000 to the present annual cost of veterans' legislation—$511,000,000—would be passed late today, despite the threat of a veto.

HAD STATED HIS VIEWS

Mr. Hoover, in a letter to Senator Watson, had transmitted the views of Secretary Mellon on the legislation to the effect it would necessitate an increase in taxes next year to avoid a deficit.

Substitutes for the committee measure, proposed by Senators Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, and Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, were discussed, but no definite plans were adopted to press them. Each was estimated to add an additional cost of about $35,000,000 to existing appropriations.

Bingham's measure was proposed originally by the American Legion.

Passage of the committee bill, a modification of the measure adopted recently by the House, probably would delay the early adjournment plans of Congress' leaders. A veto probably would bring about attempts to pass the bill again. Republican leaders believe this is likely.

READS HOOVER LETTER

Opening debate, Senator Reed had the clerk read the President's letter and enclosures from Mr. Mellon and Director Hines of the Veterans' Bureau.

Interrupting at a point where the President said the pending bill went far beyond the relief programs of veterans' organizations, Senator Shortridge (Rep.), of California, said:

"The President has been misled when he says the Legion does not approve this bill."

If You're Hungry Don't Go Near Company 14

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—The fire laddies of Truck Company 14 have been done dirt by Kenneth Thompson, who said he was from Detroit and probably was.

Thompson dropped in two weeks ago, hungry, and the boys fed him and gave him a place to sleep.

Kenneth continued to stick around, acting as valet, handy man and semi-official fire fan. He loved his blazes.

Yesterday, when the truck company volleyed forth in answer to an alarm, Thompson remained behind. When the laddies got back, Kenneth was gone. So were the firemen's clothes and their money.

The next time anybody comes around Truck Company 14 and announces himself as starving to death he may get a punch in the nose.

STAGE HUNT FOR KILLER OF LINGLE

Police Name Assassin as Moran Gang Henchman; Was on Chicago Payroll

By W. F. PETERSON.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 23.—James (Red) Forsythe, alias Fawcett, definitely accused as the actual assassin of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was the object of a widespread man hunt today.

Accusation of Forsythe came after a dogmatic assertion by a high police official last Saturday that the slayer was known.

Lingle was put on the spot just two weeks ago today. His murder signalized a concerted drive against gangland.

EVIDENCE GATHERED

Authorities today bent every effort to gathering evidence which might bring an indictment against Forsythe by the grand jury, which is expected to get under way this week.

Forsythe is a reputed henchman of the Moran-Aiello gang, a rival of the Al Capone organization. Lingle was a friend of Capone and several times visited him at Miami.

A year ago Forsythe was sentenced to a year in the house of correction and fined $200 on gun toting charges. The Appellate Court has ust confirmed the sentence and unless Forsythe surrenders his bond will be forfeited.

SCORED BY JUDGE

When he imposed sentence, Judge John H. Lyle told Forsythe:

"I will not hand you back your gun. You look like a potential murderer to me. I hate to say that, but it is true. I certainly would not want to take a chance in the dark with you."

Judge Lyle said later that great political pressure was brought to bear on him to vacate the sentence but he stood pat.

When taken in custody in a raid on the alleged Moran headquarters in the Loop several months ago, Forsythe asserted he was an employe of Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson's office and showed he was on the corporation counsel's payroll. He was released.

CHURCHES GET LOWDOWN

Two other developments were outstanding today in Chicago's war on gangland.

Protestant churches of the city were to meet and get the "low down" on the local crime situation.

Acting Commissioner of Police John Alcock was to give out the list of 700 erstwhile detectives who are to go back to walking beats.

OCEAN HOP SET FOR TONIGHT

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 23.—(AP.)—Reports from Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith's camp this afternoon stated that the Southern Cross was expected to start from Fort Marnock on her trans-Atlantic flight at 2:30 a. m. tomorrow (10:30 Pittsburgh time tonight).

Capt. Kingsford-Smith has been waiting here for more than two weeks, but has postponed his attempt repeatedly because of bad weather.

At first he planned to take off from Curragh, but later chose Port Marnock for its longer runway and considered that he thus could take a greater load of fuel and be assured of getting off the ground.

ACQUIT OFFICER, FINE ACCUSERS

Patrolman Herman Shaul, 42, of 158 Banner way, accused by eight South Side youths of selling them protection for their activities in looting slot machines, was discharged by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court.

The eight boys were fined $25 each or 30 days in the workhouse on suspicious person charges. Two store owners from whom the boys said they had stolen slot machines were fined $50 each for maintaining gambling devices.

Those fined for maintaining slot machines were Charles Gutawski, 41, of 104 South nineteenth street, and Harry Pappas, 35, of 1912 Carson street. The pool room proprietor was Frank Schultz, 34, of 1911 Sarah street.

The boys were Joseph Rzewski, 17, of 2004 South Eighteenth street; Felix Dechmeroski, 16, of 2018 Carson street; John Mours, 16, of 1813 Carey way; Joseph Schroeder, 18, of 1213 Muriel street; John Sujkowski, 17, of 46 South Nineteenth street; Frank Turik, 17, of 1914 Fox way; John Minanskas, 16, of 1815 Fox way, and Joseph Carton, 17, of 16 Childs way.

APPEAL DOESN'T WORRY PINCHOT

erne County ballots thrown out on the allegation that they were mutilated.

Voting machines were used in about 40 districts of Luzerne County and the usual Australian ballots in the remainder of the 372 districts. The dispute is based on the latter and the mutilation is alleged because the ballots had been perforated by order of the local court to prevent suspected fraud.

After the primary election, friends of Brown petitioned the Luzerne County Court to restrain the local County Commissioners from certifying the vote giving Pinchot a plurality, but the court refused. Brown's friends then carried their appeal to the Supreme Court.

MAY FILE INDEPENDENT

Local Republican leaders who supported Pinchot are speculating on the wisdom of Pinchot filing papers at once under an independent party to insure his name appearing on the ballot at the general election in November.

They suggest that precaution because, if the Supreme Court holds a hearing September 29 and rules that the bulk of the Luzerne County ballots be thrown out on a technicality, Pinchot would be credited with the smaller vote and thus lose the Republican nomination to Brown.

The last day for filing as an independent party candidate is September 5, or more than three weeks before the Supreme Court decision could be handed down assuming the ruling would be made the day the hearing was held.

The opinion is practicaly unanimous that Pinchot will be a candidate in the November election and that if the expressed will of the people as proved at the primary is temporarily thwarted by giving the Republican nomination to another, Pinchot would be returned a winner at the November election by a tremendous plurality.

MALONE STATEMENT

Former President of Council James F. Malone, who supported Pinchot, said that he believed every person that voted for Pinchot last May would follow him in any step he took to guarantee his candidacy at the general election. Malone said:

"As far as I am concerned, I am prepared in any way to carry out in November, the mandate of the Republican voters as expressed in the May primary."

VETS TO HONOR CLIFF VICTIM

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—(INS.)—Full military honors will be given Raymond C. Spang when he is buried in Ansonia tomorrow morning with his wife and four young children.

Spang, who threw his family from the top of West Rock here Saturday, was a World War veteran with a record for gallantry in action, and his companions in arms will honor him at the last.

As an aftermath of the tragedy that stunned the community here public officials were today checking up on the movements of the demented veteran. Ansonia police knew Spang well, and were acquainted with his movements up to the time he went to the United States Veterans' Hospital in the Bronx, but they did not know he had left that institution until they received word of the tragedy.

Thousands gazed in horror at towering West Rock from which Spang pitched his wife and four children to their death and climaxed the tragedy two hours later by leaping after them.

Flier Wriggles Free Of Strait-Jacket

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(INS.)—J. B. Leifus today held the unofficial distinction of being the first person to free himself from a straight-jacket from the wing of an airplane speeding along at a height of 2,000 feet. As hundreds looked on Leifus freed himself in two minutes.

He revealed he was almost choked by gas from the exhaust pipe. He intended to wriggle himself free of the straps while suspended from the plane's wing by his toes, but found the pressure too great for that "added feature."

Policeman's Killer Executed in Chair

CAR TIPS OVER; 2 INJURED

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 23.—A truck of the J. Kenny Transfer Company, Pittsburgh, overturned on a curve in North Charleroi, early today, spilling $6,000 worth of groceries over the roadway.

R. F. Reager, driver, and James M. Courtney, helper, both of Swissvale, were pinned in the cab and suffered severe bruises. They were released by police who chopped away a portion of the cab. Failure of brakes was blamed for the accident.

8 Bathers Drown At Shore Resorts

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—Eight persons were dead in New York City and New Jersey resort towns from drowning today.

One of the victims, Peter Calander, 29, rescued his wife from drowning, but, exhausted by the effort, lost his own life.

M'INTYRE NEW TRAFFIC HEAD

Lewis W. McIntyre, professor of highway engineering at Pitt, today was named traffic engineer by Mayor Kline to succeed Burton W. Marsh, who resigned to accept a similar position in Philadelphia.

McIntyre was immediately sworn in to the $7,500 position by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

The new engineer directed the 1927 traffic survey which led to the installation of the light system. Married, he lives in Woodwell avenue, East End. He graduated from Pitt in 1912.

Donald McNeil, Marsh's assistant, who applied for the promotion, was given a salary increase from $3,000 to $4,000.

Bandit Slain Trying To Hold Up Guards

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—An unidentified bandit who tried to hold up two private watchmen was shot and killed today in Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago. Mitchell Boland and Joseph Koler were seated in Boland's automobile when two men approached the car and drew revolvers. As the man on Boland's side swung the car door open Boland fired, killing him instantly.

PET DOG HOME AFTER 'ARREST'

Boll, the Great Dane, is home today after spending the night in a cell at Oakland Police Station.

Boll was "arrested" yesterday cause Boll took a liking to the policeman's beat and refused to leave. Matthews believed that because of the Dane's great bulk he might frighten pedestrians so Matthews had him lodged in jail.

Boll didn't mind the cell. He had a good dinner. Then, too, all the policemen marveled at his great size.

This morning it was found that the dog's owner was Mrs. B. L. Foster, 5533 Aylesboro avenue. Mrs. Foster was called on the phone and asked to come and get her dog, but she replied that Boll would come home if he were turned loose.

The Dane was released and rushed out into Forbes street, from where he soon started in the direction of Aylesboro avenue and home.

FUND FOR LAW STUDY CUT

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—The appropriations committee communicated to the Senate today its decision to give the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission only $50,000 instead of $250,000 next year, with the stipulation that it must be used entirely for a study of prohibition enforcement.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, sponsored the fund for the prohibition inquiry. President Hoover had asked another $250,000, but this fund was ruled out of the bill in the House.

Chairman Jones, of the appropriations committee, was the only member voting against the Glass amendment. He wanted a larger appropriation.

The bill will be taken up by the Senate probably tomorrow with fights on the law enforcement fund and the Boulder Canyon Dam appropriation threatening to delay action.

Lost Scout Feared Dead on Mountain

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 23.—(INS.)—Fear was held that Harold Johnson, 12-year-old son of the Pomona (Cal.) postmaster, was dead by relatives and friends today. He was lost three days ago on Mt. Jacinto and was believed to have perished in the cold. More than 200 men and several aviators today continued their search for the youth, who became lost from a party of hiking Boy Scouts.

BLUE LAW FOES WIN ELIZABETH

51,995 ballots cast, divided as follows:

	Men.	Women.	Total.
Enforcement	4,381	3,559	7,940
Modification	2,478	1,438	3,916
Repeal	27,566	12,573	40,139

These figures maintain the ratio of five votes for repeal to each vote for enforcement, which has prevailed for some days as the vote from the county outside Pittsburgh increased in volume. The totals represent 77 per cent for repeal, 15 per cent for enforcement and 8 per cent for modification.

The distribution of ballots throughout the county nears its close with the extension of the poll to the boroughs of West Elizabeth, West Homestead, West View and Whitaker. The remaining boroughs are Wilmerding and Wilkinsburg, the latter the largest borough in the county and the last to be reached in the alphabetical order of boroughs.

Big Liquor Shipment Ordered Destroyed

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today signed an order for the destruction of 2,300 bottles of Canadian whisky, champagne and other liquors seized by dry agents May 19 in a Pennsylvania railroad freight car at Aspinwall. The liquor was en route from Detroit to Brooklyn.

Ill Health Blamed In Suicide Attemp

Mrs. Antoinette Fraco, 55, of 540 Knox avenue, was in the South Side Hospital today as a result, police say, of a suicide attempt in her home early yesterday. Despondency over ill health was believed to have prompted Mrs. Fraco to slash her throat.

Hoover's Son, in Overalls, Tackles Factory Job

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Allan Hoover, second son of the President, donned overalls today and started work in the Bayonne, N. J., plant of the American Radiator Company.

In his second year at the Harvard School of Business, young Hoover, like most of his classmates, is spending the summer learning the manufacturing business from the ground up.

He is being given no special consideration, company officials said, and so far as the company is concerned, is just another college boy trying to get some practical education.

They did not know exactly what his salary will be, but said it was nothing to write home about.

Postal Worker Discovers 5-Year Debt, Pays Up

Diogenes gave up the search too soon! Howard G. Smith, of 423 Moore avenue, a clerk in Postmaster Gosser's office here, would have satisfied for the old-timer with the lantern, seeking an honest man.

In 1925 Smith purchased a ladder from George L. Bassett, a manufacturer's agent here. A small item, worth $1.20, was not in the billing. A bill for this amount was sent the purchaser with the notation that he need not pay it unless he desired. Since then the Bassett company retired from business, and its head had moved to Los Angeles, Cal.

A few days ago Bassett received a check for $1.20 from Smith. With it was a note:

"Sorry I haven't sent this before, but I just found the bill among other papers a few days ago."

Smith said it was "such a good ladder I couldn't bear not to pay for it."

JOHN D.'S GRANDSON WEDS PHILADELPHIA GIRL TODAY

WORLD TOUR HONEYMOON, THEN WORK

Bride Noted as Athlete; Bridegroom, 21, Soon To Enter Father's Office

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(AP.)—Miss Mary Todhunter Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hamilton Clark, of Cynwyd, a Philadelphia suburb, late this afternoon becomes the bride of Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, second son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York, and grandson of the oil pioneer, John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

More than 700 socially prominent of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and other cities will attend the ceremony at St. Joseph's Protestant Episcopal Church in Bala-Cynwyd.

Members of President Hoover's cabinet, senators and members of the diplomatic corps at Washington have been invited. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Benjamin N. Bird, rector of St. Asaph's.

BROTHER BEST MAN

Matrons of honor will be Mrs. Robert Page, Jr., and Mrs. Phillip Wallis, a sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids will be Miss Gwendolyn Roberts and Miss Eleanor Clark, cousins of the bride; Mrs. David Milton, New York, sister of Rockefeller; Miss Laura Wayne, Miss Catherine Clothier and Miss Alice Lippincott, of Philadelphia; Miss Genevieve Bell, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Beverly Coleman, Washington.

John D. Rockefeller III, will act as his brother's best man. After a reception at the Clark home Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller will leave on a honeymoon trip around the world.

Upon their return they will reside at Tarrytown, N. Y., where Mr. Rockefeller's father has erected a home for them on his Pocantico Hills estate. Mr. Rockefeller plans to enter his father's office in New York City immediately.

DARTMOUTH GRADUATE

Mr. Rockefeller is 21, and Miss Clark, 22. They have known each other several years, having become acquainted at Northeast Harbor, where their families have summer homes.

Their wedding comes shortly after Mr. Rockefeller's graduation from Dartmouth College, where he made a brilliant record in scholarship.

The bride is an expert horsewoman and swimmer and plays a good game of tennis. Her father is a Philadelphia attorney and her mother is the former Elizabeth Roberts, daughter of the late George B. Roberts, former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Besides her sister, Mrs. Wallis, she has six brothers.

Will Take Position In Father's Office

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(Universal)—True to his family's tradition, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller will go to work like any other office employe, his marriage today to Miss Mary Todhunter Clark, Philadelphia Junior Leaguer, revealed.

But even the stern discipline of the Croesus family will relax for that institution of all classes—the honeymoon. It won't be until after his return that the second son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will start work in his father's office.

Movie Celebrities Home From Europe

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—Jesse Lasky, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David Selznick and Pauline Starke were motion picture celebrities due to reach New York today on the liner Ile de France.

Evelyn Laye, English musical comedy star, who is also on the ship, will depart Wednesday for Hollywood, where she will begin production in a picture.

Japanese Flies Home East Around World

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(INS.)—Zensaku Azuma, Japanese flier, today was believed winging his way over Arizona and New Mexico on the first leg of his roundabout flight to Japan. Arriving in New York, he will ship his plane across the Atlantic Ocean, then fly across Europe and Asia to Tokio.

the gates with huge bouquets of flowers for Mrs. Lindbergh.

Meanwhile, weary-eyed reporters and camera men, who had kept an all-night vigil at the Morrow estate, waited patiently. The photographers were not permitted to take pictures of the baby and Mr. Morrow's secretary indicated no news announcements would be forthcoming during the day.

Ambassador Morrow was plainly jubilant last night. Shortly after the baby was born he went to the home of Douglas Thompson, former mayor of Englewood, and exclaimed:

"I'm a grand-daddy! Isn't that great news?"

Ambassador Morrow was more excited over the arrival of the baby than he was over his recent victory at the polls when he was nominated Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey.

"They say the baby looks like his father."

One of the Morrow servants told that to waiting reporters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh were married May 27, 1929. They have become known as the perfect air couple.

Despite her approaching motherhood, Mrs. Lindbergh clung to her custom of accompanying her famous husband on flights. Only four days ago they flew together to Hartford, Conn., from Teterboro airport, New Jersey.

NO BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Lindbergh had invited several friends for a quiet celebration of her birthday yesterday. The celebration was postponed, however, and all immediate members of the family remained in the Morrow home throughout the day.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of "Lindy," was expected to come to Englewood from her home in Grosse Pointe, Detroit.

Neighbors recalled the day that Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow were married on her father's estate; the courtship of Anne by the rather shy Lindbergh that preceded that event and the numerous flights Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh have made since the wedding day. In the last year they have flown more than 30,000 miles.

The romance of the Lindberghs rivals the most imaginative creations of fiction writers. A little more than three years ago, when Lindbergh made his thrilling and dramatic flight from New York to Paris, he was comparatively unknown and he did not realize he was flying into the limited gallery of world celebrities.

POEM FOR LINDY

He never thought he would capture the imagination of the world that he would be placed on a pedestal and idolized by young and old alike. Anne Morrow was only a schoolgirl then, and she wrote a poem to the Lone Eagle. Hundreds of others, in other ways, had paid tribute to the famous flier.

Anne had been class poet in 1928. After her graduation she continued to write poetry, and Scribner's Magazine published one of her most delightful bits of verse a few months later.

It was called "Height," and follows:

When I was young I felt so small,
And frightened for the world was tall.

And even grasses seemed to me
A forest of immensity.

Until I learned that I could grow—
A glance would leave them far below.

Spanning a tree's height with my eye,
Suddenly I soared on high.

And looking on a star, as I grew,
I pushed my head against the blue.

Still, like a singing lark, I find
Rapture to leave the grass behind.

And sometimes standing in a crowd,
My lips are cool against a cloud.

3 Men Held in Killing Of Oklahoma Sheriff

SAYRE, Okla., June 23.—(AP.)—Three men are in jail today for investigation in connection with the slaying of Sheriff C. H. Phillips. One, Joe Pounds, a former deputy, has confessed, Hubert Ivester, county attorney, announced.

The others are Frank Griffin and Jess Brown, farmers. Pounds, the county attorney said, admitted killing Phillips in retaliation for a liquor raid the sheriff had conducted at the Griffin farm.

Reception Tonight For Hines and Band

A welcome for Earl Hines, former Duquesne music student, and his 11-piece Negro band, is slated for Duquesne Garden this evening. Hines and his orchestra were to play at a dance in the ballroom, with Lois B. Deppe, Chicago night club entertainer, as master of ceremonies. The music was to be broadcast over station WCAE from 8 to 8:30 o'clock.

RYDER INDICTED FOR LARCENY

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—Harold Russell Ryder, of the bankrupt Woody & Co., was indicted here today on two counts—grand larceny and receiving stolen property. Arraignment is expected tomorrow.

The charges are that Ryder accepted $95,670 from John Vanneck, president of the Equitable Holding Company, for stocks never delivered.

Ryder's meteoric rise to millions and his similar fall were frequent Broadway and Wall street topics today.

A hint that political figures were interested in Ryder was given in revelations by the district attorney that the names of several prominent politicians had been found in Ryder's diary.

Turners Gathering For Buffalo Meet

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—Approximately 500 turners from the Lincoln Turnverin of Chicago and nearby cities departed today for the annual American Turnerbund national turnfest, which opens tomorrow at Buffalo, N. Y.

LIDO CAFE GETS U. S. PADLOCK

One downtown restaurant was ordered padlocked in Federal Court today, while the government sought, at final injunction hearings, to have the lip clamped on three cabarets—the Showboat, Nixon and Plaza.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker signed an order padlocking the Lido restaurant, 54[8] Sixth avenue, adjoining the Plaza Building, headquarters of federal dry agents, for one year.

Prohibition agents testified they had bought liquor in the place May 10. William V. Foglia, proprietor, testified he had discharged the waiter who sold the liquor, as he had violated orders. Federal agents, he said, had been among his regular customers. Leo Coleman, former assistant superintendent of police, was a witness for Foglia.

At a hearing in the Nixon Cafe case, Agent H. W. Olsen testified to seeing bottles at tables and drunken aptrons dancing.

The Show Boat is under preliminary padlock injunction.

CANNON CALLS MEXICO ELATED FOE 'WELCHER' OVER 'EAGLET'

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(INS.)—James Cannon, Jr., the militant bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Virginia charged today that Representative Tinkham (Rep.), of Massachusetts, "welched" when he accepted his challenge to repeal under his signature the accusations he made in the House Tuesday under congressional immunity.

Cannon now asks the representative to have several copies of his House speech typewritten and sent to him and several indicated persons under his personal signature.

Tinkham's speech on the House floor was a scathing denunciation of the bishop's management of the anti-Smith faction in Virginia during the 1928 campaign. It concerned Cannon's expenditure of $65,300 given him by E. C. Jameson, New York insurance man. $48,300 of which, it is charged, has not been reported as required by law.

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(INS.)—Mexico showed deep interest today in the new-born son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

Mexico City and its environs were the setting of the courtship of Anne and the Lone Eagle while the latter was house guest of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow after his 1927 goodwill non-stop flight from Washington here.

President Ortiz Rubio said:

"I take this opportunity through the American press publicly to congratulate Col. Lindbergh and his wife. Without delay, I am extending my personal congratulations."

Cuernavaca, where the American ambassador has his summer home, was overjoyed at the birth of his grandson.

Boy, 5, Saved From Madman's Attack

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(INS.)—Dominic Capabianco, 29, an escaped madman from Byberry Insane Asylum, is back in that institution today following an enraged attack on Cosmos Carranzo, 5, which threw residents in the vicinity of the youngster's home into panic last night.

Capabianco escaped yesterday and became enraged when neighbors recognized him after he returned to his former home here. He was choking young Carranzo when police took him into custody.

"City of Chicago" In Air 278 Hours

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—The refueling endurance plane, City of Chicago, passed its 278th hour in the air over Sky Harbor airport at 7:40 a. m. today.

To break the world record of 420 hours 21 minutes and 30 seconds held by the St. Louis Robin, Kenneth and John Hunter, brother pilots of the City of Chicago, must remain aloft until after 5:01:30 a. m. next Sunday morning.

In an attempt last year in a plane called Chicago—We Will, the two brothers remained aloft 261 hours.

Woman in California Race for Governor

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(AP.)—For the first time in the history of California, a woman is among the candidates for nomination as governor. She is Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, of Los Angeles.

In addition to Mrs. Foltz, the Republican candidates are C. C. Young, incumbent; Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, and Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles County. Milton K. Young, of Los Angeles, is the Democratic candidate.

1929 Jewish-Arab Riots Investigated

JERUSALEM, June 23.—(AP.)—The Wailing Wall Commission, investigating the situation which caused the Arab-Jewish riots here last August, began its work in a secret session this morning before high government officials and Jewish and Arab representatives.

Brock, Schlee Hop For Detroit, Home

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 23.—(AP.)—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, who recently established a new speed record for a round-trip transcontinental flight from Jacksonville to San Diego, Cal., hopped off here today for their home at Detroit.

Clara Ill in New York; 'Nerves,' Says Harry

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Clara Bow, flame-haired movie star, who changed her railroad ticket to Hollywood from Dallas, Tex., to New York—for love of Harry Richman—was ill in bed here today.

Handsome Harry, on his way up to her suite in the Hotel Warwick to hold her hand a bit, explained:

"Not seriously ill—just indigestion.

"The poor kid is all nerve-shattered, anyway, about all that bunk they spread when she was down in Dallas."

Richman was referring to reports from Dallas, while Clara was there, that she was settling an alienation suit brought by the wife of a Texas doctor.

Clara has denied this repeatedly.

Asked if it was a fact Miss Bow had come to New York to marry him, Richman said he did not know but that he was ready to be married today, if she says so."

France Hails 'Lindy Junior' As Birth Is Announced

PARIS, June 23.—(AP.)—"Lindy Junior," like his illustrious flying father, has been adopted by France so far as public affection is concerned.

Virtually all newspapers printed announcement of the birth of the boy on their front pages today, thus indicating the importance they attach to the Lindbergh family.

"Lindy" himself comes first, naturally, in France's affections. Like the former American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, his place in French hearts is immortal.

But Mrs. Lindbergh also won a place in French regard when she decided to fly with her husband.

The coming now of their son has caused rejoicing in France, where family life is so powerful a tie. The advent of Baby Lindbergh was the favorite topic of discussion today in homes and public places, while in restaurants "good luck for Baby Lindbergh" was heard often.

Dawes and Stricken Aide Recall Early Careers

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 23.—(AP.)—Gen. Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, became plain "Charley" Dawes yesterday as he tiptoed into a sanitarium here to visit Francis Kilkenney, his office boy of more than 35 years ago.

Dawes came from Chicago for a chat with the man, now 48, who had grown up in service with him. Kilkenney obtained his first job when Dawes was comptroller of currency during President McKinley's administration. The lad became an ardent partisan of his patron and followed him through to the vice presidency. Then Kilkenney's health broke and he became an inmate of the Sacred Heart Sanitarium.

For more than an hour, Dawes and Kilkinney dwelt in the past. They talked of the days under McKinley; of their war experiences together when the young Irishman became a lieutenant and aide to Dawes; of the campaign that boosted Dawes to the vice president's chair.

"Francis is coming over to see me this summer when his health improves," Dawes said as he left.

ATLANTIC CITY MAYOR KILLED

ABSECON, N. J., June 23.—(AP)—Mayor Anthony M. Ruffu, Jr., of Atlantic City, and three other persons were killed today when an automobile was struck by a shore-bound Philadelphia-Atlantic City express on a grade crossing here.

Ruffu, who was 52, was identified by papers in his pocket. The other dead are John Wiley, 52, his wife, Lillian, 40, of Ventnor, and Margaret C. Siracuse, 37, of Ventnor, widow of Stephen Siracusa, a brother of Mayor Ruffu's wife and an aunt of Assemblyman Anthony J. Siracusa, of Atlantic City.

The automobile Mayor Ruffu's car was struck squarely in the center by the southbound Pennsylvania Railroad train. The wreckage was strewn over the tracks for more than 100 yards.

So terrific was the crash that the engine of the flyer was disabled and it was necessary to send another engine from Atlantic City to draw the train into the station.

Mayor Ruffu reputed to be extremely wealthy, was a powerful political figure at the shore resort, where there had been several efforts to oust him.

TRIBUTE PAID TO PENNINGTON

TO LEAVE JULY 1

Pennington is scheduled to leave his duties in Pittsburgh July 1 for a new administrative post not yet announced.

It is expected that Pennington's successor will be named Wednesday following his scheduled conference with dry bureau attaches at Washington. He will leave for Washington late tomorrow.

In his speech Commander Pennington lauded Commissioner Roger Knox for his co-operation with the dry bureau.

FLAYS GRAFTERS

The speaker traced lawlessness to dishonest officials and failure certain judges to adequately punish for crime.

Because of close co-operation by county authorities with Federal Court and dry attaches, cases from only four counties in Pennington's district are disposed of here, he said.

In 21 out of 25 counties, the speaker related, violations of the prohibition act are turned into the local prosecutor's office to be tried later.

Later Pennington introduced his staff of assistants to the gathering, as well as R. E. Joyce, deputy administrator of Southern West Virginia, Charleston, and his colleague, H. G. Reynolds, of Fairmont.

Today's farewell dinner was sponsored by the Pittsburgh Council of Churches, Allegheny County Anti-Saloon League, National Reform Association and service men.

MINISTERS SPEAK

The Rev. J. W. Claudy was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

POST, FAMOUS AUTHOR, DEAD

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 23.—Melville Davisson Post, 59, noted short-story writer and member of a prominent family of this county, died this morning in a Clarksburg hospital.

He was stricken while horseback riding near his country home, "The Chanty," near here, June 10.

Mr. Post was a descendant of Virginia pioneers. He was trained for law, but left the profession when, as a young man, he won success with serial stories describing the mysteries of one Randolph Mason.

In 1903 Mr. Post married Miss Anna Bloomfield Gamble, of Roanoke, Va., who died in 1919.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, wife of Representative Joseph Post, Democrat, of Connecticut, died at her home here today. She was 53 years old.

Mrs. Post was a daughter of the late C. W. Post, breakfast food manufacturer, and a granddaughter of the late Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island.

calmly gathered up the loot. The two bandits left the store leisurely as John Kosar, 1418 Woodlawn avenue, entered carrying a box of meat on his shoulders. He did not suspect their mission.

Silverman and Massey unlocked the ice box door from the inside and came out. The robbers had disappeared.

Silverman told police the bandits were between 25 and 30 years old, wore straw hats and good clothes.

HOLDUP ON HILL

While the White Front Market was being held up, two Negroes entered Mack's Meat Market, 2144 Wylie avenue, and ordered $8.20 of meat from Samuel Weltman, clerk.

One of the Negroes said he had only a $50 bill. At that moment the proprietor Max Court arrived. He and Weltman went to a safe to get the change, stooping over to unlock it.

As they straightened up the two looked into the muzzles of revolvers held by the robbers. The bandits backed Court and Weltman into a corner, looted the safe of $1,100 and a diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Court and fled after threatening to shoot if outcry was made.

Court gave a description of the Negroes to police, who began combing the Hill district for suspects.

Running to Ship, He Knocks Man Off Pier

CHERBOURG, France, June 23.—(AP)—It is dangerous to be in the way of a tourist in a hurry to catch his boat. Alfred Clark, an Englishman, running on a pier for a steamer, crashed into Julian Lesaulnier, stevedore, knocking him into the water. O. C. Herring, of Easton, Pa., an enlisted man of the United States battleship Arkansas, dived off the pier to the rescue. Clark was arrested.

U. S. Sailor Stabbed Trying to Stop Fight

CHERBOURG, France, June 23.—(AP)—An American sailor from the battleship Arkansas today was in a critical condition following a stabbing affray ashore last night. The bluejacket, whose name was said to be Plec, was stabbed in the back when he tried to stop a fight between French and Polish seamen. The blade penetrated his lung.

Separated, Wife Cooks Meals, Divorced

After 40 years of married life, Mrs. Carolina Klinkner, 59, was granted a divorce today by Judge Frank P. Patterson from Nicholas Klinkner, 62, on the grounds of cruelty.

The two reside at 406 Hays avenue, Mt. Oliver, the wife testified, since their separation more than a year ago. She still cooks his meals, she said.

Asked why she wanted a divorce she said he beat her and added: "The Good Book says three score and ten years is the span of life and I want to live my last 10 in peace."

VALLEY STEEL OUTPUT DROPS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 23.—Operating schedules of midwest iron and steel companies for the last week in June show the industry will not maintain in the current month the operating average of May. Declines in production during this month are accentuated in schedules as announced for this week, which indicate an average operating rate of 60 per cent.

The Carnegie Steel Company reduces operations 10 per cent, to an average rate of 58 per cent average, its lowest in several years. On the other hand, the Mahoning Valley Steel Company at Niles and the Falcon plant at Niles of the Empire Steel Corporation, Mansfield, resume production.

Of 51 independent open hearth furnaces 28 are scheduled, with Bessemer steel output at 60 per cent. There is an increase in the number of active sheet mills in the valley to 63 of 120 total, against 47 rolling the week before. Not all of the mills, however, are scheduled for a full week's rolling.

The Republic Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company are maintaining 65 per cent average. These two companies expect to get into production during July on recent steel pipe awards. Independent tinplate mills are averaging 60 per cent, while strip mills are closer to 65 per cent, which represents a moderate gain in output.

POPE ELEVATES TWO AS SAINTS

VATICAN CITY, June 23.—(AP.)—At an impressive ceremony at Saint Peter's yesterday, two new names were added to the roster of saints of the Catholic church. Many Americans were present.

Pope Pius solemnly proclaimed the canonization of Caterina Thoma, a Spanish canoness, and Lulucia Filippini, Italian founder of a teaching order of nuns.

Bishop Thomas J. Walsh, of Newark, N. J., who has a large colony of Filippini sisters teaching in his diocese, participated in a religious procession before the actual canonization.

The Pope, after pronouncing the canonizations, stipulated that Saint Caterina Thoma should be venerated every twelfth of April and Saint Lulucia Filippini every twenty-fifth of March.

Shot From His Own Rifle Kills Camper

COUDERSPORT, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—Robert Hammaker, 22, of Harrisburg, who with a party of friends was camping near here, was accidentally shot and killed.

According to police Hammaker and several of his friends had been shooting at a mark with .22 caliber rifles. As they attempted to conceal the guns at the approach of a motorist, police said, Hammaker's rifle was discharged. The bullet struck him in the head.

Blind War Veteran Gives Blood To Nephew

BALTIMORE, June 23.—(AP.)—A blind war veteran, victim of snipers in the Argonne Forest in 1918, came to the rescue of his nephew, Walter L. McNamara, 21, and gave him a quart of blood to save his life.

McNamara was in Union Memorial Hospital suffering from septic poisoning, following an attack of grip.

His uncle, Joseph Hulin, at one time Sergt. Joseph Hulin, of the Fourth Division, U. S. Army, was the donor. A veteran of eight years' service in the Army, he was in the Philippine and Mexican border campaigns as well as the World War.

200 ENGULFED AS SPAN OPENS

CHEMNITZ, Germany, June 23.—(AP.)—Two hundred spectators crowding a bridge over the Chemnitz River and watching swimmers below were plunged into the swirling water by the collapse of the bridge this afternoon.

About 90 were injured, several seriously. Many children were hurt.

Pores, Oily Skin Had Me Frantic

Try this New Hollywood Recipe for a Beautiful Skin

Out in Hollywood they have a wonderful recipe for a lotion that quickly reduces large pores, removes blackheads and makes the skin nice and smooth.

The very minute you pat it on the face it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt. It removes blackheads, closes the pores and makes the skin smooth, good-looking and youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that the skin is not oily or disfigured with perspiration that streaks make-up.

If you want a smooth, soft, beautiful skin free from large pores, blackheads, crow's feet and oiliness, just get 3 ounces of Orchard White from your druggist and mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. Then you have a full quarter-pint of the finest lotion you have ever used. Try it.

Note: During the summer months this amazing lotion is indispensable to the outdoor girl. It keeps the skin smooth and free from freckles, and guards against that leathery, aged-worn look caused by sun and wind.

PORTER LAUDED FOR EMBASSIES

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—The State Department in publishing the report of Ambassador William R. Castle, Jr., on the dedication of the new embassy buildings in Tokio, May 26, paid a tribute to Representative Stephen G. Porter, who is ill in Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh.

As chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Pittsburgher was largely responsible, his colleagues have asserted, in the passage of legislation which would permit the construction of American foreign offices in keeping with the wealth and dignity of the country. As chairman of the Foreign Service Buildings Commission, Porter, after extensive travel through foreign lands, was enabled to counsel American architects in the preparation of structures which followed, in the main, the early American Colonial dwelling principle.

When the Foreign Affairs Committee was holding hearings on the Foreign Service Buildings bill, the late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore, of Pittsburgh, vividly described his chagrin, when, on reporting for duty at Madrid, he found the American consular office in a room above a saloon.

Two Pennsylvanians of distinction, Cyrus Woods, of Greensburg, now state attorney general, and Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, have served as ambassadors to Japan. Both repeatedly urged the United States to improve the offices and residences comprising this country's Japanese domicile.

PRIEST DROWNS SAVING 2 GIRLS

MONTREAL, June 23.—(AP)—The Rev. Raymond Cloran, S. J., prefect of discipline at Loyola College here, was drowned in the St. Lawrence River today after a heroic rescue of two young girls who got beyond their depth while bathing.

Father Cloran, who was 46, was bathing at Vardennes when he noticed the two girls in difficulty.

The priest swam to their assistance while two girls put out in a rowboat. Father Cloran helped both girls into the boat, but was too exhausted to save himself.

Dry Agents Fired Over Liquor Party

NELSONVILLE, O., June 23.—(AP)—State Prohibition Agents Russell and Eugene Shearer, brothers, of Alliance, were dismissed from the service after being fined on liquor charges.

The brothers were arrested following an automobile ride with four girls, one of which fell from the car and was injured. Russell Shearer was fined $100 and costs for driving while intoxicated, and Eugene Shearer $10 for being intoxicated. Both pleaded guilty.

Specially Priced

Imported suede gloves . . . so velvety soft you wonder how they can be so low priced. And their washability makes them the perfect accessory for summer.

These gloves are the average slip-on length, with pinked tops. Three shades are available:

Gray—to wear with black, blue or gray costumes.

Clear Beige—to wear with your pastels, white, and beiges.

Sunbrown—smart with pastels, and sheer blue or black costumes.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Five-Piece Desk Sets

$4.95

Of brass, including inkwell, stamp case, letter opener, rocker blotter, and a 12x19-inch pad with brass corners.

A limited number have been marked at this special price.

. . . Horne's, Stationery Section, Main Floor . . .

Pastel Georgettes

Ensembles of pastel-color georgette crepe are appropriate costumes for summer teas, morning weddings and for afternoons at the country club.

They have long-sleeve dresses, long, straight coats, or sleeveless jackets with capes. Some of the coats show a touch of hand-embroidery.

$39.50

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Ruffled Curtains

Wide Self-Ruffle, Cornice Valance and Tie-Backs—500 Pairs Specially Priced

$1.95

This is the opportunity-of-the-month to pick up dainty and attractive curtains for the summer.

Made of cream-color marquisette with large coin dots in solid colors: rose, blue, gold, green and orchid. They are extra width curtains and have a wide self-ruffle, with matching tie-backs.

There is a wide double ruffled cornice valance across the top. They're 2¼ yards long. Unusual at $1.95 a set.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

Hickory or Maple Rockers and Chairs

$3.85

Hickory is popular for outdoor use. Both chairs and rockers have been sanded down to a smooth finish. Woven seats. The rockers have arms; some of the chairs are without arms, suitable for camp dining rooms.

The maple chairs and rockers are excellent for porch or sunroom. All have broad arms, turned stretchers and high or low backs. Natural finish.

. . . Horne's, Sixth Floor . . .

Makes a Cedar Closet of Any Clothes Closet

A time-tested moth preventive which gives off a lasting cedar aroma exceedingly pleasant to human beings, but deadly to moths. The No-Moth container attaches to the baseboard of your clothes closet. Brush your clothes as usual, then hang them in the closet and forget them. The cedar scent protects but does not cling to them. The No-Moth device complete, $2.00. Refills, $1.50.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Camp Blankets

Large Size, All-Wool

$5.00 Each

Here's a light, buoyant khaki all-wool blanket that will keep you warm on camping trips. Larger than is ordinarily found except at higher prices, 72x84 inches. Built to stand abuse and to serve without soiling.

Use one of these blankets on the beach. Spread it on the grass when distant green hills invite a basket lunch. Take one or two along to your summer cottage for unexpectedly cold nights.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

A "Cecil" Insulated Gas Range

Will Keep the Kitchen Cool

Summer's torrid days call for a range with an insulated oven, such as is found in the "Cecil." The insulation keeps the heat inside the oven, circulated with fresh air, preventing "kitchen sunburn." The "Cecil" is also equipped with a thermostatic heat control, insuring baking success, holding the heat at any desired temperature for any period of time.

This range has a full size oven, with rust-proof porcelain enamel lining and a large size utility drawer. In all-white with black trim, or ivory with green trim. Complete with aluminum pipe and caster cups. Convenient payments arranged. $79.50.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Tricolator

The Healthful Way of Making Coffee

The Tricolator is the new, sanitary way of making coffee, without boiling. The Tricolator boils the water, not the coffee. Clear brown, fragrant, full-flavored coffee results, free from the coffee bean fats. The tricolation system draws out the whole virtue and flavor of the coffee in a single passing. It works quickly, without waste. Come in and see this interesting method demonstrated.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Luncheon Cloths

In Gaily Colored Patterns

$1.95

For a jolly tea or luncheon on the porch or out in the garden, you'll find these cloths a happy inspiration. They're charming, too, as breakfast cloths. They are a cotton heavy momie weave with hand-printed designs in striking color combinations.

If you wish to serve tea or luncheon outdoors on an umbrella table, we will gladly make them suitable for this purpose at a slight additional charge. 51x51-inch size, $1.95. 51x63-inch size, $2.85.

. . . Horne's, Fourth Floor . . .

A Coat for Travel In Smart Circles

Its English tweed which would distinguish it on a whole deck full of steamer coats, a fabric which will never wrinkle, and which does not add bulk to the figure . . . Its intriguing colors—brown-and-orange, brown-and-tan, blue-and-gold, amethyst-and-gray, black-orange-and-white . . . Its new Bernard collar, completed by natural lynx fur, which will not be affected by salt air.

. . . For the above points of superiority, it is worth the price which smart voyagers are gladly paying for it in the Women's Wear Weave Coat Section —$150.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

AN EXISTING DIFFERENCE between Mr. Primo Carnera and Mr. George Godfrey will be settled tonight at Philadelphia in a 10-round bout to be broadcast at 10 o'clock by WJAS in Pittsburgh. The fight may be serious. Again it may be ludicrous. Therein's the attraction.

Things more refined include a special party for Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and Paul Siple, the Erie Boy Scout, on WJAS at 9 a tribute to Jane brides on the Family Party, WCAE at 9:30 and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde speaking to the Four-H Clubs on WCAE at 11. The Four-H broadcast will include a blow-by-blow description of an old-fashioned pillow fight and music by the Marine Band.

Mary Hopple

Wendell Hall, host for Shell, WCAE at 10:30, will sing "I Kiss Your Hand, Madame" and "Who."

Wedding music in the Family Party program will be very beautiful. The chorus will sing "Oh, Promise Me" and the Prelude to Act III of Wagner's "Lohengrin."

The Plane of Dreams, WCAE at 10, will soar into ethereal bliss, with Mary Hopple singing "I Love You Truly."

PHILLIPS LORD

A new series of episodes written by Phillips H. Lord, better known as "Seth Parker," will have their debut tonight at 6:45 through WEAF and WCAE. Lord will play one of the characters in "Uncle Abe and David," which will portray the daily happenings in the lives of two rural characters in partnership as owners of a general store in Skowhegan, Me. Arthur Allen, who played the role of "Gus" in Schradertown Band, will be the other character.

M. Davis, Gastonville, Pa.—Charley Hamp does his stuff for WTAM at 10 tonight, tomorrow at 8, Wednesday and Thursday at 9 and Friday at 9:30, Pittsburgh time.

BIG FISH STORY

A recent circus had a 60-foot whale on exhibition. Allen Thrasher was all for paying 25 cents to see the monster, but R. P. Griffith (Gus Schmaltz) discouraged him thus:

"Jonah might have been swallowed by a whale but we are not going to be taken in!"

KDKA is to have the finish of the annual Ohio River steamboat race at Cincinnati this Saturday afternoon at 5:30.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

To imitate the hoof beats of a galloping steed, the cello player in a radio orchestra pulls the instument up to his neck and skillfully beats a succession of staccato notes by slapping his fingers and whole hand across the cello's body. Some musicians think the cello gives a better rendition of hoof beats than the stage cocoanut shells.

FILM PUBLICITY REFORM VOTED

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Advertising and publicity directors of 19 motion picture producing firms announce they have agreed to a code of advertising ethics to establish "definite standards of truth in advertising for the guidance of advertising and publicity directors, house managers and others."

The new code specifies that "good taste shall be the guiding rule of motion picture advertising."

Other provisions prohibit false and misleading statements, ridiculing of religion or religious faith, profanity and vulgarity, "nudity with meretricious purpose and salacious postures," capitalizing of censorship disputes, and "specific details of crime, inciting to imitation."

Wilkinsburg Names Woman to Board

Mrs. Fannie H. Stephens, widow of the late Dr. P. W. Stevens, has been elected to the Wilkinsburg school board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. J. G. Chalfant. Mrs. Stephens is visiting in Lancaster and took the oath of office at that place, the papers having been forwarded to her.

KONJOLA ENDS RHEUMATISM AND OTHER AILMENTS

Pittsburgh Lady Eager to Praise New Medicine for Wonderful Relief From Painful Ailments.

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place." Time after time, in one form or another, this statement has been made by grateful men and women of all ages who have found prompt and lasting relief from ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Scientifically compounded from 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of well-known medicinal roots and herbs, Konjola attacks the very source of the ailment, sweeps impurities from the system and stimulates the ailing organs. Taken regularly over a six to eight-week period, this master medicine has made a record that would challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified. Read the experience of Mrs. Olive Gold, 45 Henderson Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, then see the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and hear all the story. Here is Mrs. Gold's experience in her own words:

"I suffered for a long time with nervous indigestion. My general condition was badly rundown and I did not rest at night. I had little or no appetite and often went for days with little or no food. Rheumatism centered in my arms and back and the pains were frightful. There were times when I could not raise my arms. Food fermented in my stomach and the accumulated gas caused bloating and pains that sometimes seemed unbearable.

"Three bottles of Konjola brought about an amazing change in my condition. I no longer bloated after meals and the pains from gas passed away. I slept well at night and my nerves were calm. The pains from rheumatism grew less and less until they finally disappeared. I recommended Konjola to my son, who took it with the same wonderful results. I will always be a booster for this great medicine."

And so it goes—the same glad story whenever this great medicine is given a chance to make good.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY LIFE; REVIEW OF NEW TALKIE

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That among other wild reports passed along by the Broadway rumorogues is that his real tag isn't Schmeling and that he was born in Milwaukee and went to Germany at the age of three.

That the laundry mark on your shirt is registered at police headquarters to identify your corpse.

That Hindu women do not join their men at the dining table, but eat the left-overs by themselves.

That the rich Sailor's Snug Harbor institution leases part of its Manhattan land to Wanamaker's for $1,110,000 yearly.

That the mosquito, like most insects, is far stronger, relative to size, than any mamma!

That the only thing to drink in torrid weather is buttermilk, because it is not fatty food and produces no heat.

That in the sweat band of our ex-police commissioner's panama hat it says in gold letters, "Woven expressly for Grover Whalen."

That there are eight metals more valuable than gold.

That there are certain kinds of fish that can walk on land, from one body of water to another. Found in Asiatic waters.

That in 1910 the waters of Santa Cruz Bay turned black!

That Akron, a Greek means "height," which is why that Ohio city (1,000 feet above sea level) is so christened.

That most of the men who perished in that Ohio prison catastrophe were in that jail because of the prohibition law.

That the bones of Columbus were interred originally at Seville, were removed to Santo Domingo, thence to Havana, and finally in 1899 returned to Seville, but no one knows exactly where.

That the etiquet books assert if a guest breaks a plate, the hostess should do so "accidentally," so he won't be embarrassed.

That there is no such thing as "temporary" insanity.

That there is an African people among whom wives must get down on their knees, crawling on hands, to talk to their husbands.

That the reason most people cross their fingers to ward off harm is that they are making "a representation of the Cross, the most powerful symbol against evil."

That medical men aver that children born of parents under 40 have the better physique, those over 40 the stronger mental powers.

That a knockout of a diet goes like this: For only one day each week at 8 a. m. drink a cup of tea or coffee, at 10 ditto, at noon a glass of hot milk, at 2 p. m. a glass of cold milk and soda, at 4 p. m. a cup of tea, at 6 a glass of cold water, at 8 a glass of hot milk, at 9 or 9:30 a cup of tea or coffee, bedtime a glass of hot milk. On other days of the week any sort of food may be eaten, provided it includes plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruits, a little butter is permissible. Daily exercises for 5 or 10 minutes will help to speed your reduction.

That the origin of the phrases "two-bits," "four-bits" and "six-bits" is that the American dollar was originally modeled on the old Spanish dollar, which was divided into eight parts, or "bits," in other words, "pieces of eight."

That when Helen Broderick or the others in "Fifty Million Frenchmen," tell oo-la-la jokes back stage between cues, Genevieve Tobin stuffs her ears with her fingers.

That motorists will vow that their cars ascend Magnetic Hill, Hollywood, without power. It is an optical illusion.

That the Irish were the first Europeans to recognize the potato as a staple food product. Peruvians, however, ate 'em in 1553.

That there is no scientific foundation for the popular belief that swimming is easier in deep water.

That our flag is named "Old Glory" because when Capt. Wm. Driver, of Salem, Mass., was presented with a beautiful American flag in 1824 he was so thrilled he exclaimed "Old Glory!" A hundred years afterward the original flag was presented to the National Museum.

That Washington never threw a dollar across the Potomac. The myth was blogd by Mason Locke Weems, an itinerant preacher. No person could possibly hurl a dollar across it, but a good thrower could chuck a stone across the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg.

And that there is a speakeasy in the Flaming Forties which displays this placard over its bar:

"Anyone asking to have a check cashed will be pronounced intoxicated and thrown out on his ear!"

Al Jolson Is Biggest Star In Germany Right Now, Says Film Official

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.

A plan is afoot for United Artists to send Al Jolson to Europe to make a German version of "Sons o' Guns." If no hitch develops, Al will do this before he films the English version in Hollywood.

The project is inspired by the visit here of Curtis Mehlitz, president and chairman of the Terra Film Company of Europe. This organization releases United Artists pictures in Germany.

Al Jolson.

According to Mehlitz, Jolson is the biggest star over there right now. Only two of his pictures have been shown: "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool." Both have been tremendous successes. Mehlitz has proposed that Al follow up as soon as possible with his first U. A. picture, and Joseph Schenck is said to be very favorable. Matters will be definitely settled, one way or another, when Schenck and Mehlitz meet in New York shortly.

Al seems to be enthusiastic over the idea. Waiting around in Hollywood is trying to this dynamic performer.

It is pointed out, too, that Lily Damita already is in Europe so she would be easily available to play the feminine lead. She's to be opposite Al in the English version, too.

Mr. Mehlitz, head of the German film company, is well versed in American film methods, as he used to be a publicity man for United Artists in this country. Later, he went to represent them in Germany.

Lily Damita

He tells me that Jolson's phonograph records of the numbers in "The Singing Fool" have had the greatest sales of any records ever introduced in Germany. And this doesn't except opera.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM!

Ned Sparks, R-K-O comedian, says he was the cause of Los Angeles losing one name in the recent census. When the enumerator called at his apartment, he stuck his head out the door and gave the required information. Being a little late for the studio, Ned decided to make up at home. Having done so, he started down the hall and was stopped by the enumerator, who didn't recognize him.

"Just a moment," said Ned, "you've got me already. I'm Sparks."

An hour later, another actor started out of the building with his makeup on. Seeing the enumerator at work, he paused and said:

"Say, you haven't counted me yet."

"Go on," replied the man witheringly, "you can't fool me again. You're Sparks."

Well, even if you don't believe it, it's a good story.

THE JUNGLE EXPOSE!

The Hays office has just denounced a so-called travel picture, "Ingagi," in which a man ingeniously impersonates a gorilla.

Thousands of people were taken in by this deception, among them a famous movie comedian. His enthusiasm was so great that it infected Joseph Schenck, Douglas Fairbanks and Sid Grauman. None of them had seen the picture, but when the comedian had finished his graphic description of the death of the gorilla, they wanted to buy the film.

By this time, the comedian admits, he had elaborated the story until a lion jumped upon a cameraman and shook him like a rat. As a matter of fact, this scene is said to have been staged with a trained lion right here in Hollywood.

The expose of the picture has left the comedian open-mouthed, but he's cheerfully joining in the laugh upon himself.

HOLLYWOOD AT A GLANCE

Colleen Moore is commencing to go around now after her divorce from John McCormick (not the singer). She was at a local night club this week as hostess to a party. Anderson Lawlor, Hollywood actor, was her escort. Another couple in the party were Julanne Johnston and Harold Grieve, the art director. . . . Ann Harding and Harry Bannister have moved into their new home on top one of Hollywood's highest hills. . . Jack Warner, Jr., who is 14 years old, made a speech this week at the ground-breaking of a new Warner theater. . . First National and Warner Brothers are to emulate M. G. M. and have a golf tournament. . . Warner's has its annual shut-down, by the way, about the last of August. . . First National apparently is to carry on with "Kismet" at least. This picture is scheduled to be four months in production.

DID YOU KNOW that Al Jolson lost $750,000 on the stock market in two days?

Bear Gives Town Scare; Escapes After Capture

READING, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—A black bear, the first seen in this vicinity in almost 50 years, peacefully inspected the streets of Lock Haven while men, women and children took to their homes and cattle beat a swift retreat.

The bear was first seen near Hamburg in a field and then continued its idle pace, stopping at a farmhouse to drink out of a cattle trough. In Lock Haven it was finally chased into a garage and a group of men, armed with shotguns, felt satisfied it was a prisoner. A few minutes later the bear left by pushing out a window. It was last seen going back toward Hamburg.

Lovely skin is irresistible, says Hollywood! Do you face your close-up test as confidently as the stars face theirs?

Is yours, too, a skin lovely in the most pitiless light?

HOW people love the close-up! How irresistibly they are drawn by the loveliness revealed in a flood of light near to them.

"Only the girl with exquisite skin can pass the close-up test," 45 Hollywood directors declare.

A cruel test of beauty which you, too, must pass! Admiring eyes close to you must find your skin temptingly soft and smooth. Have you the confidence in your power to attract which only such alluring skin can give? You can have!

You can use the same gentle care that the beloved Hollywood favorites do.

You can keep your skin lovely with Lux Toilet Soap!

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap to guard complexion beauty. Their enthusiasm has made it the official soap in all the great film studios.

On Broadway, too, the stage stars are so dependent on its delicate luxury that it is in the dressing rooms of legitimate theaters all over the country—And even in Europe the screen stars know the secret of this dainty way to loveliness, and use this fragrant white soap for their beauty.

ROMANCE OF SISTERS BRINGS MOLLY AND SALLY TO HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Molly O'Day and Sally O'Neil, actresses of the stage and screen, are dominating the current bill in the Harris. They are featured in the talk film, "Sisters," and, in addition, make personal appearances.

The girls are sisters in real life O'Day and O'Neil being their theatrical names. Molly is really Suzanne Dobson Noonan and Sally is Virginia Louise Noonan. But what's in a name!

OUR FASHION NOTE!

Molly is a blond and Sally is a brunet. In their stage appearances, made in conjunction with the Victor Graff presentation, they talk, sing and do a lot of smiling. Molly wears a white dress—maybe it's satin, maybe it's silk—and Sally is garbed in a fluffy dress of blue. Which isn't the way the fashion experts would describe them. But that's the best we can do.

The picture, "Sisters," offers the story of two girls who want the things they haven't got. Molly portrays a young woman, who has a husband and baby, but who has grown tired of window-shopping and wants to have things and do things. Sally, on the other hand, plays her sister, who has things and knows her way around the cabarets, but who wants a husband and a baby.

JASON GOES PACING!

Jason Robards is there as a husband who paces the floor while his wife flies about the arclight of the gay night life. Russell Gleason is present as a census-taking hero, who wants a job on a newspaper—and a girl.

The film story was written by Ralph Graves, the acting fellow, who did so well in "Submarine" and "Flight." Though there is nothing very startling about the plot, direction or acting, the production has been accorded some intelligent treatment.

However, it does have its eccentricities. For example, it would have us believe that war veterans keep their loaded army revolvers wrapped up with their uniforms years after the war.

Do You Remember When — —They drank toasts from ladies' slippers?
Marion Davies and Sam Hardy in "The Florodora Girl," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.
—and a girl got "mad" if there weren't a chaperone handy?

MAN IN CLUB ROW SHOT

While Vincent Richardson, 35, of 4808 Harrison street, was recovering in his home from a bullet wound in the left leg, police today were conducting a search for his assailant.

Police said the shooting climaxed a quarrel in a club at 6215 Frankstown avenue, Saturday night, and resulted in the arrest of Jerry Coleman as proprietor of the place. Richardson was taken to St. Margaret's Hospital and went home after treatment.

Driver's Hat Blown Off, Crash Kills One

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 23.—(INS.)—C. Cheng, who was sent by the Chinese government to study at Cornell University, was killed instantly yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a culvert on the Lycoming Creek road a few miles north of here. Cheng's neck was broken.

Edmund Deister, of Scottdale, driver, lost control of the auto when he attempted to catch his hat after it was blown off his head.

2 DIE AS PLANE HITS CROWD

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 23.—(AP.)—Two women were killed and eight other persons injured yesterday when an airplane landed in the midst of a crowd at Pertho Oesterbotten.

The accident occurred when Lieut. Piponius during a demonstration of looping, found it necessary to make an emergency landing.

HOLDUP VICTIM IDENTIFIES 3

Three Negro youths were held for further investigation by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today after they were identified by Samuel Fisher, of 812 Crawford street, as the persons who robbed him at the point of a revolver at Roberts street and Wylie avenue, June 3, of $5 cash and a watch and chain valued at $50, and then slugged him because he did not have more money.

Police arrested the three boys under beds at 4 Monaca way yesterday. In the house was found a quantity of food, thought to have been taken from milk and bakery wagons. A revolver, flashlight and blackjack also were found.

Mattie Warfield, 21, a Negro, who police said was proprietor of the Monaca way house, was arrested yesterday and also was held in court today. The boys are Bernard Graper, of Berthoud street; Madies Grace, of 4 Monaca way, and John Stinger, of 1424 Gilmore way. The boys admitted the theft of the foodstuffs, but denied having anything to do with the holdup.

Graper admitted that he is wanted in New Jersey for robbing slot machines.

BOY CONFESSES FOUR HOLDUPS

Charles Martin, 18, of 1322 Arch street, a fugitive from the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, confessed in Morals Court today to participating in four North Side holdups within the last month.

The youth was identified by victims of these robberies. A. D. Miller gas station, 2539 East street, $18.50; Dixie Shoe Store, 611 East Ohio street, $208; gasoline station, $150 East street, $106 and another station at 1966 East Ohio street, $100.

Martin named his two confederates, detectives said.

Martin was ordered turned over to Morganza authorities by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones. William Busler, 18, arrested with him, was held for court charged with larceny and robbery.

'PASSING' CRASH KILLS BROTHER

Francis Sago, 7, of near Irwin, was killed and his two brothers—Joseph, 3, and John, 17—were injured in an automobile collision west of Irwin on the Lincoln Highway today.

John Sago, going east with his brothers, in a small automobile, tried to pass J. H. Lynch, traveling in a large sedan in the same direction. Another car came along, westbound. In an effort to avoid colliding with it Sago swerved into Lynch's machine.

The light car was upset and Francis' skull fractured.

BARE LIFE PLOT ON PORTES GIL

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—A supposed plot against the life of former President Portes Gil was exposed by La Prensa today.

According to the newspaper a large car with curtain drawn had been circling the residence of Portes Gil, while men had hidden in the shadows along the street.

The former president sometimes walks out at night.

On the heels of this report is a statement by Ricardo Trevino that there have been conspiracies against the life of Louis Morones. Morones and Portes Gil long have been at odds.

MEXICO CURBS LONG FLIGHTS

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—President Ortiz Rubio today issued a formal order forbidding military aviators from engaging in long distance flights.

The President said he had decided no more Mexican fliers will be permitted to risk their lives in perilous flights having no specific purpose.

The order included Col. Roberto Fierro who was forbidden to continue his flight to South America, Africa and Europe.

President Ortiz Rubio said he had contemplated cancellation of Col. Fierro's flight before its start from New York.

Anne Tries to Prevent Trouble for Sister

CHAPTER XVI.

Eaton stood where she had left him, frowning, ill at ease, angrier with himself than he had ever been with her. What a fool he had been; what a stupid thing to have done because his sex pride had been wounded!

He'd acted like the sort of man he'd always condemned. Taken advantage of their respective positions, taken advantage of an intimate evening in a quiet room to—to make love to his secretary. Well, not make love exactly. But to express upon unwilling lips his anger and his sudden desire and his male urge for supremacy.

To imperil himself like that, to risk losing the best secretary a man ever had!

"Confound it all!" said Eaton.

But he was disturbed to realize that all that evening the memory of the soft, warm lips beneath his own persisted. He swore his way through a tasteless meal and went to his club to find a poker game in progress. He played idiotically; he drank himself into a bad head and went home in the early hours of morning—still remembering.

Oh, he'd known for months how much she attracted him, but as long as he kept away from her it hadn't been dangerous. But now!

He liked her too much to hurt her. Yet it had been a good many years since he had been so stirred.

Their meeting on the following morning was formal. And after that it was easier for Anne to keep to her resolutions, for Eaton, unconscious of them as he was, was so ready to help her.

Worried About Kathleen

And then something happened that pushed Lawrence Eaton temporarily into the background of Anne's thoughts. For when she arrived home one evening, her mother met her and drew her aside with a troubled expression.

"I'm worried about Kathleen," said Mrs. Murdock.

"Why?" Anne regarded her wearily.

"Nothing and everything. She's not been out for over a week, so I ran into town today—Jim had asked me to go and see Sara, who is miserable," explained Mrs. Murdock, "and then I went down to the flat. That Lola was there. I don't like her; she's good for nothing. She couldn't be influencing Kathleen. She was nice enough," said Mrs. Murdock grudgingly, "but while I was there some one rang up on the phone—some one named Dolly—and they had a talk. It was about Kathleen they were talking and some fellow named Georgie. I wish you'd find out what's it all about. I don't like it at all."

"Oh, it's probably nothing," said Anne easily. "What difference does it make?" Kathleen's bound to meet men, Mother."

"Don't I know that? But what kind of men?" asked Mrs. Murdock. "I heard that Lola say, 'Well, I can't tell her to stay away from him, can I? If he's your property, why don't you manage it?' I didn't like the sound of that. Perhaps it's a married man!" offered Mrs. Murdock in a sepulchral whisper.

Visits Kathleen's

Anne thought a moment. Then she said evenly: "I'm going to the theater with Betty tomorrow evening. I'll spend the night at Kathleen's. I've a key, you know. Don't worry, Mother. Kathleen can take care of herself."

She patted the little woman on the back and went up to her own room. Could Kathleen take care of herself? Could any woman—in love? She had once thought herself so much wiser and more self-contained than her younger sister. But she thought so no longer.

After theater Anne went on to Kathleen's and was there alone in the gaudy little apartment until the first of the stragglers, Lola, came in. Although the two had nothing in common, they were on good terms. Anne had seen to that.

"Well, if it isn't Anne!"

"In person. That's a pretty frock, Lola."

"Like it? Want it?" asked Lola, always generous when on the crest. "Take it if you do. Too tight for me, anyway."

"Thanks a lot, but it's not my color. Too much red in my hair. Home early, aren't you? Kathleen's out. She gave me a key."

"I'm dead," said Lola, flopping on a couch and lighting a cigaret. "I haven't been in before 3 for weeks. You don't honor us often, Anne. Why not?"

Speak About Friend

"... ay. And tired a night. I saw 'Hurry Up' tonight. Good music. That's a pretty girl, by the way, over there in the leather frame. New, isn't it?"

"Doll? She's 40 if she's a day," said Lola carelessly. "But she photographs like 17. She even gets movie jobs!"

"What does she do?" asked Anne. She had looked at the picture before Lola came in, idly enough and then attentively when she saw the name written across it—"To L la with Dolly's love."

"How do mean, what does do? She's out of the chorus nowadays, but she walks on in good-looking giddy mamma parts in the musical shows. She's playing now in 'Her Husband's Wife.'"

Anne said, with apparent indifference: "It sounds good. I must see it. She looks attractive."

"She's a fool," commented Lola without malice.

"Why?" Anne wanted to know.

"Oh, you're too young!" Anne expostulated indignantly, and Lola went on: "It's just one of those things. She's got a 25-year-old sweetie, and he keeps her broke most of the time."

Anne's face was expressionless at the information and she asked, with studied naivete: "Are they engaged?"

"Child, don't make me laugh!"

"Is he an actor?" persisted Anne.

Anne Attends Party

"No visible means of support except the races," Lola answered. "By the way, he's met Kathleen and is keen about her. Doll's ready to scratch her eyes out."

Anne thought, in despair: "Then Molly was right!" and she remembered her father's warning: "If any harm comes of this . . ."

Aloud, she said idly: "Is that so? I'd like to meet him."

"Well, you could give Kathleen a run for her money," commented Lola, eying her critically. "There's a Sunday-night party up at Doll's. Why not come along? You can stay overnight."

And that was that. When Kathleen came home much later she found her sister asleep on the couch.

Anne went to the party at Dolly Davis'. It was incredible, different from any party she had yet attended. There was considerable drunkenness and loose conversation, and much noise and laughter.

Kathleen remarked as they started out: "Why on earth you want to come——"

"Curiosity. And just bored."

"Oh, very well. But if you fall down and go boom, don't say I didn't warn you. It's apt to be lively."

Anne made herself agreeable to the hostess. Dolly Davis was a cosmetic beauty, who looked amazingly young. She still had her fair hair and her Southern accent and she was characterized among her close friends as a good-hearted fool.

Sees Georgie

The 25-year-old "sweetie" was much in evidence, playing the host—a narrow-chested, handsome boy, with sleek dark hair and lines under his eyes, and a vicious, over-red mouth.

His name, Anne discovered, was Georgie.

During a rabid encounter between Georgie and Dolly over the matter of too many dances with Kathleen, Anne was able to interfere satisfactorily.

"I like you," remarked Dolly, with maudlin affection. "I like you, Anne; I want to do something for you. Have lunch with me tomorrow, next day, every day. You're a good kid, and I like you," she repeated inanely.

Anne said quietly: "I'll come tomorrow."

The relationship between Dolly and her sleek-haired Georgie was obvious to Anne. But was it to Kathleen? Anne knew that opposition was fatal to a young person of Kathleen's nature—she knew, too, how futile it would be to try to force an admission from Kathleen as to her apparent interest in Dolly's "property" or to plead with her to see the error of her ways.

There was only one thing to do, Anne thought, and that was to become intimate enough with Dolly to get the story first-hand. And once having obtained it, to go to Kathleen with it.

Dolly's Warning

For the first time in their association, she asked Eaton if she might get away early from work. He consented, regarding her curiously. A few weeks ago she would have told him. But not now.

Anne went to Dolly's for tea several times and found her ready for confidences. She talked almost exclusively of Georgie, and told Anne that it was hard for such a sensitive boy to get ahead in an unkind world.

"He's been unlucky with the horses," she said.

"Doesn't he work?" Anne asked.

"Well, he's a swell hoofer," Dolly said proudly, "and he used to dance in a night club, but his heart isn't strong. He can't stand the gaff."

But all Anne's cultivation of Miss Dolly did not result in any plain statement of fact. Dolly liked Anne in her careless, warm-hearted fashion. But Anne was Kathleen's sister, and Dolly knew how to be wary.

One afternoon, however, she delivered a warning.

"You tell that sister of yours to keep away from Georgie!" she ordered viciously.

Anne's face retained its serenity. "I didn't know she knew him. That is, well."

"What you don't know would fill books," said Dolly. "Now I'm not insinuating anything, you see, but just tell her to keep away—that's all."

Efforts Unsuccessful

"Are you engaged?" Anne asked, so naively that she overdid it, and Dolly looked at her with sudden suspicion. But naivete was a game two could play at.

"Well," drawled Dolly, "it isn't announced yet, of course!

This encounter left Anne no better off than before. She knew Kathleen well enough to realize that an "unannounced engagement" would never stand in her way if she were really infatuated with Dolly's young man."

In the milieu in which Kathleen had settled herself, property rights were lightly regarded. But she had enough faith in the younger girl's basic decency to believe that if ever Kathleen could be brought proof of Dolly's actual relation with that young man her sister would turn away. So far her efforts to establish that proof had been wasted.

She determined not to lose sight of Dolly, and because of that determination she joined a party at a night club. Dolly was the titular hostess, although a certain breezy gentleman from the great open spaces paid the bill.

Anne found the party rather amusing. In those days Anne welcomed anything that helped to numb her acute and constant realization of Lawrence Eaton. The work in his office was becoming a nightmare to her. She couldn't stay, and she couldn't leave. She was staying out late at night so that she might sleep dreamlessly, worn with fatigue.

Meets Employer

There were a dozen others in the noisy party, and Kathleen quite pointedly had not been included in Dolly's invitation. The fact that Georgie also did not appear was significant to several at the table, and Dolly grew morosely drunk as the night went on. Anne, dancing with the Westerner, suddenly became aware that a man standing in the low doorway was watching her intently. She looked up into her employer's eyes.

A moment later he cut in.

"I didn't know you went in for this sort of thing," he said, and held her closely, as mechanically she followed the mazes of the music about the room.

"I don't often."

"My party hasn't shown up yet," he said. "May I come to your table?"

He did so and was presented to Lola and Dolly and the rest. He stayed with them until several uproarious gentlemen arrived and claimed him, after which the two parties merged.

Anne offered no explanation of her presence. Why should she? It was hardly possible to inform Mr. Eaton that in order to keep a watchful eye upon Kathleen — who wasn't even present — she had cultivated Dolly and her playmates!

As for Eaton, when Anne decided it was time to go home he took her the short distance to Kathleen's flat.

"Sorry not to have met your sister," he said.

"We expected her," Anne said sleepily.

Eaton Puzzled

She was wishing she hadn't gone on the party. She was wishing Eaton hadn't chosen that particular night club for his evening's entertainment. She was wishing she wasn't shut up with him in the dark intimacy of the automobile.

And Eaton, driving home alone thereafter, found himself wondering why he hadn't taken her in his arms and kissed her—again. After all, he knew little about her outside his office. After all, the crowd she ran with was swift.

His senses were a little unsteady, not entirely from the usual concomitants of the evening. When he'd taken her in his arms it was with the sense that she belonged there. Could he ignore any longer, he asked himself, the urgent turning of his whole being toward her?

"It doesn't mean anything serious; it can't!" he thought gloomily. "It's just the unexpectedness of finding her there, the drinks and music and everything."

But when he found her in the office the next morning, he had not forgotten. He remembered only too well. Then he admitted to himself with a sick feeling of uncertainty in the future and danger in the present: "I'm crazy about her."

Dictating, talking to her, watching her move about the office, he told himself again and again: "I'm crazy about her." And then he asked himself the inevitable and unanswerable question:

"What am I going to do?"

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

There Are Reasons Why Marriage Was Invented

Recently I wrote an article about Chickie, whose hero urged free love instead of marriage, because "those old-fashioned notions cramped one's style" and "modern people lived the way they wanted to, not according to the old moth-eaten ideas Grandpa used."

Chickie had never heard an argument like that before. It sounded terribly thrilling and brave to her modern ears and was head over heels in love. So she had just about decided to take a chance and be free as free and unshackled, with her charmer. Then she wrote to us and told us her plans. And we agreed. We did not. We battled plenty on the subject, as you like that—and both of us pleasantly. But even as we did so, we wondered if Chickie would believe us.

One word from a girl who had taken just such a chance would do more for just bewildered little Chickie than a million sermons. If we could have such a letter! Well, we have two. To be accurate we have about a hundred of them. Real letters from real girls who had thought that "marriage didn't matter" and who had faced the tragic trail of free love. They aren't happy reading. There's shame and sorrow and heart-break in every line. But they're true. This is the harvest of free love. This is why people invented marriage.

There's only space for two of these letters today, but I wish that every tempted Chickie might read them. First comes Alma.

SORRY, HEART-BROKEN

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I have just read Chickie's story in the paper about how this man says he loves her yet wants to dodge marriage. How he pretends to love her, and wants her to come to him without any wedding.

"I want to come to you myself, Miss Martin, with the result of just such a thing. Only I am different than Chickie. Not half so good. Because I did go to the man, and Chickie hasn't. I hope and pray she won't. I've been sorry and heart-broken ever since I did, and that is four long years now. Does he marry me? I guess not! Whenever I speak of marriage to him, he gets mad, and says 'Not for me! Why should I? I've got you anyway, haven't I? There's plenty of time ahead to go in for that kind of rubbish.'

"He says that he loves me. Bah! What kind of love is that? I always thought that if we loved someone we wanted them all for our own, to be with and take care of. Now he will promise me a wedding day . . . and then when the time draws near he will always pick an argument of some sort, and break his promise and then say, 'Well, a promise don't amount to anything anyway.'

"I've disgraced myself with him. Not only here, but in the town where I own a home. For I introduced him as my husband there. Now people know the difference, and everybody's talking about me and giving me the cold shoulder. I even paid for that home, too. I paid his bills through a year of imprisonment also, when he got into trouble. And I went hungry to pay them. But what do I get out of it? Nothing but sheers because I was easy and didn't make him come through with a wedding ring. Now he doesn't want to marry me because he didn't have to in the first place. Oh, yes, he always says 'sometime,' but 'sometime' never comes.

"Don't you think he's had enough time to get around to it in four years?

"Does he love me at all, do you think? If he does, why doesn't he do the right thing? If he never loved me at all, why didn't he do the right thing in the first place?"

NO SALARY, RESPECT

I feel just like a housekeeper without even pay. At least, if I was some man's housekeeper, I'd get a salary and respect. I get neither here. Yet for some reason, I still love this man. I wish I didn't. My heart is breaking. But I can see now that where I made my mistake was when I fell for that cheap line of his about no wedding.

I'd like to live a decent and respectable life. I'm never happy the way it is. I can't even depend on him. He never keeps his word. And he just laughs when I tell him I am miserable living this way. Or when I tell him that I've been snubbed by someone who knows the way things are with us.

I've been true and loyal to him. And got kicked for it. I've got kicked from the first, because I was silly enough to listen to his line of gab. You tell Chickie to get rid of that fellow she thinks she's in love with before something happens to her like it has to me. I don't belong with this man and I often think I'll leave him, but I love him, and I'm afraid if I go I'll never see him again.

ALMA."

And here's Gertie. Gertie woke up before she took the fatal plunge. And maybe she isn't glad!

"Dear Sally:

"I want to say just a word to Chickie. I too was once in her shoes. I thought that Joe was the one and only for me. And he didn't believe in marriage. He put all sorts of things into my head for a while and talked about why everything should be free.

"I spoke to my mother about it and she told me that he wasn't any good or he wouldn't have such notions. That made me mad. I couldn't see that she was right. So she asked Joe about those ideas of his, and, Sally, he couldn't look her in the eye, or answer without stammering. Still I thought I loved him anyway. So I met him on the sly for a while. Mother found out about that, and we had a real heart-to-heart talk. And I saw that she was right.

"Well, I gave Joe up. And I'm married now . . . to a regular guy. And am I happy? I'll say! I'm married to a wonderful man who really loves me and wants to keep me safe, and I have a wonderful baby three years old. I shiver sometimes when I remember what I escaped.

"Chickie, it will take time, but you will get over this fellow. The really right man for you is bound to show up some day if you don't listen to fellows like Joe. Mine didn't show up until three years after I parted with Joe, but how glad I am that I broke with Joe and waited for him. Your scar will heal, Chickie. Forget him. Because if you don't in the future you'll wish you were dead if you fall for his line. Thank God I listened to my mother, who said 'If you're good enough to live with him, you're good enough to marry him, and if he was worth anything he'd admit it.'

GERTIE."

"BE NOT THE LAST"

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

"Be not the first by whom the new is tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

NO FASHION lingering over has seemed quite so funny as too short a dress does now! Nothing so tickling to the last rib than knees sticking out, or round garters proclaiming themselves above them. Already too short a skirt looks as if a girl or a woman had lost part of her dress to a watchdog or in a subway door. When everyone looked alike, no one smiled. But young Madame Fashion, who has surprised everybody by letting our style dress get somewhat like a comfortable old shoe, she who usually wears out "more apparel than the woman does" and wears the woman out doing it, is drawing you very plainly what you must be, and what you must not! Unless you want to be a cartoon. You must not look like the girl on the left. That girl is as dead as the daisy of the year before last. She was cute and fresh. That was what every girl and woman, no matter how big the woman, tried to be. Now the girl, the silhouette, the manner, of that day only six months ago, is out. That girl is funny now. The morning and sports wear is not long—but there are no knees—even when la femme sits her down! Remember. If you come out on the front page of a tabloid just sailing, you luckie, for Europe, holding fast to a turn-buckle, looking blithe, and with your knees crossed, remember you will look terribly old-fashioned and passe if those knees show as once they did! And you will look cheap, too, m'dear.

Afternoon clothes are down—down farther. And evening ginger-breads are down — down — down farther still.

Once the word when the sales-girls tenderly laid something out for your bright eye, was "smart." Now, breathed reverently, it is "feminine." "This is very feminine, Madame!"

Bows are here, and allure. Cutie-Freshie is gone—and in her place is Lady-Grace.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

A School That Teaches Right Living Principles

Only the other day I was reading of a really fine school for boys, sponsored by Mr. Henry Ford, in the old town of Sudbury, Mass. It is attracting quite a good deal of attention.

Here, in the old Wayside Inn, made famous by Longfellow, in his "Tales of a Wayside Inn," live 31 very alive boys, all from 12 to 17 years of age. And here they go to school.

This is a place where theory and practice go hand in hand. The boys go to school, not so much for the book learning, though they have plenty of that. They are to learn the fundamental lesson of right living, or to be more exact, "lessons in self-preservation."

Here a boy learns how to keep himself alive and well. He learns what to eat and why he eats it. He learns how to take care of himself economically, and to take care of his clothes and his home.

In short, he learns how to be an independent person. He also learns the practical means of maintaining a living in health and comfort.

The boys learn dairying, fruit farming, sheep and chicken raising. They learn to grind their own flour and corn meal, for they have a grist mill right on the place. They do the cooking and serving of meals. They look after all the cleaning, scrubbing, bed-making and other homely arts. They build radios, motors and furniture.

Work is good for everyone. But life is not all work for them for they have their fun and social good times.

But there is another very important factor in their daily program. They learn how to keep well. Of course, there are the daily setting-up exercises every morning before breakfast, as well as a hygiene lecture. And the boys are on a strict diet.

The boys distinctly understand that this diet helps in forming eating habits that make for good health. Illness is seldom heard of in the school. This is the result of intelligent co-operation on the part of the boys in eating only the proper foods.

After many experiments a diet was found that seemed ideal in maintaining good health. The basic idea of the diet used in the school is that but one type of food should be eaten at a given meal. Starches and proteins are not mixed, and therefore the old formula of meat and potatoes is considered chemically wrong.

At breakfast the boys eat only milk and fruit. The average menu for breakfast consists of orange juice, baked apples and cream, with milk to drink.

Luncheon is the starchy meal. Raw vegetable salad, two or three hot vegetables, bread made from whole wheat flour, ground in their own grist mill, butter, with milk make up the luncheon at noon. This quite suffices until the evening meal.

The protein meal, dinner, is served without potatoes or bread. It has a salad, meat and green vegetables and occasionally soup. No desserts of any kind are allowed, candy never and the boys do not smoke.

Every boy needs a practical education. Without it he is handicapped in many ways in seeking a future career. Here are a lot of vigorous, healthy boys who are in line for promotion to higher vocational goals, and with a foundation built of good health.

Answers to Health Queries

C. V. R. Q.—What would cause an aching in the head accompanied by dizziness?

A.—This may be caused by poor circulation or too high blood pressure. Biliousness might also be a factor. Have your blood pressure tested and then proper treatment can be advised.

Roderick Tells His Side of His Quarrel With Junior

Roderick's query and the avid look on his face startled me with a realization of what my vague talk of settling his quarrel with Junior might involve. The shackles of femininity seemed to settle around me and mentally I drew back from the vista which I myself just had opened. But my affirmative answer to his question was firm.

"Yes, I mean just that, Roderick," I told him. "You and Junior may fight out this quarrel outdoors if, after thinking it over and talking it over with me, you do not decide that you both have been very silly."

"Ah! I knew there was 'if' in it some here," he muttered.

"Look at me, Roderick," I commanded and he turned his eyes reluctantly toward me.

"There is no 'if' in the promise I made you, Roderick," I told him. "When you and Junior tell me that you can't settle your quarrel any other way than by a fight, I shall have your uncle take you out in the barn and let you box it out. But—" I made my voice a bit contemptuous, "do you want me to think that you are afraid to talk the thing over first, to let me hear your side of the story? Junior is waiting now to tell me his side of the affair. But I wanted to hear yours first."

He squirmed in his chair. "Junior's a baby, a sissy," he burst out.

With a delicately carriess air, I looked at his nose still bearing traces of the nosebleed which my small son's fists had given him.

"Ah! I didn't mean that," he blurted out. "He can hit all right, but——"

"I knew you were too honest to tell me anything else," I said, stressing the approval in my voice. Many sessions with Junior have taught me the value of following a scratch with a bit of healing ointment. "Now suppose you settle back in your chair and think this thing over. I'm going over to the other side of the room. When you're ready to tell your side of this will you call me?" I'm counting on your honesty, Roderick. I'm sure you're going to tell me the truth."

But Roderick objected, eyeing me doubtfully. "I suppose Junior tells you something different?"

"Then one of you would be either mistaken — or — lying, wouldn't you?" I countered coolly and walking rapidly toward the other side of the room, I sat down by Dicky's reading lamp and took up a magazine.

It seemed hours that I sat there, my ears strained to catch a sound from Roderick's chair. And when at last I heard him say, "I'm ready, Aunt Madge—" there was that in his voice which told me that he was not yet ready fully to accept my good faith.

"Where shall I start?"

"At the beginning," I returned promptly.

"He wouldn't let me show him how to make a 'speriment.'"

"What experiment?" I asked quietly.

"Why! I wanted to make a double-decked bus out of two of his railroad cars," he returned eagerly. "You take a chisel and take the top off one of the cars. Then you put the other one on top of it, and fasten 'em together. It looks just like a big double bus. I watched another boy make one, but Aunt Harriet wouldn't let me chisel up my own train."

"Why wouldn't she?"

"Because," he said at last, his voice flat, "she said the cars were too nice to cut up, that they cost too much, and she couldn't afford to get others."

"And yet," I said slowly, "you wanted to break up Junior's cars, when you didn't knew whether we could afford to get him new ones. What do you expect me to say about that, Roderick?"

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Male Beauty

If I had a handsome son, I should be afraid to send him to college, these days, for fear he might be elected "Class Beauty" or "Class Sheik"—and, thereby, practically ruined for life.

Add a class-vote of "Handsomest Man" to the average man's natural self-complacency, and you've got something to COPE with.

A beauty-prize has wrecked many a perfectly nice girl and filled her with a vanity-complex that made her unbearable. So what harm might it not do to a personable, modest young man in the first glow of his twenties?

Why are the co-eds laying such stress on masculine beauty these days? Are th'y trying to spoil all the nice-looking men for matrimony?

Elect your "Most Brilliant" student, your "Best Athlete" and even your "Finest Gentlemen," but don't put the gypsy's curse on a young man by concentrating his mind on his LOOKS. Some day he'll hate you for it, as he hates those nude baby-pictures his Mother had taken of him.

A man's looks don't really matter much. If he is h'althy, well set-up and well-groomed, nobody asks if he has a dimple in his chin or a cute t'se or naturally curly hair or dainty ankles.

The most fascinating man I ever knew was sallow, plain-featured and slightly undersized. One of the most attractive men I ever met was prematurely bald and wore a patch over a missing eye. But, oh, what beautiful, polished manners he had! And what a winning way with women!

Incidentally, both of these men have an 'xtra supply of brains and breeding and are highly successful in their professions. But neither of them is a Beau Brummel or a Don Juan. They capture the hearts of women with that Old School charm of manner—that t'nder, devoted manner which is every man's highest card with the susceptible sex.

It makes me tremble to think what might have happened to Our Lindbergh if he had ever been elected "Handsomest Man" or "Class Shiek," and started off with a beauty-complex.

Where would have been that delightful modesty and shyness which now distinguish him? To think of a conc'ited Lindbergh or an egotistical Byrd is impossible!

Yet, either one of them MIGHT have been chosen a "Class Beauty"—and thereby have lost his chief charm.

Modesty, not beauty, is a man's great'st asset with women. Modesty and virility and polished manners. A woman loves the kind of man who stars HER—and who gracefully plays background or footlights or applause.

And when a man is both handsome AND modest, he is such a sweet surprise that every woman falls for him!

* * *

Why put the gypsy's curse on an attractive, good-looking boy by electing him to a role that he'll have to spend all the rest of his life living up to—or living down?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Gift from a Bashful Young Man

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a very nice girl friend who is about to be graduated from high school and I would like to give her a present on this happy occasion.

I have taken her to the theater once. I am very bashful. We graduated from the same grammar school together and I would like to know if it is correct that I should send her some little gift.

She is not allowed to wear a corsage, which I thought would have been quite appropriate.

NERVOUS JACK.

In spite of the fact that she will not be allowed to wear a corsage bouquet, the most appropriate present that you can send her is flowers. A book also is a discriminating present to send her, if flowers do not appeal to you. Flowers that she cannot wear. Books, of course, are an especially consistent present for graduation. A congratulatory telegram on "The Day" might offer for you the best wishes that it is difficult for you to say.

Come again to my column, Jack, and perhaps if you let me answer some of the questions that are in your mind you won't be nervous any more. "Nervous" as a word that you should never allow yourself to use, either in speaking or writing. It is one of the most dangerous words in English, I think, for it has a vicious way of mesmerizing the user into being nervous just by saying it. Ever notice that?

An Occasion to Wear the Sorority Pin

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My sorority is giving a formal affair for the presentation of pins to the new members. Would it be appropriate for us to wear our pins on evening gowns on such an occasion?

B. S.

On such an occasion, when the pins are the important "feature" of the evening, they should. I think, be dramatized by having the members wear them on their evening gowns. This is usually not in good form, since the pins are not consistent with the jewelry that one associates with evening dress. But this event seems to demand that they be worn.

Household Hints

Perhaps the most hopeless looking stain that makes its appearance in the laundry room is that caused by iodine or argyrol. Linen thus spotted should be first soaked in cold water, then washed in clean suds. Muddy-looking chocolate stains should be treated in the same manner.

Fish should be firm to the touch, the eyes should be bright and the scales firm. If fish appears poor and flabby and the scales come off easily when touched, it is either very stale or in poor condition, and is not worth buying. Fish sold during its spawning season is not fit for food. When a finger is pressed upon the flesh, the impress remains for some time. Such fish should be avoided, as its food value is poor.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Excessive perspiration is often due to tension and nervousness. The cure for it is found in the salt glow—rubbing the body with moistened salt, followed with a cold spray—in general hygienic measures, and in the application to the armpits of liquids and powders that act upon the sweat glands.

For the comfort of the feet, there should be a change of shoes once or twice a day. Shoes, when they are not worn, should be aired. Run over heels are a menace; they weaken the ankles. Loose house slippers cause the feet to spread. Feet carry a heavy load. They deserve good treatment and should be comfortably shod.

The hair falls to a certain extent all the time, the average life of a hair being about seven years. But once a year there is a general renovating of the glorious crown. At this time it is advisable to massage the scalp briskly for five minutes every night, applying an oily tonic.

The amateur cosmetic mixer should pause before she attempts to compound complexion powders. For these toilet articles the chemist employes seives that fluff the ingredients through bolting cloth, thus getting rid of all harsh particles. Cold creams can be made at home. Vanishing creams and rouge require the skill of the expert cosmetician.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, June 24

The sidereal operations for this day assist to a fair degree of good fortune, with recognition or favors for those in the employment of others and a fair promise of advancement and financial stability for those following in the beaten path. There is little encouragement, however, for new undertakings or for success with large corporations or secret societies. Personal activities may be lively and pleasant.

Those whose birthday it is are under a fairly auspicious forecast for promotion, recognition or increase of moneys or business, providing they adhere to established lines, as new undertakings are under a discouraging sign. The year may be a happy and socially active one. A child born on this day may have many talents and social accomplishments fitting it for success in employment and for a generally successful and prosperous life.

CITIZENS OF U. S. BORROW VAST SUMS ABROAD

Nation Big Debtor as Well As Creditor, Figures on Balance Sheet Indicate

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—America's balance sheet on international business of 1929, issued by the Commerce Department, registered some of the largest totals ever set up to cover a year's transactions between the nation and the world at large.

It disclosed as well the remarkable shifting of trend by which this country, though remaining still the most important of money lenders, became also a borrower of tremendous sums of cash temporarily advanced by Europe.

TOTALS COMPARED

Summing up all discoverable totals of international credits and debits arising from transactions of 1929, the official study found the United States supplied goods, gold and services to foreigners having a value of $10,045,000,000 while foreign nations furnished Americans in like items a total of $10,054,000,000.

American foreign investments dwindled to $696,000,000 in 1929 from the record of $1,484,000,000 set in 1928.

Foreigners were estimated to have purchased $1,537,000,000 worth of American stocks and bonds during 1929, investing considerably more in this country than Americans sent abroad.

U. S. TRAVELERS SPEND

American tourists traveling in Europe, Canada, Mexico and other quarters of the globe spent $839,000,000, which constituted a debit in the national account which foreigners visiting here offset only to the extent of $180,000,000.

Along with these figures the balance sheet included the credit of $5,241,000,000 which the United States gained by its record-breaking export of commodities in 1929, imports of goods being a debit of $4,400,000,000.

The private debts of United States citizens to foreigners, approximately $7,500,000,000, are now greater than at any time in American history. That means than on absolute amount the United States is now the greatest debtor nation (on private account) in the world's history, though on net balance it is one of the most important creditor nations.

Westinghouse Joins Spanish Enterprise

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announced that through its subsidiary, the Westinghouse Electric International Company, it had joined with a group of Spanish financial and industrial leaders in the organization of a new company which will manufacture electrical apparatus, including generators, motors and transformers in Spain.

The company, known as Constructora Nacional Maquinaria Electrica, is capitalized at 12,000,000 pesetas.

The Bellevue School Board has chosen Edward Stotz & Son as architects for the proposed new addition to the Grant grade school, one of the projects included in a $450,000 bond issue authorized at the May primary election.

STEEL SECRETS SAFE IN SUIT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 23.—The suit instigated by representatives of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland, to prevent merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation is scheduled to open Wednesday before Judge David Jenkins.

Attorneys for both sides agreed not to reveal trade secrets of Bethlehem, in an audit and survey of the Bethlehem books decreed by Judge Jenkins. The audit will be made by Ernst and Ernst, Eaton auditors. They will try to find an error Eaton claims was made by Price, Waterhouse and Co., accountants upon whose report the final terms of the proposed amalgamation were agreed upon. Eaton contends the error resulted in the merger terms being unfair to Sheet and Tube stockholders.

In the probe of Bethlehem books it is agreed to exclude from the investigation such items as listed customers of Bethlehem and contracts with them as to deliveries and prices; contracts for the purchase of materials and the terms involved; individual cost sheets of specific products and confidential correspondence and records relating to these matters.

Ohio Independents To Refine Own Oil

LOGAN, O., June 22.—(AP.)—The Independent Refinery Company has been organized here to handle the output of crude oil in 17 counties of Southeastern Ohio. Between 300 and 400 producers and some 3,000 royalty holders were represented at the organization meeting, at which J. C. Grimm, Woodsfield, was elected president. The company plans to handle 2,000 barrels of oil daily.

GIRL, 3 BOYS HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Now is the time to tell a story about the newlywed, Joe Armstrong. This happened some 20 years ago, about the time the Schenley public links were being opened to a public which knew little of the new sport of golf. A young voter who was losing his health working in the mills asked Joe, who was already a power in politics, for a job—any kind of job.

"You know anything about golf?" Joe cross-examined.

"Golf?" repeated the voter. "What is it?"

"You'll do," Armstrong decided.

The recent stunt of the Cornell students who invited government officials to attend a memorial banquet for that mythical Republican, Hugo N. Frye, might recall to you the impersonation of Charles Stotz, now a Pittsburgh architect, who, when a Cornell student, dressed himself up as Prof. Soandso, the noted German scientist, and explained to the faculty all about the Einstein theory.

Then there was the Allegheny College student, one Prexy Crawford, of 15 years ago, who filled his pockets with cigaret money by hoaxing the incoming freshman.

One such freshman was barely in his campus room before Prexy (so nicknamed because his surname was no different from the college president's) pushed open the door and began pounding loose the radiator. The freshman timidly inquired why, and Prexy explained calmly that he was taking his radiator to his new room, that all students were required to furnish their own radiators, and that this particular radiator had been his the previous year.

After due negotiation, Prexy sold the young man the radiator for $30.

TWO TAXI MEN ROBBED, ONE CAB TAKEN

$19 Stolen in North Side And North Versailles Holdups; Car Recovered

Taxicab holdup men resumed operations in this district last night after an absence of several months, staging two robberies, one on the North Side and the other in North Versailles Township. In one case the robbers stole the cab of a driver after leaving him in the country. Two robbers participated in each holdup.

Robert McGreevy, 22, of 585 Corey avenue, Braddock, a driver for the Greentop Taxicab Company of Braddock, was robbed of $10 and his cab by two men. One fare engaged McGreevy in Braddock to drive him to Oakhill, where the second man entered the machine. They then drove to the country and at the point of a pistol, took McGreevy's money and forced him out of the cab.

McGreevy summoned another taxi and began a search for his car. It was found later in Hogan's avenue, North Versailles Township.

Overpowered by two fares he had driven to Lacock and Goodrich streets, North Side, this morning, V. J. Neeley, of 200 East North avenue, was robbed of 19. Neeley, a Yellow Cab driver, was engaged by the pair at Penn avenue and Seventh street.

Morgan Loses Parole When Kent Tricks Him

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dean Ward Kent, a successful young college graduate, gets drunk while celebrating on New Year's Eve. His automobile, going at top speed, crashed into another machine and two persons are fatally injured. Kent is charged with manslaughter and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. Duncan Morgan, a handsome chap who had been a bank clerk, is sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery. He has been in prison before and does not fear the new sentence. Kent is assigned to share a cell with Morgan and "Machine Gun Butch" Schmidt. Schmidt, a hardened criminal, is now serving life for murder. Schmidt steals a locket containing a picture of Anne Marlow from Kent's pocket. Kent is in love with Anne. Morgan gets the picture from Schmidt and is attracted to the girl. He learns her name from Kent. Morgan's attorney visits the penitentiary to tell him that he will be free on a parole in a short time. Morgan sees Anne, who visiting Kent, and is struck by her beauty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

Kent went back to the jute mill with a new resolution in his heart. An acid resolution. He would spare no one. He would think only of himself. These men were not his kind. What if he did double-cross them! They were not of his world. Once out of prison he would never see the likes of them again. It was no situation for ethics, and intangible split-hair honor. The law of the lawless!

He would insinuate himself into their confidence, sit in council with them, learn of their plans as one of them, and then inform on them. Stool pigeon! Fink! What difference! If they were his own kind he might hesitate. But with men like them—bah! The code! The code—handed down through generations of wolves!

"Kid, I'm leaving you tomorrow." It was Morgan's low, full voice. He stood beside Kent in the jute mill.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I got my raincheck. I'm going out tomorrow—out into God's world—out to—to—past that gate."

"You are going out? Why, I thought you had a long bit ahead of you yet?"

Kent was dazed.

"Oh, that was a pushover—my legaler is clever."

"You're going to leave prison?" Kent could hardly realize the significance of the words.

"Far, far behind—in the big choo-choo— Out there."

"I can't understand how you beat the barrier, and—"

Hatred
Kent Turns Against All Mankind

His tone was wormwood. He was gripped with a terrible hatred—a hot hatred for the laws of man, a cold hatred for the wiles of man—a hatred for injustice of man, a hatred for Morgan—a hatred for all mankind.

"Cheer up, Kid—maybe I can plug for you—a guy is all diff'rent on the outside lookin' in than on the inside lookin' out. Maybe there's someone I can see for you—your sweetheart—"

"You lowlife—don't mention her. No, you can't do a thing for me!"

Kent's tone was a sneer. But Morgan was in jubilant spirits. He could not be offended now. He began to whistle softly.

"I won't sock you on the kisser, Kid. I feel too great. Pull yourself together an'—pray."

Inducement
Would Get Time Off For Squealing

"That's easy enough for you to say." Kent's voice had changed. He began to blubber now. "You are going out! You can talk like that. You are not just a crook—you're a babbit—to talk like that. Pull myself together and—pray!"

The whistle blew for the recreation period. The prisoners stood back from their work and formed into line to lockstep out for a few minutes' breath of fresh air. Kent, who fell in behind Morgan, clutched at the knife he had in his blouse, the knife he had taken earlier in the day from the scurvy Mex after Butch had "ditched" it. Kent had found no time yet to dispose of the knife, and right now he touched it lovingly, caressingly, as his sodden, sullen gaze rested on the nape of Morgan's neck. But Kent was no killer.

In the recreation yard he isolated himself. Morgan was gleefully telling the others of his good fortune. Kent visited maledictions on him beneath his breath. An unearthly bitterness against the man—this man who was going free—seared his soul. Why should he, a crook, be allowed to go forth and rob and murder? It was foul, fiendish injustice.

While Kent was in this mood, Oliver, his furtive little mouse's eyes bristling, toddled up. He saw at once that Kent was in low spirits.

"Bad news, Kid?" he asked.

"Nothing very pleasant—I just learned that I'll have to do my full time."

"What did I tell you?—get the low down on someone. Tell Wallace. He's for you already."

"Would that actually help me?" Kent was doubtful of everything. "Get me time off?"

"Sure, plenty of time—and if you crab a big breeze it may kick the gates for you. An' let me in—that'll let us both out. See?"

Kent's mind was whizzing. Kick the gates for him! And he knew there was a "big breeze" in the air. Maybe with Morgan out it would never materialize. Morgan would be better off here . . . kick the gates . . . liberty . . .

"I see," he gasped, "get the goods on someone. H'm . . ."

Kent stumbled away. He saw Wallace standing along a short distance off. Oliver watched him shrewdly as he scraped toward Wallace and as Kent came abreast of him, and without turning his head, he slipped from the corner of his bloodless mouth:

Tricks Morgan
Kent Puts Knife in His Blouse

"I think, sir, Morgan's got a knife on him."

Kent entered the cellhouse. Wallace looked after him a bit puzzled, a bit skeptical, a bit suspicious. But Oliver, a sardonic grin on his mug, a leer of triumph, came along just then and the two men exchanged a glance of profound understanding. Wallace gave an almost perceptible nod of his head.

Kent steered directly for his cell. There he saw Morgan and another man inside. For a moment he was startled.

"Who's that?" he asked Mor-

POLICE FORCE SHAKEUP DUE JULY 1

Mayor Kline on Vacation Eve Issues Statement; Besieged by Politicians

Contemplated changes in the police department will be announced by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark about the first of the month, Mayor Charles H. Kline said today, as he was preparing to leave town on a seven weeks' vacation in Europe. There will be no dismissals, the Mayor said.

That Inspector Joseph Ebner will be demoted was flatly denied by the Mayor.

TO ADD NEW MEN

He said that 110 new firemen and 120 new policemen will be appointed to take care of the two new districts that have been created.

The Mayor is planning to leave Pittsburgh Wednesday or Thursday. His steamer, the Conte Grande, sails from New York for Gibraltar at midnight Friday. With the Mayor will be Mrs. Kline and S. Harris Johnson, Jr., his nephew. The Klines intend to travel in France and Spain and expect to sail for home from Naples.

GLAD TO GET AWAY

Ward chairmen and lesser politicians jammed the Mayor's office today. Before luncheon Mayor Kline interviewed a score or more of them, devoting a minute or two to each one.

All apparently were seeking jobs for their friends. The Mayor said: "I'll be glad when I get on that boat."

JOHN MORROW GRADUATES 29

Twenty-nine eighth grade pupils of John Morrow public school will receive certificates of promotion tomorrow night at exercises to be held in the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, California and Davis avenues. The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Fulton, pastor of the church, will give the invocation, and benediction.

Certificates will be presented by Associate Superintendent of Schools Samuel A. Weber. Col. Charles A. Grim will present awards in behalf of the American Legion for leadership.

The following will be graduated: Laura Bernhard, Dorothy Camp, Madeline Carl, Robert Chillcott, Elizabeth Combs, Ruth Donley, Marion Eisenman, Edward Fagan, Delores Flynn, Leona Frey, Betty Gallagher, Muriel Gearhart, Dorothy George, Isabel Graner, Virginia Kappell, Florence Kubiak, William Lind, Virginia Longanecker, Jane McAuley, William McNeil, Anna Maloy, Louis Prokop, Anna Rudolph, Marth Schweitzer, Margaret Seitz, Esther Stoehr, Frank White, Anna Yasienski, and Dorothy Zahren.

Oakland District To Picnic Friday

The Oakland Board of Trade has completed arrangements for the annual outing of the community to be held at West View Park Friday. Special street cars to carry one of the largest crowds ever attending a similar affair from this district have been chartered and the committee has arranged a program of amusement and athletic events.

Blind Musician Gives Up Stage For Church

Forsaking the concert stage to take church orders, Anthony Jawerak, blind music master and former Pittsburgh boy prodigy, today became a member of the Carmelite monastery at Niagara Falls, Canada, according to Father George, of the Holy Trinity Church, Center avenue.

Jawerak first appeared in a recital at the age of 4.

He gave his farewell concert at the North Side Carnegie Library Hall last night.

SCHNEIDER CASE POSTPONED

The hearing of Jack Schneider, constable and former leader of the First Ward, who was slated to face Harry Andreini in Central Police Court today to explain charges Andrini has made against him, was postponed till Thursday.

Andreini was held for court Saturday with Harry Manning on charges which were the outgrowth of the holdup and death of John B. Stauff, South Hills Trust Company messenger. Stauff died of shock the day after the robbery.

Andreini, according to police, accuses Schneider of aiding him to escape several months ago after Andreini was arrested by Officer Fred Smith for the shooting of Precinct Detective Florence Brunner and the robbery of Regis Carr on the North Side.

Two Camps of Y. M. C. A. To Draw 1,000 Boys

More than 1,000 boys are expected to attend Camp Kon-O-Kwee and Camp Porter, of the Y. M. C. A., which open July 30. Directors and advance squads are now at the camps inspecting and conditioning them.

Kon-O-Kwee, near Zelienople, has a new outdoor swimming pool this year. Camp Porter is located on Lake Erie, near Conneaut, O. The summer program includes camp craft, woodcraft, scouting, first aid, life saving, archery, construction projects, athletics, storytelling, dramatics, aquatics, boating, hiking, leathercraft, metalcraft, Indian bead work and Indian lore.

SHOCKED, DIES ON WATER TANK

Shocked by electricity when he came in contact with a low tension wire 75 feet above ground on a water tank outside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Glenwood roundhouse, Theodore G. Beil, 32, of Carrick, an electrician, died this afternoon.

Artificial respiration had been administered to Beil on top of the tank for four hours.

Last rites of the church were administered to Beil by the Rev. Philip A. Dugan, of St. Stephen's Church, Hazelwood. Father Dugan is afraid of heights, but climbed the ladder supported from below by a railway employe. He said:

"It is my job, and I do it."

Women Voters End Season With Bridge

The Dormont-Mt. Lebanon section of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters will conclude its activities for the season with a luncheon and bridge to be held in the South Hills Country Club Wednesday. The program includes musical entertainment and other amusement for those not wishing to play cards. The affair is in charge of the social committee of which Mrs. G. G. Sharpless is chairman.

New Type Sleepers For P. R. R. Trains

The new type sleeping cars which provides a private room for each passenger with a full size bed instead of a berth, will replace the present Pullmans on two of the Pennsylvania Railroad limited trains which pass through the city at midnight. Effective Sunday this type of accomodation will be available on the Liberty Limited and the Broadway Limited.

Business Group Will Hold Outing

The Business Men's Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. will hold its third outing of the season at the Meerman farm, Wildwood, Thursday. Mushball, horseshoe and quoit contests feature the program. James C. Guy, George Eisenhauer and Robert Winn compose the committee.

CAR STOLEN, OFFICERS CHARGE

Fifteen Injured in Traffic Accidents Over Week-End; Mother Cut, Son Arrested

Three boys and a girl were injured when, according to police, a stolen automobile in which they were riding crashed into another car at Northumberland street and South Negley avenue and overturned early today.

The girl, Sally Fuller, 17, of 425 Lehigh avenue, and one of the boys, Richard Denelsbach, 17, of 202 Lehigh avenue, were taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

Two other occupants fled. Later Patrolmen John Kennington and John Whalen arrested two youths in Oakland on suspicious person charges. They gave their names as William Perri, 17, of Robinson street, and Edward Sinclair, 17, of 425 Lehigh avenue. They were suffering from cuts and bruises when arrested, police reported.

THEFT CHARGED

Perri is alleged to have stolen the automobile from the garage of Henry Peatrowsky, of 135 Robinson street, and later picked up the others. Denelsbach also was held by police after being treated at the hospital.

Miss Viola Schill, 20, of Catskill avenue, Brentwood, was cut and bruised last night in a collision of two automobiles at West North and Allegheny avenues. Miss Schill, passenger in a car driven by Edward Chickus, of 1302 Halsey place, was treated at the Presbyterian Hospital. The other machine was operated by Ignats Matulate, of 1438 Western avenue, police reported.

Suffering lacerations of the face when an automobile driven by her son, John Nicklass, 27, of Evans City, overturned after a collision with another car at Beech and Galveston avenues, Mrs. Christina Nicklass, 63, was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital last night. Nicklass and B. J. Snyder, of Charles street, Glenshaw, driver of the other machine, were arrested, police said.

CAR OVER BANK

When the automobile in which she was an occupant struck two poles and went over an embankment at Marion avenue and Ardmore boulevard, Forest Hills, Mrs. Marie Howard, 47, of 209 North Elwood avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., sustained severe lacerations of the hand and foot. She was taken to Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg. Her husband, Charles Howard, 50, who, police said, was driver of the automobile, escaped injury.

Marie Strucker, 12, of Second street, Versailles, sustained severe cuts about the left eye when the windshield of the car in which she was riding was shattered in the McKeesport-Duquesne boulevard, near Kennywood Park. She was given treatment at the Emergency Hospital of the Homestead Steel works. Mifflin Township police arrested her uncle, Donald Westfall, 29, of Versailles, on a reckless driving charge. He was released on a forfeit.

William Mosley, 27, of 510 Murtland avenue, sustained head injuries when a truck he was driving crashed into an iron railing at Friendship Park, at South Mathilda street, Saturday night. Mosely was arrested on a charge of violating the automobile laws, according to police.

CRASH INTO TREE

When an automobile driven by William Dawn, of 1630 Tustin street, crashed into a tree in Schenley Park yesterday, Dawn and Anna Butler, of 10 Pride street, his companions, were injured. They were treated at Mercy Hospital.

Collision of an automobile driven by Tony Stitetic, of 139 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding, and a truck operated by L. W. McCutcheon of 7020 Chauncey street, resulted in injury to Stitetic and his wife. The accident occurred at Fifth avenue and Bigelow boulevard.

Lester Weicher, 19, and his brother Earl, 17, both of 1135 Sixth avenue, Freedom, were taken to the Presbyterian Hospital after their automobile overturned in a collision with another at West North and Irwin avenues, last night. The other machine, police said, was driven by Joseph Russo, 33, of 214 East Lacock street.

Youth Seeking Pigeons Trapped on Church Roof

One experience of being trapped at night on a roof top is sufficient for John Larkin, of 2523 Penn avenue. Today young Larkin was resolved never again to climb roofs for pigeons.

Saturday night the hook and ladder from No. 25 Engine Company was called to rescue him from the roof of St. Stanislaus Roman Catholic Church, Twenty-first and Smallman streets.

The boy and a companion scaled the rain-spout to capture pigeons which make their home in the steeples of the church. Failing to capture any of the birds, the boys planned their descent. John's friend reached the ground safely, but John just couldn't make it when he saw how high he was.

For two hours young Larkin remained there. Attention to his plight was brought to the Rev. Joseph Skibinski, assistant pastor. The priest called firemen, and the rescue by Capt. David Wilson and his men followed.

DARING PILOTS GIVE 2 SHOWS, GO WEST

Fliers Perform at Bettis And at Bradford Fields; Feats of Jackson Thrill

Bettis airport's two-day circus ended before 50,000 aviation fans yesterday, and the Curtiss-Wright exhibition team of stunt fliers is headed westward today, continuing the tour of the country begun last week from Valley Stream airport, Long Island.

Two shows were given by the daring pilots yesterday, one at Bettis Field and the other at Bradford, the planes being flown to and from McKeesport and Bradford without mishap or disappointment to the thousands of fans assembled on the fields. Yesterday's program at Bettis consisted in the main of a duplication of Saturday's spectacular performance.

JACKSON IN STAR ROLE

Red Jackson, in the mystery ship, left little to the imagination of spectators in another brilliant exhibition of speed and stunt flying in every conceivable position. He climbed at precipitous angles, dove upside down, performed difficult outside loops and turns and otherwise thrilled the spectators.

Representatives of the Women's Aviation Association of Pittsburg were busy in the throngs telling about their plans and demonstrating their new glider. A constant press of interested spectators milled around the freakish-looking Tanager, winner of the $100,000 Guggenheim prize for safety.

CROWD FOLLOWS HARRELL

An admiring crowd followed Frances Harrell, noted woman stunt flier, around on the ground and in the air. With her was another prominent woman pilot—Dr. Ruth Bridewell McConnell, physician and flier who has laid aside the practice of medicine for aeronautics. Dr. McConnell stopped off in Pittsburgh to visit with Miss Harrell on her way to Chicago, where she plans to spend the summer in the study of airport operations and maintenance.

Curtiss-Wright students gave an interesting exhibition of formation flying and bomb-dropping. Manager Hal Bazley capping the climax with a burlesque performance when he heaved a large sack of flour into the landing circle.

ROADS PACKED

Highways leading to the field from all directions were jammed with automobiles. Lieut. John Oldham, of the State Highway Patrol at Greensburg, in charge of a detail of patrolmen, worked until almost [illegible] keeping traffic moving. The cars moved slowly, but were kept going by the direction of the officers, who rode up and down the lines of automobiles from noon until late in the evening.

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question:—Our senators have trouble using the dial telephones. Do you?

Miss Feldmeier

MISS GRACE FELDMEIER, bookkeeper, Beechview — I don't like the dial phones. I don't think they're going to be so popular, and, too, it's going to be hard for older people to get accustomed to them.

R. A. Ross

R. A. ROSS, salesman, East End — I don't have a bit of trouble with them and, after you get used to them, they're a lot better than the others and a lot more convenient.

Miss Tressel

MISS VIRGINIA TRESSEL, stenographer, Bellevue — The only trouble I've had with dial phones is when the operator cuts in, after a number has been called, and asks what number was called. Outside of that one objection I like them a lot.

G. J. Lude

G. J. LUDE, salesman, Butler—I've had but little experience with them so far. It will take some time for people to get accustomed to them but after that I think they will be quite popular and will save a lot of time.

Miss Denk

MISS MIRIAM DENK, stenographer, Sharpsburg—I like the dial phones. They are much easier to use and, with them, there is much less misunderstanding and there are better connections.

A. J. Masterson

A. J. MASTERSON, market farmer, Butler road—The dial telephones are much less trouble than the old ones and they are much better. I think they ought to have them altogether and not use the other kind any more at all.

3 TOWNS FIGHT EDGEWOOD FIRE

Firemen from Edgewood, Wilkinsburg and Swissvale were called early this morning to fight a fire of undetermined origin at the home of Borough Councilman Sidney J. Watts of 220 Beach street, Edgewood. John Dyer, Edgewood fire chief, put the damage at $5,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts and their two children, Sidney, Jr., 18, and Mary Elizabeth, 19, were preparing for bed when Mary Elizabeth smelled smoke. Investigation showed that the rear porch was burning. The fire spread from there to rooms on the first floor and then to the upper floors. The roof of the house was destroyed.

Councilman Watts said that he had no enemies and that he did not believe the fire was of incendiary origin.

BISHOP ASSISTS ALTAR RITES

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle officiated at the dedication of the new marble altars in St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, Fourth avenue and Ann street, Homestead, yesterday. The Rev. C. J. Hitanck is pastor. The altars were installed at an estimated cost of $29,000.

Bishop Boyle was the guest of honor at a banquet held in commemoration of the dedication given in Sokol Hall, Fifth avenue, near Ann street, in the afternoon.

30 WILL TALK ON PRINTING

Thirty speakers, leaders in printing and education, are to address delegates to the ninth annual conference on printing education which opened this morning in Carnegie Institute of Technology. The conference, to last three days, is sponsored as part of the educational program of the United Typothetae of America.

A survey giving a general picture of printing instruction in the United States and Canada is to be made public at the meeting. The study was made by Tech students under supervision of Prof. David Gustafson, head of the printing department. Fred J. Hartman, director of education of the Typothetae, is to be general chairman of the conference.

Hartman will preside at a dinner meeting of the group in the Carnegie Institute cafeteria tomorrow night. Prof. Gustafson will present the findings of the survey. Several trips through local printing plants have been planned for the delegates.

ERIE PREPARES SIPLE FETE

ERIE, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—Erie is enthusiastically awaiting the home-coming Saturday of Paul Siple, the Erie Boy Scout who went down to "the bottom of the world" with Rear Admiral Richard Byrd on the Antarctic expedition.

Siple's parents and his sister, Mrs. Kettering, have arrived home from New York, where they took part in the official welcome to Byrd's party. With them came the Erie Boy Scout bugle and drum corps which preceded Byrd in the parade along Broadway.

When Siple arrives he will be escorted to his home by Scouts. A mammoth Scout jamboree will be held at the Erie Athletic Stadium in the afternoon. Siple will be honored Saturday night at a banquet.

SOTTER MAKES WINDOW HERE

By PENELOPE REDD

George Sotter comes into town so quietly that only the few who have watched the progress of his work on the most important project in stained glass of our day, know he is here.

Penelope Redd.

Capturing him on a recent visit after his return from France, he disclosed plans for the great facade window of the Sacred Heart Church one of the largest in the world.

Mr. Sotter, a native of Pittsburgh, although a painter, had always been deeply engrossed in a study of stained glass. To that end, he directed his research with the aid of Mrs. Sotter, who has studied the medium extensively.

Mr. Sotter is literally concentrating his life upon the design and execution of the magnificent stained glass for the Sacred Heart Church. The plan is of such magnitude that he has 24 assistants, largely recruited from his former classes at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He has turned an old Pennsylvania Bucks County grist mill into a studio where master and students work in the pleasant land of Holicong.

George Sotter in planning this great tapestry of color in glass that will adorn the facade of the church, has had special rondels of glass made in Nuremberg to give the rich variation of ruby he desires.

He has deliberately rejected the theatric effects which some modern stained glass designers have introduced into churches. Based upon the finest French designs, the window will add the ultimate in splendor that a Gothic structure may attain.

Two other of the most eminent of stained glass designers are also from Pittsburgh, Lawrence Saint and Charles Connick.

DEATHBED CALL COMES BEFORE INITIAL MASS

Father Francis R. Mullen, Ordained Week Ago, Gives Absolution to Parent

One of the 18 newly ordained priests in the Pittsburgh diocese who celebrated their first mass mingled grief with the joy of his first ascension of the altar yesterday. A few hours before the Rev. Francis R. Mullen was to say his mass in St. Agnes' Catholic Church, he was called to the deathbed of his father, Patrick Mullen of 501 Wilmot street, who died after a brief illness. Father Mullen's first absolution as a priest was given to his father.

With Father Mullen, who offered his first celebration of the holy rite for the repose of the soul of his father, the 17 other young priests offered prayers for the same intention. A week ago Patrick Mullen had been present in St. Vincent's Archabbey Church at Latrobe to watch Bishop Hugh C. Boyle ordain his son to the priesthood.

FUNERAL MASS

Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Paul's Cathedral Father Mullen will say the funeral mass—his first—for his father. Mr. Mullen's death was due to pneumonia. He had been ill at the ordination ceremonies a week previous and the excitement of the event is thought to have aggravated his illness. Father Mullen is a graduate of the Duquesne University high school, Duquesne University and St. Vincent's Seminary.

FIRST SERVICES

Other priests who said first masses in churches of the Pittsburgh diocese yesterday morning were: The Rev. Francis X. Foley, the Rev. William D. Savage and the Rev. William P. Shaughnessy, St. Mary's, Forty-sixth street; the Rev. Joseph A. Keener, St. Mary's, Ford City; the Rev. Thomas Lynch, St. Rosalia's, Greenfield avenue; the Rev. John H. Styka, St. Adalbert, South Fifteenth street; the Rev. Lawrence O'Connell, St. Kieran's, Lawrenceville; the Rev. William J. Mullen, St. Peter's, McKeesport; the Rev. Joseph M. Maxwell, St. Raphael's, Morningside; the Rev. Paul J. Giegerich, Sts. Peter and Paul's, Larimer avenue; the Rev. Andrew Schneider, St. George's, Allen avenue; the Rev. Edward Wiethorn, St. Joseph's, North Side; the Rev. Coleman S. Carroll, Blessed Sacrament, Frankstown avenue; the Rev. John A. Collins, St. Stephen's, Hazelwood; the Rev. Raymond Lucas, St. John's, Coylesville; the Rev. Raymond Buechel, St. Bede's, South Dallas avenue, and the Rev. Thomas Reilley, Mother of Sorrows Church, Johnstown.

JOINT TERMINAL ACTION DUE

Action may be taken on the city's rails-river terminal program when the matter is brought before the council this week. The city solons will give consideration to the plans recently filed by the public works department of the plans for the Hays Station site on the Monongahela River and the supplementing site on the Ohio River below the Manchester Bridge. It is expected the program will be brought up Friday.

Should the plans of the works department be acceptable to Council, and should that body decide to take action toward making them a reality, it is likely that the people might be asked in the near future to approve a bond issue for the work.

The city now has $250,000 available for this work, but the plans of the works department would call for additional sums.

THREE PADLOCK CASES UP

Final hearings for one-year padlocks on the Show Boat, the Plaza Restaurant and the Nixon Restaurant were to be conducted in United States Court today before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. The final injunction hearings are based on petitions filed by Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington. The Show Boat is moored in the Allegheny River, the Plaza Restaurant is at Fifth and Sixth avenues and the Nixon Restaurant in Sixth avenue.

The complaint against the Show Boat alleges liquor was purchased there. It was raided a month ago and has been placed under temporary padlock. There is no allegation of sale against the Plaza and Nixon establishments, but the managements are charged with serving cracked ice and ginger ale to patrons who carried liquor into the restaurants for the purpose of mixing highballs. Several weeks ago Judge R. M. Gibson denied temporary injunctions, but permitted the cases to be listed for final hearings for one year padlocks.

HUNT FOR MAN AFTER ATTACK

South Side police today continued search for a man who attacked a 15-year-old girl in a woods off the Pipe Line road, Hays, last night.

The victim was strolling through the wooded section when the stranger, about 35, seized her, police were told. Shortly after the attack, a posse of neighbors led by patrolmen scoured the district but found no trace of the assailant.

The girl, who lives in Davis avenue, Lincoln place, made her way home and notified her parents. Because of her age, the Sun-Telegraph will not publish her name.

Perrysville Avenue W. C. T. U. to Meet

The Perrysville avenue unit, Women's Christian Temperance Union, will meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Perrysville Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Perrysville avenue and Cutler street. Mrs. Thomas Carson, county director of the Children's Loyal Temperance Legion, will speak. Mrs. H. S. Metcalf will give a demonstration of kindergarten work.

Jacks Up and Out As Wife Calls; One Hurt

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—An enraged Bronx housewife, tired of waiting all night for her poker-playing husband to come home, knocked upon the door of a Bronx apartment, interrupting a quiet seven-handed game.

She demanded in a loud and terrible voice:

"Where is my husband."

Two of the players grabbed their hats and dove out a window. One of them, David Tarvin, 37, fractured his hip when he hit the sidewalk.

At a hospital he was told his leap was needless. It wasn't his wife.

Boys and Dog Fail To Rescue Swimmer

EDDINGTON, Pa., June 23.—(INS.)—The Delaware River near here was being dragged today for the body of James Lord, 19, of Reading, who drowned early last night despite the efforts of his two brothers, Sheldon and Dill, and a German police dog to save him.

Lord, visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Lindstrom, at East Lansdowne, lost his life when apparently seized with cramps. His two brothers and the dog went to his assistance, but Lord disappeared.

INJURY TO MAN LAID TO THUGS

Believed to have been beaten by holdup men, Charles Thayer, 31, of 7101 Monticello street, was found unconscious at Kincaid and North Mathilda streets early today. He was removed to the West Penn Hospital where it was said he was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations on the head. His condition is serious.

Police from the Forty-third street station were notified by residents of the district. Thayer was taken to the hospital where he was revived for a few minutes in which he told police his name. He lost consciousness before explaining what had happened to him.

Railroad Cook Dies On Way to Hospital

Taken suddenly ill while near McKeesport, Laurence Allen, Negro, a cook on a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train, was taken from the train at McKeesport and rushed to the McKeesport Hospital. He was dead when admitted, the report to the coroner indicated. Allen's home is in Indianapolis.

CHURCH MARKS 25TH YEAR

"Reminiscence Night" will be observed in the McKees Rocks Methodist Episcopal Church tonight as part of the four-day program which is marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the congregation. Mrs. William Herbert will head tonight's reception committee.

The celebration opened yesterday morning with an address by Bishop Herbert Welch of the Pittsburgh area. The anniversary program will be brought to a close Wednesday night with an address by the Rev. Dr. Jacob S. Payton, district superintendent of the Pittsburgh conference.

WOMEN VOTERS SPONSOR FETE

The League of Women Voters of the Thirty-second Ward, formerly Overbrook, will sponsor a community day celebration on July 4. The program will open in the morning with a parade. A band concert later in the day and fireworks at night will complete the program. Special features will be arranged to entertain the children. John J. McGrath is chairman of the celebration committee.

TARIFF BOARD MEMBER ASKED

Pennsylvania, with its wide diversity of manufacturing interests, has no representation on the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Federal Trade Commission, and President James Rae, of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, has asked Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, United States Senator David A. Reed and Congressmen from this district, to urge President Hoover to name a Pennsylvanian on the Tariff Commission which is to be appointed before Congress adjourns.

Clyde Kelly, congressman from the Thirty-third District, Pennsylvania, yesterday in response to President Rae's communication, stated:

"I have just received your telegram and assure you I am glad to urge the appointment of a representative from Pennsylvania on the Tariff Commission. The Keystone State is certainly entitled to this appointment."

French Crash Hurts Ex-Pittsburgh Boy

PARIS, June 23.—(AP.)—Wendell Armour, Jr., aged 8, son of a Paris consulting engineer, who formerly was of Pittsburgh, was seriously injured in an automobile accident in the Chevreuse valley late Sunday afternoon while riding with his father. Their car collided with an autobus.

The Armour family has been residing in Paris for three years. The father is engaged as a civil engineer there. When in Pittsburgh he resided at the family home, at 142 La Belle street.

Avalon Arranges July Fourth Fete

Another daughter of a prominent family who'll make her debut this week is Madelaine Alexander, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, who'll make her bow Wednesday at a tea her mother will give at "Franklin Farms," the Sewickley Heights home of the Alexanders and of the William Christopher Robinsons.

Will Aid At Debut

Madelaine has asked to be her aides Ruth Willock, Elizabeth McKay, Elizabeth Childs, Barbara Irwin, Hester Harton Browne and Laura Collord, all sister buds; Mary Franklin Robinson, her cousin, and Peggy Milligan and Anne Stewart, all three of whom made their debuts during the past winter.

* * *

With all the plans made for June debuts, more and more attention is being paid to the calendar for the fall and winter season.

Debut Plans

Thomas Leggate will present his daughter, Martha, to society at a tea dance, I've just learned, on Friday, November 28, in the University Club.

And some time ago I mentioned that Adele and Marianna Lippincott would make their bows in the fall. Their aunt, Miss Emily K. Lippincott, will present her nieces at a tea she will give on Wednesday, November 26, in her Sewickley home.

And there's one more bud affair I want to tell you about; although this event will honor two of the buds of the past season, buds of this season will be guests, too.

The junior Henry Clay Boughmans will give a dinner on Saturday, June 28, in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of Virginia Frew Wright and of Emily Frew.

MISS HARRIET FICKES SIGNING UP TO SWIM AT PITTSBURGH FIELD CLUB OUTDOOR POOL

National B. P. W. Giving Five Trophies for Publicity Work

The publicity committee of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is one of the few in the federation which is making its contest awards in the interim between biennial meetings. Five trophies are offered in the current 1929-30 contest.

The state federation having procured the greatest number of inches of newspaper publicity between June 1 1929 and June 1 1930 in proportion to the number of clubs in the state will receive the first award, the second going to the local club which has the greatest number of inches in local and other newspapers of its state in the same period of time. The third award is to be given the local club in a city or town having only weekly newspapers, the fourth to the club having the most dignified piece of publicity and the fifth to the club obtaining the finest Business Women's Week special edition.

All entries are to be in the hands of Helen Havener, publicity director, New York City, before June 30, with the exception of those in the fifth class, which were sent to her before June 1.

MUCH INTEREST MANIFESTED IN TAILORED ENSEMBLES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JUNE 23.—The street scene shows much of interest in a sartorial way with emphasis placed on little soft fabric suits and dresses cut on rather tailored lines and softened by touches of lingerie and pique trimming. The comfort and cool smartness of such frocks is questioned and they are infinitely preferable to the elaborately cut chiffon frock for daytime informal wear, for trimness is ever a desirable essential of the mode for all but formal outfits. Suits of thin woolens are in great demand here as are frocks of shantung, crepe de Chine and wool crepe. Very little trimming or ornamentation is to be found on these frocks and suits, the absence of such details adding to their desirability and charm. Another thing to be noted is the scarcity of costume jewelry, a most advisable idea in sultry weather when it is as important to look cool as to keep cool if one is to be happy and benefit from the sunshine.

BOTH of the models sketched for today's page are cut on smartly tailored lines. The first is a tailored ensemble from Lenief who is extremely successful with frocks of this type. It is of rough surfaced shantung in beige with a wide spaced line in brown. The jacket-like blouse opens in front over turned-in revers over a gilet of white silk pique. The three-quarter sleeves flare over the tailored cuffs of the pique.

THE BOLERO-JACKET suit is from Lelong's new collection and is of blue wool jersey in light weight quality with a blouse of white handkerchief linen. The bow which fastens the scarf collar on the coat is edged with white linen and a narrow edge of the same fabric borders the cuffs. The inset panel at the front of the skirt is laid in several side pleats. Piecings of the material trim the sides of the jacket and the sleeves. The color combination of blue and white is especially felicitous for the present time of year.

Grape Juice for Health

Physicians Recommend It

A Brain-Sharpener. Pure grape juice served as a breakfast fruit, is so perfectly adapted to the human system that its rich fruit nourishment and mineral salts are taken into the blood stream without digestive effort—quick, new vigor to meet the awaiting problems of the day!

Non-Fattening. Pure grape juice deserves a prominent place on every reducing diet—first, because it supplies the kind of nourishment the body needs; secondly, because it is non-fattening. Its mildly laxative qualities keep one feeling fit and fine.

A Delightful Refreshment. For more than 60 years Welch's Grape Juice—the pure juice of luscious Concords—has proved a delightfully refreshing beverage for millions of people. Six liberal portions to the pint make it the most temptingly delicious 5¢ drink in America. Many prefer it diluted with one-third water. Insist on Welch's—pure, unadulterated.

Welch's GRAPE JUICE

THE BIG HOUSE

By JACK LAIT

man, indicating the third man, who was in a bunk.

"That's the Spic who's takin' Butch's place—he's all right. No speak English."

Kent recognized the man who had passed him the knife at the messhall table. He trembled. The Mexican turned his head and looked first at Kent, then at Morgan, when he heard their voices, then he sighed and pillowed his head in his arms. Morgan, humming all the while, began to rummage in his bunk for his tobacco cache.

"Gee, I'd love to meet that old gang o' mine," he sang, ruthlessly.

Kent leaned against the edge of the bunk, looking out the cell door. Directly behind him was Morgan's blouse. Kent watched his opportunity out of the corner of his eye and when Morgan's giggling back was turned, he sneaked out the knife and slipped it into the inner pocket of his bunkie's coat. At that instant Morgan wheeled and Kent nearly collapsed from fright. But, without noticing him, Morgan went to the door of the cell and called to Sandy, the guard.

"Do me a favor, Sandy," he urged. "They won't let me tell my pal, Butch, goodbye. Here's a bunch of smokes. Hold them for him, will you?"

"Sure," agreed Sandy, taking the tobacco.

Morgan turned a boyishly ecstatic look on Kent.

"Thunk of it, Kid," he cried, "Kippen' on a mattress ... while mom's food ... sunlight dancing ... shows ... women ... anyway, a woman!"

Kent wheeled and crawled into his bunk.

Just then they heard Sandy's voice without.

"Out of your cells—everybody!"

"Gee, they're goin' to frisk the cells—lucky Butch ain't here with that chive—"

"Come on—out!"

Kent rolled from his bunk. Morgan nudged the Mexican and the three went outside. Wallace and two guards came up. Wallace ordered:

"Go through Morgan, Sandy."

"Nothin on me, Captain," smiled Morgan.

Wallace merely grunted. Sandy ran experienced hands over Morgan's clothing, while Wallace entered in the cell.

"Nothing, sir," said Sandy, in a relieved tone. He liked Morgan.

Wallace came out with Morgan's coat.

"This yours?" he asked.

"Yes—but I'm givin' it back to the state," Morgan chuckled. Wallace stuck his hand into the inner pocket and withdrew the knife. Morgan looked at it in an uncomprehending way. Kent turned his head. The Mexican's eyes stood out like eggs. Morgan looked at Wallace, then at Sandy—and then toward Kent.

"You dirty, yellow, little louse!" he cried, making a lunge at Kent. He dug his thumb-ends deep in to the boy's neck.

"Help! He's killing me!" Kent choked and fought to release the other's hand.

"I'll croak you, you fink!"

Wallace and the two guards tore Morgan off. They pinioned him against the cell door.

"You're a bright crook," snarled Wallace. "You've lost your parole now—think that over down in the cooler. Come on!"

"I'll get you, you skunk, if it's the last act o' my life!" rasped Morgan, as they dragged him away. Kent, rubbing his bleeding, bluing throat, cowered against the wall. He had led his ace.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—do not overeat—walk a little each day.

Be sure and get the right one. It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat. Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen Salts means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's all life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fiber of the body and this is followed by that Kruschen feeling of energetic hearts and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful spirits and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from May's & Liggett's Drug Stores or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

FIGHT WATCHED FOR JOBBERY SIGNS

FOR THE FIRST time since the arrival of Primo Carnera in this country the fight world tonight may get some real information as to just what the big Italian amounts to in a fistic sense and how far he is likely to get among the heavyweight champs, possibly this year. And then again, they may get nothing of the kind. It all depends upon whether Carnera's scheduled 10-round bout with George Godfrey in Philadelphia is decided on its merits or turns out to be another of those "business" affairs as many fans have strongly suspected it of being ever since the match was made.

Primo Carnera

In spite of the general feeling about it, the meeting of Carnera and Godfrey appears certain to attract the largest fistic gate ever known in this state with the single exception of the first battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney in the same city in 1926, when the receipts totaled $1,880,000. That's because the enormous size of the principals gives the match as much circus appeal as a fistic attraction that ring followers are willing to take a chance on it for the novelty of seeing the Italian giant in action against an opponent who is not only a capable ringman but who also is physically qualified to cope with him.

THAT'S THE FEATURE that leads the fans to gamble on the possibility that the thing will be on the level. If it will ought to prove one of the fairest battles and most novel spectacles that the heavyweight class has produced in a long time. More than that, it will do much to help the standing of the game in general for rarely has a big match been looked upon in advance with so much suspicion.

The main reason for this feeling is that the methods of the men behind Carnera on his American tour have left many unwilling to believe that they would take a real chance when there is so much at stake. The trail of the vast Venetian is strewn with rumors of hand-picked set-ups, diving acts and other bits of fistic jobbery. The troupe has been barred out of numerous states, with California taking the lead. Even the so-called test against K. O. Christner in Detroit recently was not wholly convincing.

IF CARNERA IS really a capable fighter, why all the push-overs and dives? And if he is not a capable fighter would they send him against so dangerous a man as Godfrey, and risk the killing of him as a drawing card unless they had reason to feel sure that the fight would somehow end in the Italian's favor?

Those are the questions that have been asked in connection with tonight's fight, and there is the additional angle that if Carnera wins he will have a fortune ahead of him in championship or near-championship, possibly one with Jack Dempsey in a comeback, whereas a victory for Godfrey will not get the Negro anywhere in particular. They won't give him a chance and they'll say that Carnera never amounted to anything anyhow.

George Godfrey

IT IS IN such situations that Queensberry racketeers generally try to pull something, and that's why the match has been viewed with doubt—doubt that has been increased recently by the disclosure that Carnera signed for 60 per cent of the gross receipts and contracted to pay Godfrey $10,000 out of his end. That the principal to whom victory means the more is to pay the man he fights is anything but an ideal arrangement. Perhaps the dubious ones are all wrong and, everything will be on the up and up, but they are wasting to be shown. The general feeling is that Carnera will win, or that otherwise the match never would have been made, but the game will suffer unless he does it in a manner that will convince everybody it was accomplished fairly and squarely and against Godfrey's best.

IT'S JUST ONE weakness after another in the case of the Pirates, whose defeat in Brooklyn yesterday put them in sixth place below the Braves and left them only one game above the Phillies and the seventh hole. For a time they couldn't hit at the right moments, then the pitching or the fielding fell down, and now the Bucs can't hold a lead in the late innings.

They were ahead of the Giants by one run going into the ninth inning on Saturday, but couldn't prevent the McGrawites from tying it up in the ninth and winning out in the tenth. Yesterday they were three markers to the good over the Dodgers after the first half of the seventh, but in two innings, with Babe Herman's bat as the chief weapon, the Robins made six runs and another game slipped away, the tenth dropped out of the last 13 played.

IT WILL REQUIRE some tall hustling in the three games with Brooklyn at Forbes Field starting today. If the Ensmen are to be the first club to win a series from the Robins in more than six weeks.

The Cincinnati series was the first of 11 in succession since May 8 that the Dodgers failed to win, but at that they didn't lose it, as they got an even break by winning both games of Saturday's doubleheader.

Babe Herman

AMONG THE FEATURES of yesterday's games in the major leagues it might be mentioned that home runs for the season in the two loops passed the 600 mark, the totals now being 348 in the National and 260 in the American; that Hack Wilson's twenty-first homer gave him the National League leadership by one over Walter Berger and put him within two of Babe Ruth; that Burleigh Grimes had an easy time pitching and winning his first game for the Cardinals over the Phillies; that Fred Frankhouse, one of the men for whom Grimes was traded, turned in his second victory for the Braves at the same time; that the defeat of the Cubs by the Braves was only their sixth fall in their last 23 games; that for the first time a game in Boston was cut short by the Sunday law which prohibits playing after 6 o'clock.

ONCE AGAIN PITTSBURGH holds the spotlight as the scene of a national championship golf tournament, and the city will be the center of general attention this week during the competition for the intercollegiate team and individual titles.

The Oakmont tourney that opened today will also serve to show the quality of game played by the leading college golfers of this section in comparison with that played in other parts of the country. Judging from the form shown recently, it will be no easy task for the visiting stars to keep Fred Brand, Jr., of Penn State; Samuel Parks, Jr., of Pitt, or one of the other home entrants, from bringing the honors to this district.

SUCH OF THE modern drawn-out wrestling matches that happen to be on the level, if any, are not to be compared with the mat

HARRIS SENT BACK

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(AP.)—Spencer Harris, substitute outfielder for the Athletics, will be returned to the Minneapolis club in the American Association the Philadelphia club announced last night. Harris came to the Athletics from Detroit, which had obtained him from Minneapolis. Under the rules he will be sent back to the latter club.

FEDR BRAND, JR. IN TRIPLE TIE FOR SECOND

By VERN SWARTSEAGER.

Lawrence Mezzi, Notre Dame star, took the lead in the opening 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round of the National Intercollegiate golf championship here early this afternoon when he scored 41-39—80 to lead the Pittsburgh boys. Fred Brand, Jr., of Penn State, Phillip Furlay of Harvard and George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, by two strokes.

Klaus M. Young, Jr., of Geneva, another Western Pennsylvania product was tied in the opening with a fine by J. Richard Holmes of Princeton and Harry Pritchett of Alabama, turned in 80s.

If these men do as well in the last 36 holes of the qualifying test tomorrow they stand an excellent chance of getting a place among the lucky 32 who will continue at match play. It will take some exceptionally good work tomorrow on the parts of Francis P. Hershey of Princeton, who had 81, and Mac Burnett of Texas, who had 83, to get in the fold.

BRAND ERRATIC

The play of Fred Brand, Jr., of Penn State who is a member of the Shannopin Country Club was so erratic on the putting greens that it was surprising he had as fine a tally as he did.

Going out in 41 with two three-putt greens and coming home in 37 with three more of the same brand was no joke to Fred die who said after he had finished he simply couldn't see em when he needed em the most. Particularly was this the case on the eighteenth green where he had a two-foot putt for a 4 and a 77 total—and missed it. Except for two 6s as he finished the first nine Brand played fair golf through the green and if he can get his putting working tomorrow should be a hot contender for medal honors.

Knox M. Young, Jr., of Geneva, another of the local contenders, a Highland player, took a 39 going out with a 6 at the beginning and another at the end, and was a stroke worse finishing up although he had only one 6 that on the twelfth. On five holes he was over par coming in.

LOCAL STARS SHINE

The other Pittsburgh district entrants Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of Pitt, another Highland star, F. Hart Darragh, of Geneva who plays at Beaver Valley and Young Joe Royston, Jr., of Michigan, a third Highland youngster whose post-entry was accepted this morning, got away to late starts and were reported doing fairly well.

J. Richard Holmes of Princeton was away above the Old Man going out with a 43 but had a splendid in-coming, nine winding up with a 37, only two over par. Harry Pritchett, Alabama star, was poor going out also but succeeded in matching Holmes' 80 with a 36 for the last nine.

81 FOR HERSHEY

The 81 of Francis P. Hershey, of Princeton, was caused by a 44 coming in after he had needed only 39 to go out, while Mac Burnett, of Texas, played a consistent 42-41 for his 83.

Al Brodbeck, of Penn, found the going tough for his 43-41—84 and Francis Beaupre, of Notre Dame, fell off worse than that with 42-44—86. Other collegians who did not appear to have a chance of coming back tomorrow, unless they staged a miracle, were H. W. Eckstrom, of Dartmouth, with 42-44—86; D. Mitchell, of Har-

PRIMO READY FOR GODFREY

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(AP.)—The big boys, Primo Carnera, Italy, and George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., Negro, went through the final motions yesterday, and at the end of brief workouts were pronounced fit for their 10-round collision at the Phillies' ball park tonight.

Because of the unusual weight the battling giants will lug into the arena the underpinning has been strengthened with steel beams. Primo will scale about 268 and the black panther about 245.

Owing to the size of the fighters' hands their gloves will be almost skin tight. So much of the six-ounce weight limit was used in the extra amount of leather required that very little padding was necessary.

Carnera, with a long string of quick knock-outs to his credit since his American invasion began six months ago, has expressed confidence through his manager that Godfrey would go the way of his other opponents and be counted out before the final round. He conceded the dusky Goliath the greater experience and the greater boxing skill, but said Godfrey could not stand up under his powerful punches to the body.

AMERICAN NET STARS WIN

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 23.—America drew first blood in the Wimbledon tennis championships when Wilmer Allison, flashing star of Austin, Tex., defeated E. F. Moon, of Australia, as the colorful tournament opened before an enthusiastic crowd here today.

Allison downed the more experienced Australian in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

The annual scenes of the Wimbledon opening were enacted today, lines of fans forming early in the morning for good places in the unreserved sections.

The play continued on 16 courts, so the big field of singles could be cut in half by nightfall.

Allison's impressive first-round victory cheered the large American contingent in the Wimbledon stands. It was estimated 15,000 people, including many fashionable society folk, were on hand for the opening of the tournament.

Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., staged a strong finish to defeat A. W. Vinall, England, at 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

H. K. Lester, of Great Britain, beat the American, Eugene McCauliffe 6-2, 7-5, 0-6, and 6-4 in their round of the Wimbledon championships today.

Johnny Doeg, hard-hitting young American southpaw, pounded his way to victory over Nigel Sharpe, England, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1.

Henri Cochet, of France, the defending singles champion, was extended to five hard sets to win from Hans Timmer of Holland, in the first round of the Wimbledon tournament. Cochet finally won by scores of 6-4, 9-11, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Berkeley Bell, of California, defeated A. W. Vinall, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Gregory S. Mangin, of New Jersey, defeated Y. Ohta, of Japan, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Yachts Set Sail On Record Deep Water Race

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 23.—(AP.)—A fleet of 40 sail slipped out of the harbor here yesterday to engage in the greatest deep-water sailing contest ever raced. With Bermuda, 660 nautical miles distant, as the goal and the Bermuda trophy and several other prizes to strive for, the armada swung past the committee boat, one by one, before the starting gun for a last check on chronometers.

Twenty-nine of the competing yachts are schooner-rigged, six are yawls, four are ketches and two are cutters. Their home ports, with one exception, are scattered along the Atlantic seaboard from Philadelphia to Portland, Me. The exception, the ketch Zena, hails from Bermuda.

BOWEN, MATES SET SAIL

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP.)—Five track and field stars were headed toward Europe and a series of meets abroad today.

Aboard the Berengaria which sailed at midnight were George Bullwinkle of City College of New York, I. C. A. A. A. A. one-mile champion; Pete Bowen, of Pittsburgh, crack quarter miler; Steve Anderson, of the University of Washington, hurdler; Ed. Hamm of Georgia Tech, broad jump star, and Tommy Warne of Northwestern, pole vaulter.

The Americans will compete in meets abroad as follows: July 2, Cologne, Germany; 4, Duesseldorf; 6, Duisburg; 9, Berlin; 12, Oslo, Norway; 16, Eskilstuna, Sweden; 21 and 22, Stockholm, Sweden; 24, Helsingfors, Finland; 25, Abo, Finland.

A somewhat discordant echo of the Grimes deal emanated in the Pirate camp today with the announcement that Pitcher Percy Lee Jones had been given his release.

The Boston National League club in March gave up Jones and a big sum of money for Burleigh Grimes, star pitcher of the Pirates. Percy, however, has been unable to turn in a single success for the Braves.

In making the announcement on Jones, Pirate officials stated they were of the opinion that Percy is not the same pitcher he was before the lefthander underwent an operation for removal of certain bones in the elbow of his pitching arm.

When Percy came to the Cubs about 10 years ago he was believed to be a brilliant prospect, but arm trouble developed and evidently he has not had as much "stuff" since that time.

NOT CONSISTENT

Percy went to the Braves in the deal that sent Hornsby to the Cubs. At times he approached the status of a good pitcher, but he was not consistent enough to win regularly.

Jones' release by the Pirates means that 15 other major league clubs waived on him. There seems to be a feeling around to the effect that Percy's arm trouble is bad and no owner wanted to risk the chance of claiming him at the waiver price.

About two years ago a story was printed stating that Percy Lee was to fall heir to a large fortune. Jones informed the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that there is an estate that dates from generations back, but apparently it is in litigation. However, Percy's father, a well-known Texan, is a man of considerable wealth.

BUCS ANGLE FOR BURLER

The release of Jones cuts the Pittsburgh squad of sharpshooters to six active pitchers, exclusive of Steve Swetonic and Bernard Walter, the untried collegian. Moreover, it reduces what was a promising crop of southpaws to one—Larry French. Jess Petty, Ralph Erickson, Martin Lang and Jones have passed along.

The Pittsburgh officials, however, are on the trail of a pitcher,

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, June 23.—On their present Western trip, the Robins expect to sew up the pennant. Well, the Cubs, Cards and Pirates are waiting for them with the needle. Brooklyn will find there are no migratory bird laws in the Middle West to protect the Robins. As an old taxidermist myself, I predict that if the Robins don't fly back to Flatbush leading the league, they will come back in a pine box. Have you watched Goose Goslin since we let him join the St. Louis Blues? It looks like Goose was just waiting to quit being a Senator before he went on a hitting spree.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

With many free customers sitting in on the show as a result of the decision of the boxing commission that all tickets sold for last Friday night's Tony Herrera - Eddie Elkins bout, which was halted and called "no contest" because of a bout on Elkins' right arm, must be redeemed, the Meyers Bowl of North Braddock, considerably in the "red" because of a number of early-season reverses, makes an attempt to turn around the corner and make a new start tonight, when it offers a world champion, Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, against Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, in its 10-round main bout.

Joey Goodman

Bass is the holder of the junior-lightweight title, which, however, will not be at stake, since Goodman is a full-fledged lightweight and cannot possibly scale down to the 130 pounds that the junior division calls for. The bout marks Benny's second appearance in the Meyers Bowl. With Steve Smith as his opponent, he christened the large outdoor arena last year.

TICKETS EXCHANGED

The Bowl management was busy Saturday and yesterday redeeming Friday night's tickets and will continue to do so until noon today. Any tickets not exchanged by noon will not be good for admission tonight, but will be bought back in cash after this show. Meanwhile, the managers of Herrera and Elkins have engaged counsel and are preparing to sue for their purses, on the ground that the boxers were not responsible for the fiasco, since they were passed as physically fit for the battle and fulfilled their contracts by entering the ring and boxing through three rounds before the commission called a halt. The club is carrying out the orders of the commission to the letter and in turn likely will sue the commission to recover from the state for all losses incurred through the hasty action of ordering all money refunded after the spectators had witnessed what amounted to the entire show.

In the light of what happened, it is the general opinion among boxing men that a mistake was made and that Elkins, satisfied to enter the ring impaired by his ailment, should have been permitted to continue until he was knocked out or should have been declared the loser on a technical knockout when he was deemed unable to continue.

Both Bass and Goodman arrived in town fit for their clash tonight. Goodman got in Saturday night with his manager, Jimmy Dunn, and stablemate, Phil Goldstein, the local lightweight, who has helped him get into condition. Bass arrived yesterday.

BELMONT VS. BEATTY

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, returns to the ring following a layoff to take on Allen Beatty, McKeesport Negro, in the eight-round semi-final. Johnny Warner, of Clairton, and Young Nanci, of Swissvale, will box the second bout, and U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, are in the opener.

Bouts also are scheduled tonight in New Castle, where Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Routier Para, of Chile, are the main-bouters at the Jolly Bowl, and at Wheeling, where Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, meets Henry Lenard, Chicago southpaw. Lenard takes the place of Tony Leone, of Dover, O., whom he knocked out in one round in Chicago last Monday night.

AS A FOOTBALL HERO

Here we have a flashback to Uansa on the gridiron. Notice that his form is the same in both pictures. In the batting picture he looks just the same as he did when starting on one of his famous end runs for the Panthers. He was one of the most sensational performers in the collegiate realm with his long gallops last fall.

Between Rounds

Primo Carnera will have only about 25 pounds advantage over George Godfrey in their battle in Philadelphia tonight. The Primo will scale about 260 pounds against 240 for George. Station WFAS will broadcast the battle.

Johnny Risko and Tuffy Griffiths have been matched for the Chicago Stadium next Monday night. Griffiths holds two victories over Risko, who last Friday night defeated Pauline Uzcudun in Detroit. The Tuff One won the first bout on a foul in Detroit and easily punched his way to victory in a return bout in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The Buck McTiernan-Farmer Joe Cooper return bout is on again for the Meyers Bowl two weeks from tonight. Johnny Datto and Jackie Rodgers box in the Bowl next Monday night. Jackie, his injured side healed, is preparing for the test at Willie Davies' camp in the mountains.

Hickey Park, Millvale, will offer a card of two 10-round bouts, an eight-rounder and a six-rounder, on Thursday night. Al Andruzzi, of the East End, and Ray Collins, of Erie, will be on top, with Tug Phillips, of Erie, and Johnny Smarkey, of Canonsburg, boxing the other 10-rounder. Georgie Brotach, of the North side, will be one of the principals in the second bout, and Jerry Rivera, of Brentwood, and recently of Chicago, will take on Al Becker in the six-round opener.

Cleveland's fight card for this week is all jammed up, due to postponements the last two weeks. Harry Elliott, who was to meet Gorilla Jones, and Sergt. Sammy Baker, who was to box Tommy Freeman in the two feature bouts, are off the bill and Vincent Forgione, who recently bowed to Gorilla at the Meyers Bowl, will face him again, while Freeman's opponent has not yet been named. The show is billed for Wednesday night. Patsy Pirrone will be one of the principals in the semi-final and Lynn Jordan also is on the card, the Heavy Andrews-Eddie Kaufman preliminary having been called off. The only original match that remains is a six-rounder between Frank Florian and Bert Finch.

KITZMILLER ELECTED

John Kitzmiller, the Flying Dutchman quarterback of the University of Oregon was elected after spring practice under the Washington's new coach, Dr. Clarence Spears.

LEAGUE DISBANDS

LYNN, Mass., June 23.—The New England Baseball League, composed of four clubs, has decided to disband for the season due to poor patronage and lack of interest.

Sport Vignettes

Chairman Wiener, of the State Athletic Commission, we read, has warned Primo Carnera and George Godfrey to fight on the level tonight .... Gosh, and all along we thought they were booked for Philadelphia .... Max Schmeling will fight Jack Sharkey again if they bar Graham McNamee from the microphone .... How about elaborating on that condition a bit? .... Why not insist that Sharkey refrain from eating New England cod for a week before the battle? .... And that Max get the same referee as the last time .... And that Harold Barnes be in the judge's seat to see the foul again? .... And that Uncle Sam cancel the German debt? .... And that Manager Joe Jacobs be permitted in the ring at all times instead of only after Maxie has claimed his foul? .... And that Ziegfeld furnish Max a Broadway chorus for his entertainment between rounds? .... Anything to be ridiculous .... It isn't generally known, but Peaches Gallagher, who is a stablemate of George Panka, the Homestead heavyweight, also is a former bricklayer and used to carry a hod for George .... Luke Carney, Panka's trainer and chief second, has a letter from Jack Moore, the celebrated Irish wit, of New York, manager of boxers and a good friend of Red Mason as well as Luke .... As soon as Luke can have it translated, he will send an answer .... Pete Bowen, of Pitt, is on his way to Europe to train for the national track and field championships to be held at the Stadium, August 22, 23 and 25, and prepare some arguments to justify track athletics in the eyes of this writer .... Bobby Jones wishes they'd had some of those miniature golf courses when he was a kid so he could have learned to play the game .... A good husband is a gent who is too tired to put up the screen door when he gets home from the office, but thinks it's great stuff to go out on a driving range twice a day .... The Meyers Bowl's idea of a good break is not what happened to its Tony Herrera-Eddie Elkins show the other night .... And, although Benny Bass is one of the principals in tonight's windup there, we have the word of Apples Meyers that there's nothing fishy about this one.—HARRY KECK.

whom they expect to land late this week.

The slumping Buccos were defeated by the Robins, 9 to 6, yesterday in Brooklyn. Larry French had a three-run lead as late as the seventh inning, but he could not hold it.

Babe Herman hit his second homer of the afternoon in the seventh to give the Robins three runs, which deadlocked the game. The Flatbush crew won out in the eighth. Clark and Luque were the opposing pitchers.

Nat Outfielders Given Scare in Ball Game

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—Washington outfielders looked forward to the double header with Cleveland today with anxiety and nervousness and it wasn't because the games may have a bearing on the American League pennant race.

Sam West, center fielder, and Dave Harris, substitute outfielder, are certain that somebody, using a gun instead of a bat, took several shots at them during yesterday's game with Chicago.

During the seventh inning, they said, something hurtled by their ears sounding like infuriated bees and they saw the turf fly nearby. They started for the bench, but remained until the inning closed and then informed Manager Walter Johnson.

Police are investigating.

They are working on the theory that the outfielders were annoyed by boys throwing toy torpedoes through holes in the fence.

UPSETS FEW IN WEST PA. NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

General clean-up of first and second round men's singles tilts is on this afternoon's program of contesting in the forty-second annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships. Play is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock, with contestants in the top quarter of the draw cavorting again at the Edgewood Club and the remainder of the host trekking to the home scene at Stanton Heights for action.

It will be necessary in order to keep the exceptionally large man-to-man event moving properly toward a Saturday finale, to complete all matches in the initial bracket and the vast majority of those in frame two today, and it is also hoped that several third round affairs will likewise be reeled off before sundown.

ARENSBERG VICTOR

Wally Arensberg, ripping strokesmith of the Harvard Freshman squad, flashed the outstanding upset of the competition to date by battling doggedly from the rear to take over Tack Hammer, Westmoreland County champion and one of the highly rated seeded luminaries of the tournament, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Aside from the Hammer defeat, startling reversals failed to materialize. Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace and 1928 titleholder, opened his campaign for the McCahill Cup with impressive 6-0, 6-1 victory over John Hooper, really formidable ex-Tartan performer. Paul Hicks, Edgewood top man, copped a default, then carved out second round triumph over Vernon Flinner, former Geneva College southpaw, 6-2, 6-3.

O'CONNOR DEFEATED

Frank Broida, another Harvard product, hung up what a few summers ago would have been colossal achievement by downing Jimmy O'Connor, South Hills ranking stepper, 6-1, 7-5, in the inaugural round. Frank Smith, Edgewood leader, clicked off a second Stanton mainstay in administering 6-1, 6-0 setback to Mabon Bovard.

In round two, Paul Barber, Penn State crack, downed Dick Cable, smashing University Club entry, 6-2, 6-1, while Art Glaser, P. A. A., after nabbing a three-setter from Regis Bullion, of the Dukes, outstayed giant Hub Rinehart, Stanton Heights, 6-2, 6-4. Fred Rudisill, of York, Pa., moved on at the expense of Van Weber in love sets.

The men's doubles list will be open until 6 p. m. today, entries being receivable at Stanton Heights until that hour. The dual draw will be made tonight, as will the draw for men's consolation singles. Women's singles entrants have until tomorrow evening to file their names and an additional day of grace will be granted teams in women's and mixed doubles.

The feature entertainment of the tourney will be Western Pennsylvania tennis dance at the Stanton Heights clubhouse tomorrow evening. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Round One—Carl Wolfe defeated Joe O'Connor, 6-1, 6-0; R. J. Moore won from George Kaufmann by default; Sam Harbison won from Edward Hide by default; J. S. Oiko won from R. F. Grossman by default; G. D. Henderson defeated Gene Altman, 6-1, 6-2; Edwin Clarke won from Stanley Rupp by default; John Hecker defeated R. W. Schmertz, 6-4, 6-2; Maurice Saperstein won from Stanley Cooper by default; W. P. Hazeltine defeated Albert Heacox, 6-3, 6-2; Paul Barber defeated W. N. James, 6-0, 6-4; Frank Broida defeated J. T. O'Connor, 6-1, 7-5; Arthur Glaser defeated Regis Bullion, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2; Paul Hicks won from George Kennedy by default; Dr. John O'Loughlin defeated John Hooper, 6-0, 6-1; Paul G. Sullivan defeated Norman Hardy, 6-1, 6-4; Neal Rumsey won from Howard Campbell by default; Drummond Chantler defeated Charles D. Lyon, 6-0, 6-4; H. E. Clark defeated Ralph Shiveley, 6-0, 6-1; Frank S. Smith defeated Mabon Bovard, 6-1, 6-0; Dr. R. F. Peterson defeated D. R. Hixson, 6-4, 6-0; Walter Arensberg defeated E. T. Hammer, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3; Jack Beatty defeated Allison Maxwell, Jr., 6-1, 6-2; Jack Rosen won from Robert Schmertz by default; Harold Reber won from Tiers by default; Alfred McCabe won from William Bickle by default; Monty Ganger won from J. L. McLain by default.

Round Two—Paul Barber defeated Dick Cable, 6-2, 6-1; Frank Broida defeated R. P. Rhodes, 6-1, 6-2; Arthur Glaser defeated H. M. Rinehart, 6-3, 6-4; Paul Hicks defeated Vernon Flinner, 6-2, 6-3; Drummond Chantler defeated Neal O. Rumsey, 6-3, 6-1; Fred Rudisill defeated Van Weber, 6-0, 6-0; Jack Lauler defeated Charles Arensberg, 6-0, 6-3; Jack Beatty defeated Jack Rosen, 6-2, 6-3.

Chairman, All American Board of Track and Field

POUGHKEEPSIE

The East has mobilized all its rowing strength, with the exception of Yale, Harvard and Princeton, to resist the invasion of their Pacific Coast guests, California and Washington.

Knute Rockne

In view of the football and track successes of Southern California and Stanford, the East is doubly desirous of keeping the rowing title on the Atlantic Seaboard this summer. Columbia and the Navy have fine crews and the Navy already has emerged triumphant in a brush with California.

At Syracuse, Ten Eyck is using seven of last year's champion freshman crew in the Orange shell. Cornell is quite hopeful, while Penn and Wisconsin are hoping for only a good showing.

In the far-western race, Washington won from California by a length, although some of the California followers were doubtful owing to the movable finish buoy.

Quite a little will depend upon the luck of the draws and the breaks at the start, but these things being equal, the East has an even chance of retaining the championship.

STEELERS MEET RIECK NINE TODAY

By TOM BIRKS.

The outstanding battle this evening on the local sandlots will find the Carnegie Steel nine battling Rieck-McJunkins at Sullivan field in the Commercial and Industrial League. The Steelers gave Reliance a fight last Friday losing by one run.

In the Central loop, the Y M H A aggregation will tackle Coraletts at Schenley High School field.

In the City loop, the feature battle as far as the leadership is concerned will be staged at Olympia Park, where the North side Civics and Book Shoe will do their stuff.

The other game will find Stowe Civics starting up with J. L. Thomas at Dean field.

GRAYS IN PAIR

The sandlot baseballers forsook league competition entirely yesterday, but put forth a fine program of independent tussles.

Playing in Buffalo, N. Y., the Homestead Grays annexed a pair of wins, defeating the Easter Brands, 17 to 6 and 6 to 2.

The Duquesne Traders defeated the Pittsburgh Monarchs, 6 to 3; Banksville won over the Oliver I and S. nine, 15 to 2, and Ray Riddle's North Siders hammered out a 7-to-4 victory over the P. J. Cauls at Blarnick Park, Ambridge, 7 to 4.

Portvue was defeated by the fast traveling Crawfords, 10 to 2, and St. Adelberts downed Carpello, 9 to 1. The Brodericks nosed out the B. P. Arrows, 10 to 9 in a good game.

Grand Circuit Meet Opens at Fort Miami

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—(AP.)—The Grand Circuit harness racing season opens at the Fort Miami track here tonight with pacers who have long lists of victories behind them entered in the inaugural feature.

Enoch Guy, Sep Palin's pacer which is first choice in the winter books to win the Kalamazoo Derby, the country's richest stake for aged horses, heads the list of entries in the 13 class pace, the feature tonight. Other entries include Helen Direct, May Gratton, Royal Lady and Peter McKinney, all of whom have enviable records.

The meet will last six days, culminating in the handicap pace Saturday night in which Winnepeg, 1:57¾, champion pacer, will be driven by Palin.

JOCKEYS TIED

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—With one week of racing left at Washington Park, Jockeys Paul Neal and Carl Never are tied for leadership in hooting honors with 17 victories. Each has 17 victories.

Bill Chittum Wins Columbus Auto Race

COLUMBUS, June 23.—(AP.)—Bill Chittum, Columbus, won the 100-mile automobile race on the Beula Park half mile dirt track at Grove City yesterday. His time was one hour and 21 minutes.

M.-A. LEADERS SHUT OUT

Pitcher Morrison of Fairmont turned back the league leading Johnstown club in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday with three scattered hits and the Black Diamonds won a 3-to-0 victory.

At Clarksburg Clarksburg nosed out Scottdale, 3 to 2, in a close contest, scoring two runs in the ninth to win.

Eddie Lenon, recently acquired pitcher, was in fine form at Wheeling as the rejuvenated Stogies defeated Jeannette, 4 to 2. He permitted but three hits.

Cumberland won over Charleroi at Charleroi, 4 to 3, checking a ninth inning rally by the Glass.

Indian Driver Wins Baltimore Grind

BALTIMORE, June 23.—(AP)—Johnny Boyd, Oklahoma City Indian, won the feature 25-mile race as automobile racing was inaugurated at the Milford Park speedway yesterday. He led a field of six around the half-mile track in 27 minutes 45 seconds and won $500.

Second was M. A. Myers, Indianapolis, and third and fourth respectively went to Vernon McCombs and W. J. Uppergraft, also of Indianapolis.

The races, run before 5,000 spectators, marked the inauguration of dirt track racing in Maryland.

HOLE IN ONE

C. J. Howell of Highland scored a hole in one on No. 14, a 161-yard test, at the Shannopin Country Club yesterday.

Bambino Tells Catchers How To Give Pitchers Signals

NOTICE HOW SIGN IS GIVEN
GLOVE HIDES SIGN FROM HITTER
PROTECTOR SHIELDS SIGN FROM COACH
HAND HELD FAR BACK SIGN CANNOT BE SEEN FROM SIDELINES CLEARLY VISIBLE TO PITCHER

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player

"Everytime I try to catch a ball game it seems to me someone steals my signals," Mac complained, "and, if I cover them up so the hitter can't see them, then the pitcher can't see them, either."

"Let's see how you give signs," I told him.

He squatted down to make his signs and, like all kids, he gave the signals against the mitt. I laughed.

"Why are you laughing?" he asked.

"Why, a blind man could get those signs," I said.

Then I showed him the real way to give signs—just as you see in the picture.

TWO SIGNALS ENOUGH

The trouble with most kid catchers is that they have too many signs. I can remember as a kid we had four or five signals—one finger for an inshoot, two fingers for an out-curve, three for an outdrop and four for a drop. As a matter of fact, you need only two with most pitchers—a sign for a fast ball and a sign for a curve. If the catcher knows a curve ball is coming he can play for it no matter whether it breaks sidewise or down or diagonally across the plate. And the fewer signs a catcher has the easier it is for himself, for the pitcher and for the other players.

A good way to confuse the hitter is by giving several signs. For instance, give three different signs and have an understanding with the pitcher that it is only a certain one that counts. For instance, suppose the second one is the real one. The catcher shows one finger, then two fingers, then one finger again. The hitter doesn't know what to expect even though he sees the signal—but the pitcher knows that the first and third sign mean nothing and that the second one counts.

In the big leagues, the usual signals are one finger for the fast ball and two for a curve. Then, of course, there are different signs for special pitches like a pitch-out.

MUST COVER UP SIGNS

The big thing for a catcher to remember in giving signs is that they must be given in such a way that the second baseman or shortstop can see them, too, and can signal them to the other players. Infielders and outfielders can do a much better defensive job if they know what every pitch is going to be and where each pitch is going.

You will notice that in the picture Mac is squatted down in such a way that the mitt hides the sign from the hitter. The end of his protector keeps the coacher from seeing what he has signaled and his hand is held so far back between his legs that his signs can't be seen from the sidelines. That's the proper way to give signals.

Then, once the pitcher has the sign, get to your feet, take a firm stance with feet far apart and body balanced to move in any direction quickly. And, finally, don't forget to give the pitcher a target.

NET TOURNEY ENTRIES GROW

With start of hostilities still three weeks distant, no less than 40 racqueters are already entered for competition in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh public parks tennis championships in men's and women's singles.

Interest shown thus early is unerringly indicative of the popularity of an event that will give to a man and a woman municipal court star city-wide net distinction and opportunity to represent Pittsburgh in the national public parks championships at Washington, D. C., in August, as guests of the Sun-Telegraph.

That leaning toward tournament activity is by no means confined to a single section of the town is demonstrated by the fact that entries for the milling are in hand in goodly numbers from each of the six parks in which tilting will be sponsored. Schenley and Highland parks are coming in strongly, with Olympia names piling up day by day and talent from the new Frick lot beginning to show conclusively that the Forbes-Braddock sector will have to be reckoned with seriously in determining the destiny of the crowns.

A fact to be borne in mind by park performers who may hesitate to engage in tournament contesting is the absence of outstanding favorites to annex honors in either the men's or the women's division. Entrants will come about as close to starting from scratch with all boasting chance to advance toward honors as it is possible to conceive of.

Clip the public parks championship entry blank in today's Sun-Telegraph, fill it in and mail it as directed, and seek the trophies and Washington trips that await the victors.

Long's Sport Comment

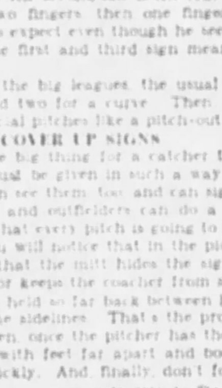
struggles in the days of William Muldoon, Ed Bibby, Joe Acton, Ernest Roeber, Tom Connors, and others, a veteran of the game told Gordon MacKay.

Even the idea of a struggle between a wrestler and a fighter is not new, he declares, as Bibby and John L. Sullivan were matched for such a contest in Scranton 40 years ago, though they did not go through with it.



William Muldoon

"TALK ABOUT LONG matches nowadays!" snorted the old-timer. "Why, I saw one in Scranton, then the wrestling center of the United States in which William Muldoon, then world champion and now one of the New York boxing commissioners, met Antonio Pierri, known as 'the Beautiful Greek,' and in which there wasn't a fall in eight hours and 35 minutes. Pierri trained for two weeks on lore that made him fat and his perspiration oily. In addition, he was rubbed daily with olive oil. He had small hands, too, and every time Muldoon got a hold Pierri would yank out his hand and the champion would lose his grasp. They wrestled Graeco-Roman style in those days and this match was the starter to abolish the old stuff and put on catch-as-catch-can. Why, when they wrestled collar-and-elbow, with a harness, the men could stand up four or five hours and never have the least trouble. They were rough lads, too, those wrestlers. I saw Tom Connors pull one of Bibby's arms right out of the socket to win a match that had gone three and a half hours."

DOUDS SWAPS GRIDDING FOR GOLFING

By JESS CARVER.

Mr. Forrest G. (Jap) Douds more or less well known as a football player at Wash-Jeff, a William of all-America fame on more occasions than you have fingers on one hand, one of the best linesmen ever developed hereabouts, has a new racket. And what a racket!

The hefty Jap, who is becoming as wide of girth as he always has been of shoulder, is golf plying his way through the summer and is in full and complete charge of the Iron Thumb course at Ambridge. I could tell he was the pro when I saw him t'other day, because he was batting a ball about the course and conceding himself all putts under a foot. That is the right of all pros.

"This," said the portly Forrest, "is a swell job. It's a lot better than taking out halfbacks and chasing ball carriers in the mud. Why, you don't even have to take a shower when you're through work."

BREAKS NEAT 60

He then proceeded to play 18 holes with a gallery of duly impressed youngsters lookin on and after breaking a neat 60 threw his club miles and miles away. Or so it seemed.

Jap will play professional football next fall as a member of the Providence team of the National Professional League. He's selected the pro game over coaching, figuring it will be quicker and easier to lay aside a pile of simoleons out of harm's way by beating up rivals than beating football sense into a flock of high school and college grid aspirants.

The Tipoff

The world is sad to the effect that Wilfred (Wilt) Moore, Beaver Falls High School's ... all-round track and field star, who specializes in pole vaulting, is ... to enter Geneva College next fall, which simply means that Geneva's chances of winning the Tri-State conference track championship for the seventh year in a row already are ...

Eddie Beveridge, rangy basketball center at Beaver High, after ... considering Pitt, ... Kenyon, set on matriculating at Penn State, where he'll study history and hold goal getting under Dutch Hershman.

The Brown-Good Will tour of Germany, Norway, Sweden and Finland got under way last night, Pete ... (Anderson) Wants Hamm and Bulwinkel sailing on the Bremerhaven from New York. Before sailing, Pete made it clear that the Swedish government, which invited Pete back this ... after watching him run a real race, really INVITED and did not DARE him to return. Kidding, of course, of course.

It's pretty sure that fellows like Brown, Anderson, Hamm, Watson and Bulwinkle are afforded the opportunity to tour Europe as a means of putting in what otherwise might be a dull summer and besides, it removes from under foot just that many more track athletes.

HUSKIE CREW STAR HURT

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—(AP)—An injury that affects the chances of the undefeated University of Washington varsity, and a time trial by the University of Wisconsin, lone middle western standard-bearer, featured yesterday's developments in the camps of college oarsmen preparing for the thirty-third annual intercollegiate regatta here Thursday.

A last minute change became necessary in the personnel of the huge Washington eight when Coach Al Ulbrickson learned that Lawrence School, his 190-pound 6 foot 3 inch No. 5 oarsman had strained his back in Saturday's time trial.

In the workout in which School suffered his injury, Washington's time, according to Ulbrickson, was 20 minutes and 20 seconds. This is the fastest figure that any of the coaches yet has admitted making.

Under slightly less favorable conditions last evening, Wisconsin's sturdy varsity swung down the four miles in time announced at 23 minutes.

Trans-Mississippi Golf Event Opens

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 23.—(AP)—More than 200 of the West's outstanding amateur golfers were entered today in the qualifying round of the trans-Mississippi tournament.

Final practice rounds were played over the Broadmoor Golf Club course yesterday, Emerson Carey, Jr., of Hutchinson, Kan., playing a round in 69, one under par. Bob McCracy, of Des Moines, is present to defend his championship.

Wilson and Berger Courteous Rivals

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP)—The home run battle between Hack Wilson of the Cubs, and Walter Berger, of the Braves, has a courteous finge.

In the five-game series between the two teams, which closed yesterday, there was much cap tipping as one or the other made four-base hits. When Berger hit his homers, Hack tipped his cap; when Hack bounced one into the bleachers, Berger curtsied.

Hack went one up yesterday, getting his twenty-first.

PUAKIZ LEADS SHANNOPIN CADDIES

Mike Puakiz, turning in a card of 76, was the medalist in the qualifying test staged over the Shannopin Country Club course today to determine the eight caddies to represent that course in the annual William Randolph Hearst junior golf tournament to be staged over the Schenley Park links on July 7. Charles Mayer, 79; Bill Jones, 84, and Ed Zimsky, 85, complete the four-man Shannopin team. Others to qualify were John Todcinak, 86; Joseph Puakiz, 88; William Beck, 92, and Adolph Zaberousky, 92.

With Taylor Allderdice High having entered two squads in the team competition, and school closing tomorrow, it would not be surprising if McKeesport, Oliver and one or two other high schools would join in the fight for the first high and preparatory school team trophy to be offered in conjunction for the event. Entries for school teams will not close before next Monday.

On Thursday morning Caddiemaster Paul E. (Toots) Brath, of Edgewood, will send more than 100 caddies out to qualify.

Any amateur golfer 19 years of age and under, who is not attending an institution of learning above preparatory school grades may enter the competition—and this includes all caddies 17 years of age and under.

Play will be at 18 holes medal, from scratch. There is no entry fee, but all contestants must provide their own clubs and balls.

Cheap Money Oxygen Will Aid Revival

By B. C. FORBES

YOU CANNOT cut a dog's tail off twice.

Does it not look as if the tail had been quite thoroughly cut off farm prices, industry, railway earnings, employment, retail buying and stocks, especially the last?

Every storm ends. The stormy economic weather which has been raging in this country also will end. It may end any day in Wall street. It should, and very shortly indeed, in the agricultural world. Industrially it should calm down but it may not disappear until towards the close of summer.

But that it will end in every direction, don't for an instant doubt.

ONE SHORT year ago prosperity was never, never going to stop and stocks were never, never going to cease rising.

Today the notion widely prevails that prosperity will never, never return and that stocks will never, never stop falling.

Just as warnings were in order last year against over-optimism so warnings are in order at this moment against over-pessimism. It was no more certain that the boom would burst than it is that the depression will vanish.

WALL STREET is contributing more than its share to the prevailing nervousness. A sharp drop in stocks is held as justifying an equally sharp break in wheat, cotton and other major commodities. Then, the fall in these commodities is held as justifying another fall in stocks. Thus the country has been caught in a demoralizing circle. Almost every commodity is now selling at abnormally low prices, many at the lowest prices since the war. Somewhat similar conditions rule abroad.

NO USEFUL purpose would be served by enumerating all the unfavorable developments June has brought. They have involved agricultural prices, industrial volume, retailing, wage totals, commercial failures, railway traffic and profits, power output, foreign trade, mining, oil, steel, automobiles, building, rubber, cotton, textiles, silk, sugar, nearly everything.

To attempt to paint a bright picture of recent happenings would be worse than foolish; it would be dishonest.

BUT THE GREATEST fortunes have not been made by men who did not look beyond the tip of their nose; they have been made by men who looked ahead, by far sighted men, by men of judgment, men of vision, men of courage, men having faith in America's destiny.

You can accept this as incontestable reasoning. The future holds growth, progress and prosperity in incomparably greater than any ever enjoyed. Whatever fortunes arise from the present will not be reaped by the white-livered; they will accrue not to cowards, but to the courageous.

"BUY CHEAP, sell dear," is a business axiom as old as the hills. It is peculiarly applicable at this moment. It is perhaps most emphatically applicable of all to securities.

THE REDUCTION in the Federal Reserve discount rate in New York to the unprecedentedly low figure of 2½ per cent, dubbed by some "an empty gesture," is in reality full of significance. It reveals that the authorities in Washington and the greatest bankers in the world and greatest financial centers are willing to go any lengths to restore confidence, revive industry, stimulate new enterprises.

Chicago promptly announced a reduction in its rate to 3½ per cent. The Reichsbank also announced a reduction. Other domestic and foreign centers are almost certain to do likewise.

Extremely cheap money at home and abroad cannot fail in time to have its effect, since cheap money is the most potent tonic known to business, industry, enterprise.

It was dear money more than anything else which suffocated prosperity. Cheap money is the oxygen which will revive it.

War Department Awards Contracts

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The War Department today awarded contracts for airplane engines totaling $5,336,559 for 1931.

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co. will furnish 684 of the engines to cost $3,802,763, while Curtiss Airplane and Motor Company will supply 192 engines valued at $1,533,796.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Wesson Oil and Snowdrift Company and subsidiaries in nine months ended May 31, 1930, earned $1.78 a common share, against 22 cents a share in the like period in the previous year.

Globe Wernicke Company reports for year ended May 31 net profit after interest charges and federal taxes of $344,049, comparing with $494,602 in the previous year. Several large contracts in addition to other orders on hand May 31 are sufficient to insure the manufacturing department a good volume of production throughout the usually dull summer period, according to H. C. Yeiser, Jr., president.

S. Rosenheimer & Company, for six months ended April 30 shows net profit of $190,335, after charges and federal taxes, against $270,426 in the similar period last year.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Trading Turns Dull as Market Heads Up; Fresh '30 Lows Hit by Leaders

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP.)—After a further flurry of selling at the opening, the stock market turned dull and rallied under scant covering, giving Wall street another breathing spell today, and a chance to try to penetrate the mist of ...

Such issues as U. S. Steel, Radio and American Telephone were again depressed to new lows for the year during the morning but rallied decidedly after a preliminary hitch soon after the opening. Some stocks showed gains of more than 5 points by early afternoon.

LEADERS SHUNT

Week-end factors failed to show anything ... such as could be expected at this time. ... and public pronouncements ... conditions from sources ... with Wall Street normally ... leadership were not forthcoming. The reluctance of Secretary Mellon ... regarding general business ... in the course of discussion of the tariff last week was described ... week-end analysis as ... disappointing to the financial ...

Commission house settlement remained cautious. While several predicted a ... rally this week, and felt ... after liquidation continued selling ... must be dragging bottom, ... were also gloomy.

The Harvard Economic Society remained ... Standard Statistics on the other hand declined to predict early recovery.

Wall Street is anxiously awaiting the weekly condition statement of Federal Reserve member banks, to be published tomorrow for a clew as to whether banks have been liquidating loans against security collateral, a theory advanced in several quarters. Call money was again quoted at 2½ per cent on the stock exchange, with demand scant.

TOUCH 1930 LOWS

Such shares as U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Radio, Bethlehem Steel, Allied Chemical and International Telephone declined 1 to 3 points to new 1930 lows. Steel coming within 2½ of the the November bottom, but soon recovered to show gains of similar extent. Public Service of New Jersey and American Can were well supported from the start and sold up more than 4 points. Case shot up more than 10 points. American Tobacco B lost 9½ before rallying.

The rally brought out renewed selling, however, and gains were held with difficulty.

The commodity markets continued largely to move with stocks. July wheat dropped below 90 cents a bushel, the lowest since 1914.

Chicago and Alton Intervention Denied

CHICAGO, June 23.—Federal Judge George A. Carpenter today denied a petition of Charles Clay Briggs and the Alton Corporation, Bay St. Louis, Miss., stockholders of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, to intervene in receivership proceedings of the railroad.

Contending that eastern bankers had profited to the extent of $40,000,000 from the sale of Chicago and Alton bond issues since 1922, Briggs sought through intervention to have some of the bonds voided.

American Tank Co. Makes Special Cars

NEW YORK, June 23.—General American Tank Car Company is now making special tank cars for the transportation of helium gas for the U. S. Navy Department. Deliveries on the new cars are to start within two or three months. While the orders are not expected to be substantial, a new field has been opened for the company, which has been doing proportionately better than most other equipment companies for some time.

Waverly Oil Works Year's Loss Larger

The Waverly Oil Works Company reports for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1930, net loss of $142,440, after operating charges, costs, general expenses, taxes, depreciation and interest. This compares with loss of $16,707 after the same deductions in the preceding year.

Lake Erie Iron Ore Shipments Decline

Iron ore shipments from Lake Erie docks to interior furnaces during the first 20 days of June totaled 2,756,712 tons against 3,331,962 tons in the similar 1929 period.

WALL STREET HEARS

That the short interest in the stock market is still of large proportions, that the rally on Thursday failed to result in any general retirement of short commitments.

That important bankers regard the present stock market decline as a mopping up process which was not completed last fall, and are therefore letting it run its course.

That Foster Wheeler may increase its dividend rate before the end of the year, if its business holds at present levels.

Heavy Week-End Selling Brings Lower Prices In U S Markets

Another brief week-end session of heavy selling in stocks and commodities brought lower prices all along the line in financial markets. New low records were established on the downward movement in the Chicago grain market with wheat selling 4½ cents more than a cent a bushel below pre-war levels below 93 cents a bushel. Cotton also took a tumble downward as a rally petered out and sold off about $1.50 a bale under first hour Saturday.

In the stock market there was a resumption of professional selling for the decline and liquidation of longs disappointed over the failure of Thursday's rally to hold over the week-end. Bearish sentiment was rife in Wall Street. The bear element succeeded in depressing two of the market's leaders—U S Steel and American Can—to new lows for the year, touching off a new wave of liquidation forced selling and stop loss orders and accelerating the decline of the market as a whole.

The absence of any strong support for the leaders except at the scale-down levels discouraged whatever show of resistance the constructive factors were thought to offer. Several Members of the Federal Reserve Board said the Federal Reserve rediscount rate was ripe for ease as it is applied any business stimulator and short-term traders against selling the short side at the first sign of real resistance.

Severe weakness in the commodity markets accompanied the fresh break in stocks. Wheat tumbled to the lowest levels in 15 years in all North America markets. Cotton broke about $1 a bale and then rallied somewhat, but grains showed little inclination to rally in spite of some talk of crop damage. Deferred deliveries in corn also sank to new low levels for the season. Weak cables started the decline, while a growing lack of confidence in the trade over the ability of farm board authorities and other agencies to stabilize prices in any commodity contributed to selling pressure.

There has been some tapering off in activities of Otis Elevator Company. The past several months with the resort plants are now operating at about 85 per cent of capacity. Present indications are first six months of 1930 will show a decline in business of about 10 per cent as compared with the initial half of 1929, when the high record for any similar period was established. There is a good volume of business in sight for Otis. A number of major building projects are under consideration which if carried out will materially swell the company's bookings during the latter half of the year.

A survey of the entire list of blue-chip issues falling in the select category of pivotal market leaders, shows that General Electric has borne up best of all in the recent market upheaval, as well as in the caliber of business that has featured its comeback. In the words of one market observer the support shown in this stock has been "amazing." High grade buying has been taking place in this stock by people who fully realize the high price earnings ratio that the issue commands. In their opinion stocks with dynamic possibilities have always commanded a high price and the potentialities of this dominant organization in the amusement, radio, electrical and allied fields have always permitted it to carry a premium over the general run of industrial companies.

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

Gasoline Consumption Smashing Records

Chart shows the number of barrels of gasoline consumed in the United States during the first four months of 1930, compared with the same periods of the past nine years. Source: U. S. Bureau of Mines.

Chart by FRELING FOSTER

This 12% increase in the consumption of gasoline in 1930 over 1929 shows not only that the oil industry is having the greatest sales year in its history, but that automotive transportation—both passenger car and truck—is advancing at a tremendous pace today.

Number of (42 Gallon) Barrels Consumed—First Four Months
1921	28,560,000
1922	31,220,000
1923	42,120,000
1924	47,090,000

Wheat Stocks Large as Price Declines

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

INTERESTS CONTROLLING WHEAT on the North American continent have overstayed their market. Each day during the past two weeks this has become more apparent. Wheat closed at the lowest levels in years on Saturday. The market declined an average of 15 cents during the two week period. July wheat was off 51 3-8 cents from the high of the season. December wheat, the highest priced future in this country, dropped below $1 for the first time since August, 1923.

The incident brings to a close an interesting chapter in the history of attempts at commodity price control. For the past year the Canadian wheat pool and co-operatives in this country aided by the Federal Farm Board have maintained wheat prices higher than the quotations in other world markets.

Last summer found the United States and Canada with large harvests of wheat and good sized carry-overs from the previous crop. Believing that short crops in some of the European countries would eventually force the world to pay our price, the dominant interests in the wheat situation here held their market at a high level.

Argentine Wheat Sold

AT THIS TIME last year Argentina had a large surplus of wheat. Meeting world prices it pressed this crop on the market until by January 1 the country had only a small amount left. Argentina took a large part of the market which normally would have gone to the North American producers.

Since the major movement of wheat from the Argentina has come to a close the principal consuming countries have been able to get along without any exceptionally large shipments from the continent. As a result exports of North American wheat since July 1, 1929, have amounted to 294,585,000 bushels compared with 492,009,000 in the previous year.

New Crop Due

HARVESTING OF THIS YEAR'S crop of winter wheat will be under way about July 1 in this country. A month later Canada's crop will be ready. The new crops will be brought into elevators already well loaded with large carryovers from last year's harvest. Exports are still lagging as may be seen by the fact that the movement of North American wheat in the week ended June 19 was only 5,448,000 bushels compared with 8,516,000 bushels in the corresponding week a year ago.

Last fall Canada's business was seriously curtailed by the tardiness of the movement of wheat to export markets. It resulted in large amounts of frozen credits and a consequent reduction in purchasing power. The same situation resulted in this country but it was not so noticeable due to the fact that business here is not so directly dependable on a single agricultural product.

Smaller European Harvests

SMALLER CROPS IN EUROPE are likely to prove helpful to the marketing of the present North American surplus of wheat. In spite of this, however, the holding of crops on this continent seems to be a costly business.

The general economic depression, which has affected the entire world as well as this country has brought with it lower prices for most commodities. Wheat has dropped in all the world markets. To move the North American wheat surplus a year ago it would have been necessary to meet the world price at that time. Now a far lower world price is being met.

Shell to Co-operate In Oil Output Curb

LONDON, June 23. Viscount Bearsted, chairman of Shell Transport and Trading Company, Ltd., stated at the annual meeting in regard to overproduction in the petroleum industry that there appears to be a distinct hope that common sense is prevailing in the matter of wasteful production. He declared the Royal Dutch-Shell group is only too willing to bear its full share in any reasonable policy of conservation which may be decided upon throughout the industry and that as a result of friendly negotiations the group's production figures for the current year will reflect some measure of progress in the policy of conservation.

Owens-Illinois Co. Accounting Sought

CHICAGO, June 23.—Owens-Illinois Glass Company has been sued by administrators of the estate of Michael J. Owens for an accounting of its business from January 20 to the present time and also for an injunction to prevent the company from disposing of its assets.

The petition alleges that the defendant paid large royalties to the estate previously, but since January 20 none has been paid and that company served notice on the administrators that none will be paid in the future.

Mahoning Steel Co. Plant Reopened

Youngstown, June 23.—Mahoning Valley Steel Company's sheet plant has resumed operations after a week's idleness, reflecting some improvement in volume of orders from the automobile industry.

Sugar Futures Hit New Low Level

NEW YORK, June 23.—Sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange established a new low record when July sold this morning at 1.25c.

Youngstown Sheet Earnings Hold Up

YOUNGSTOWN, June 23.—Latest indications are that improved business for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company pipe department will result in net earnings of about $2 a common share during the current quarter. In the first quarter the company earned $1.92 a share, and in the second quarter last year the earnings equalled $5.90 per share.

Construction of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company's new $10,000,000 continuous mill at its Brier Hill works has been postponed.

Receiver to Sell Brown Shoe Plants

NEW YORK, June 23.—A petition filed by four banks, seeking to liquidate assets of Hamilton Brown Shoe Company in settlement of claims totaling $750,000 against the company, was denied by United States District Judge Davis at St. Louis.

Judge Davis granted a request of petitioners that certain plants and properties, including assets of the Boston branch, be sold without delay by the receiver.

No Action Taken on Tonopah Co. Plans

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Stockholders of Tonopah Mining Company took no action on plan of reorganization and readjustment of capital structure. The meeting was adjourned until October 6.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Providence

"What did he say?"

Oliver Condon looked anxiously at his young wife.

"It will be all right, I guess," she answered.

Oliver did not miss the frightened expression in her eyes.

"Of course it will be all right, Mattie."

But he didn't believe it. Even then, he was frightened. He couldn't crowd back the thought that he was going to lose Mattie.

They went out of the big gray building where the free clinic was conducted.

"It takes longer, but we, bette, take a surface car," she said.

Oliver understood. There was more air. Mattie had to be out in the air.

On the long ride uptown Oliver made his wife tell him something of what had been told her. She wouldn't tell him all, not for words. She couldn't bear to see the bewildered, agonized expression on his face.

"We'll have to put the bed over against the front room window, I guess," Oliver. He—the doctor—said for me to go somewhere—to stay in the air as much as possible."

There were but two rooms in their little apartment uptown, away uptown, with a sort of closet kitchenette. They slept in the tiny back room with one small window on a dark narrow court.

"Of course it will be better for you that way, honey. You'll be getting better. You can go over and sit in that vacant lot in the sun and then sleep right next to the open window."

"Yes, Oliver."

Mattie Condon didn't believe it. The doctor hadn't told her to sleep by an open window, he had told her that she must get away—go upstate where it was high and dry, if she couldn't afford to go out West. And they couldn't afford to even go upstate.

Poor Circumstances

Old Mrs. Tucker, who owned the big shabby frame building that had been cut up into dismal little apartments to give her a living income, made Mattie come in and have a glass of milk.

Oliver had to hurry back to the packing room of the big factory. He couldn't afford to lose more than only half a day.

"I—I don't give a darn for myself," Mattie said, "but it's Oliver—he's been so good to me and I'm about crazy because I can't help him, and it costs so much and—and God knows about a funeral—"

Old Mrs. Tucker said, "Tut-tut, girlie—it's wicked to talk like that. Providence will provide. Providence always provides."

"Providence!"

The way Mattie Condon said the word made it sound quite like blasphemy.

"Providence provided me with that job in the stuffy room, alongside a sick woman, and Providence gave me what I've got; and you know darn well what I've got, and so do I, and so does Oliver!"

"I'm an old woman. I've seen a lot. You must have faith, dearie—and believe in Providence. You best go up and sleep a while."

Mattie, after a few moments of coughing, dragged herself up to the room, but she couldn't sleep. She sat by the window feeling miserably, and stared out on equally dismal buildings.

Those doctors knew—of course they knew, but how did they suppose she could afford to go up to a camp in the pine woods? And how could any man, doctor or no doctor, be such a fool as to tell her about Arizona, when she was downright shabby?

Mattie was right about Oliver. Her tragic illness had frightened him. The worry was breaking him down. And Oliver had been so good to her. Mattie had been taken from an orphanage and put to work in a big boarding house. They certainly made a slave of her—and the old man's sons bothered and frightened her.

Oliver had been boarding there at the time. Oliver always gave her a smile. He even left nickel tips under his coffee cup at night, and he wasn't getting much, working in a garage.

Then Oliver got the job in the city and Mattie cried when he told her about it. he was the only one who had ever been kind to her. Oliver couldn't stand to see her cry, but he couldn't take her away, they wouldn't let her go. The boarding house man would have to pay anyone else a great deal more.

Oliver Realize's Danger

"I'll run away with you—I—I don't care," Mattie told him.

So Mattie ran away with Oliver, or rather, she sneaked away and met him a week after he had gone, so no one would suspect that she went with him. Mattie knew all about such things—she expected that she would give herself to Oliver in return for his kindness.

He took her up to his little room that Sunday. They had dinner at a lunch wagon.

That night he made her go to bed. And he slept in a rickety old rocking chair all night!

Mattie stared out of the window and blinked back the tears as she thought of this. Now she appreciated it more than she did then. Oliver didn't have to do that. Girls at orphanages learn a great many things. She quite expected that Oliver was going to share his bed with her. Now she understood. The next day they went down and got married.

For nearly two years they got along fairly well. Mattie worked in a place where they restored rags and got them ready for shoddy.

That was where she picked up the "op-ry."

Oliver had been working overtime. He hadn't eaten a lunch for three months. He was saving every penny. Oliver knew what had happened and what would result if he didn't get Mattie out of the city.

The next day Oliver took off more precious time. Contrary to most stories, Oliver's boss was no Simon Legree. When Oliver told him about it, he said, "Sure, and if th' big boss don't catch on, me lad, there'll be no dockin'."

They kept records at the clinic. Oliver explained about his wife. The doctor remembered. A nurse looked up a record. She didn't tell Oliver, but handed it to the doctor. Oliver knew that it was a very bad report or else she wouldn't have looked so secretive.

"Can you afford to take your wife away?" the doctor said.

"In another month or six weeks, I'm saving and I am rebuilding an old car I got for nothing and I thought spring would soon be here and I could drive her north and get odd jobs."

Takes Wife Away

"I wouldn't wait six weeks, young man. Chilly weather wont hurt if you keep her dry."

"You mean—" Oliver swallowed at nothing.

"If you get her away within a week or so, young man, she may live."

That was all.

"She may live!"

The words buzzed through his ears all day.

He brought home the customary bottle of milk, best grade, and a small steak. He ate a bowl of soup and a sandwich for his dinner at a cheap little place. He had been doing this for some time.

Mrs. Tucker was up there. Mattie had had one of her "spells." Oliver was more frightened than ever.

"Now, you dears, don't you worry—I tell you Providence will provide—it always does for decent folks like you," the old woman declared. Strange to say she devoutly believed it.

Mattie had her rare steak and some of the milk and tossed feverishly by the open window. Oliver was down at a place where old cars were dumped. He had been fairly expert at this. He had the car nearly ready. The sharp-eyed Mr. Isaacs, who owned the junk yard and drove such keen bargains, knew all about Oliver's plans. He gave Oliver the old car, loaned him tools and helped him.

In another week the car was ready.

Mrs. Tucker seemed quite cheerful when they started out. She had given Mattie some blankets and put up a lot of food and told Oliver to just forget the last week's room rent.

That left Oliver with a patched up car, a critically ill wife and a hundred and eighty dollars, to drive off into the world with and see what Providence was going to do for them.

"Just have faith in Providence, dearies," was the old lady's parting shot.

Out of the city where the spring buds were appearing and green spots showing in the fields, Oliver had a sort of recapitulation.

"There's a lot in what Mrs. Tucker said about Providence, Mattie. She gave us a week's rent and blankets and food and Mr. Isaacs helped me rig up this car and I've got quite a lot of money, and then the best of it—you're going to get well right away."

Unexpected Luck

Next day the car didn't stand up as well as Oliver had hoped and he was worried. They stopped at places for food. At dark they were on a big cement highway, but in a valley.

"We'll go up out of this where it's drier," he told Mattie.

But the car stalled. Oliver worked hard over it. He was terribly worried. He would have to spend money on it and he needed every penny to care for Mattie, until he could get up high in the p[illegible]oods and find himself some sort of a job.

As he worked on it he heard a car [illegible]roaching.

He had a sudden idea. If the driver would stop only five minutes and turn his headlights on his motor, he could see to fix it. Oliver swung his headlights around. The thing was a big truck. He rushed out in the light of his own headlights, with a small wrench in his hand. The truck had no headlights.

"Here!" shouted Oliver.

The truck stopped. The driver got down.

"Roads clear? I'm late as—" growled the truck driver.

"Roads all clear, but—"

"Here!"

The driver thrust some money into Oliver's hand. Nice new bills, folded lengthwise. Then he clambered on his truck and moved on.

Oliver counted the money by his headlights.

Ten one hundred dollar bills!

Oliver hurriedly patched up his car and they drove on, taking the first northern road to the right.

"Bootlegger, honey—he must have had $50,000 worth of hooch on that truck. He thought I was the pay-off man—they all have to do that to get through. I'm going to keep it."

"Keep it? Of course, Oliver—why not? What if a bootlegger did bring it—I am sure Providence sent it! It means I'll get well," cried Mattie.

Mattie was right—at least about getting well.

Legal Letters

By Tuthill

YOU GOT A THREATENING LETTER THIS MORNING FROM THAT LAWYER YOU DISCHARGED. I READ IT. HE'S GOING TO COURT AND GET A HOCUS-POCUS OR SOME SUCH ORDER AS THAT AGAINST YOU. HE SAYS, YOU SIGNED A PAPER GIVING HIM YOUR CASE.
I ALSO SIGNED A PAPER GIVING HIM THE AIR TOO.
I'M NOT WORRIED ABOUT THE SO-CALLED CONTRACT I HAD WITH HIM. I DIDN'T READ IT BEFORE SIGNING. I SIGNED IT AFTER BUSINESS HOURS, AND ALSO I WAS EXCITED. THAT PAPER ISN'T LEGAL.
THERE'S A LETTER FROM YOUR SECOND LAWYER TOO.
DEAR SIR: IN REGARDS TO BUNGLE VS CAROUSAL WOULD SAY THAT VERY IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS ARE EXPECTED HOURLY. SUGGEST YOU CALL AT MY OFFICE TOMORROW ONE OCLOCK SHARP FOR VERY IMPORTANT CONFERENCE. YOURS A. BROMUN BALICATE.
A. BROMUN BALICATE? IT SOUNDS LIKE THE NAME OF A DRUG.
MAYBE POISON.
I FIGURED CAROUSAL ALL STAR FILMS WOULD LOOK AT HIS NAME THAT WAY, TOO. HE DOESN'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT LAW BUT HE MAKES A LOT OF NOISE. I'M NOT EXTRA HOT FOR HIM. FOR THREE DAYS HE'S BEEN TRYING TO GET IN TOUCH WITH THOSE FILM PEOPLE. I CAN'T MAKE UP MY MIND WHETHER THEY'RE AFRAID OF HIM OR JUST IGNORING HIM.

Join Volunteer Auxiliary! Frisby Wants 1,000 Women!

Here is the first unit of the Frisby Ladies' Volunteer Auxiliary Cycle Law Enforcement Brigade. These ladies, under the direction of Congressman Frisby, will run down rum runners, force auto speeders into roadside ditches, distribute handbills, deliver Frisby's speeches and take part in a big cross-country Japanese Lantern demonstration against vice. "I want a thousand women!" declares Frisby, "to join this movement. Candidates are requested to get together and invite me to explain my proposition. Ice cream will be served."

Council's Good Service In Blue Law Attack

City Council deserves the thanks of the citizens for its bold attack on the ridiculous Blue Law of 1794, which makes it a crime for Pennsylvanians to indulge in innocent amusements on Sunday.

In co-operation with the Philadelphia Council, which has taken similar action, the Pittsburgh body ought to be able to bring enough pressure to bear on the Legislature to induce it to wipe the antiquated statute off the books. The law is as out of place in this age as hoop skirts, and is violated by many of the very persons—a decided minority—who uphold it.

Councilman Harry A. Little, who introduced the resolution calling for a study of proposed legislation for the repeal or modification of the Blue Law, did not exaggerate a particle in his statement of the bad effects that have resulted from the commonwealth's official attitude towards Sunday amusements.

President John S. Herron said all that should be necessary to secure repeal of the law when he pointed out that Pittsburgh, in providing Sunday movies, Sunday golf and Sunday swimming for its citizens, has probably been contributing to its violation. A statute which most of the citizens violate habitually without the slightest twinge of conscience has no proper place in the code.

Allegheny National Forest

Government Shows Commendable Speed in the Project.

In refreshing contrast to the dilatory policy followed by the federal government in other Pittsburgh projects is the celerity with which the authorities at Washington are setting about the establishment of the Allegheny National Forest.

This important enterprise is brought to public attention again by the news that United States Attorney Louis E. Graham has instituted proceedings for the condemnation of 16,276 acres of land in Forest and Warren counties needed for the forest.

Reforestation of the devastated forest lands at the headwaters of the Allegheny River is one of the things recommended by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh as part of its program to protect the city from high water. In pursuance of that recommendation the United States Forest Service has already acquired in Warren, Forest, Elk and McKean counties 291,337 acres, has approved for purchase 53,270 additional acres, and has taken steps that assure at the earliest possible moment the establishment of a well-managed forest covering the greater part of the four counties. The land was acquired, incidentally, at an average cost of $4.28 an acre.

What a pity that action as prompt and satisfactory cannot be obtained for the other federal projects in this territory—the Pittsburgh postoffice, for example, and the proposed reservoirs for the impounding of flood water, and the canal to connect the Ohio River with the Great Lakes.

We Have Supremacy Now

Let's Maintain It.

Apropos of the Sun-Telegraph's suggestion that the boat building industry be encouraged to center in Pittsburgh, the Dravo Contracting Company directs attention to reports of the Bureau of Navigation, Department of Commerce, which show Pittsburgh is already the center for the construction of steel craft for the inland waterways.

Five of the seven largest builders last year were Pittsburgh concerns, and of the 433 craft launched by the seven companies, 369 came from boat yards of the Pittsburgh district.

Pittsburgh should make every effort to maintain this supremacy, since the boat building industry gives promise of steadily increasing in magnitude as the public comes more generally to appreciate the cheapness and efficiency of waterway transportation.

A Son of Pennsylvania

The Whole State Shares Erie's Pride in Paul Siple.

Erie is justly proud of Paul Siple, the Boy Scout from that city whom Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd took with him on his historic expedition to the Antarctic regions, and is preparing to welcome him home this week with a great celebration.

Pittsburgh feels it is entitled to share Erie's pride, for Paul is a Pennsylvanian as well as an Erie boy, and his record confers credit on the whole state.

Admitted to the expedition as a mere raw recruit, from whom not a great deal was to be expected, within a few weeks he was doing as much as any of the men. Admiral Byrd has praised him warmly for the manly way in which he acquitted himself.

Paul's record is another splendid testimonial for the Boy Scouts.

The New Map of Europe

Much Changed.

If you go abroad this summer forget all the geography you ever knew. You will save time, trouble.

London is still London, and Paris is Paris. But the names of several thousand other cities have been changed until their oldest inhabitants would not recognize them. Aix-la-Chapelle, for instance, is Aachen. Belgrade is Beograd. Constantinople is Istambul. Prague is Praha. Helsingfors is Helsinksi. Karls. bad is Karlovy Vary. Warsaw is Waszawa, and Monastir, by a slight variation of spelling, has become Bitolj.

In China, Peking is Peiping, or on some days Peping. And nearer home, Punta Arenas, Chile, has been changed to Magellanes.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

One expects that no amount of breeding with red will altogether remove the whiteness from the trained strain. But all this is wrong. Slowly the biologist has come to know better.

He thinks not of mixed blood, but of assorted unit-genes—a very different conception, born of the facts that we are here detailing.

H. G. Wells

Mendel's Second Law, to which we now proceed, is easy enough to understand. It is called the Law of Independent Assortment and concerns the outcome of complicated crosses when the original parents differed in two or more distinct respects.

We may illustrate by one of Mendel's own instances. Mendel worked with peas. He crossed together two strains; one gave taller plants than the other, and at the same time the seeds of the first were yellow, while the seeds of the second were green.

He found that he was dealing with two separate and independent gene-pairs. "Tall" was dominant to "Dwarf" and "Yellow seed" to "Green seed." Every plant in the first hybrid generation was tall and had yellow seeds.

In the second generation the two pairs sorted themselves out independently of each other. He got pure tall, hybrid tall and pure short plants: of each kind some were pure yellow, some hybrid yellow and some pure green as far as seed color was concerned. Similarly with three or more gene-pairs. The first hybrid generation after a cross between two pure-breeding stocks is always uniform, while in the second we get a mixed batch showing every possible combination of the original genes.

In a sentence separate genepairs are shuffled and dealt independently of each other.

It follows from this second law of Mendel's that so long as the strains are pure and the same genes are involved, it makes no difference how they are combined in the original strains.

Instead of crossing a tall yellow and dwarf green strain, we might have crossed a dwarf yellow and a tall green; but the result, both in the first and in all subsequent generations would have been precisely the same.

Once more, it is the individual genes which count, not the way they happen to be grouped in the parents' bodies. So long as all the gene-ingredients get into the first zygote in the right proportions, it makes no difference from what abode they come, any more than it makes a difference to the taste of the stew whether the pepper-pot happens to have stood next to the rice or the potatoes on the shelf.

These details may seem a little tedious, but they are the very grammar of this subject, the skeleton needed to support its living flesh.

Once they are mastered, our attention can be given to various matters of general interest and far-reaching practical consequences. But they must be properly mastered before they can be used.

4. NUMERICAL PROOF OF MENDEL'S LAWS.

In the last section we outlined the two essential principles of Mendelian Inheritance.

But we should be doing scant justice to this great and patient investigator or to his followers if we failed to note the enormous mass of numerical evidence in support of his theory.

Turn back for a moment to the second cross-bred generation of the Four-o'clock plant. We catalogued the different kinds of fertilization which occur. Now it follows from the way in which the reproductive elements are made that among the pollen grains those which carry red will be just as numerous as those which carry white, and the same is true of the egg cells.

Moreover, fertilization is a perfectly random process; there is no reason to suppose that red-carrying pollen grains have a particular fancy for white-carrying eggs or anything like that.

So we can say that the four kinds of fertilization will occur in roughly equal proportions—in the next generation half the plants will be pink, one-quarter will be red and one-quarter white.

ANNIHILATION OF MATTER

By Archibald Henderson

It is depressing to realize that far back in time the universe was originally wound up and since that date has been steadily running down. The suggestion that in the new cosmic rays may be found the media for periodically rewinding the universe has little to support it. There is little or no reason to doubt that the matter in the universe is being annihilated at alarming velocity; and that the process will finally result in general disintegration and the end of the universe.

More than 20 years ago Jeans called attention to the enormous store of energy made available by the annihilation of matter—the positively and negatively charged electrical particles falling into and annihilating one another, thus setting free the whole of their intrinsic energy at radiation.

Newton had some such thing in mind when he wrote in his Opticks (1704):

Query 30. Are not gross bodies and light convertible into one another; and may not bodies receive much of their activity from the particles of light which enter into their composition?

The changing of bodies into light, and light into bodies, is very conformable to the course of Nature, which seems delighted with transmutations. Water, which is very fluid, tasteless salt, she changes by heat into vapor, which is a sort of air; and by cold into ice, which is hard, pellucid, brittle, fusible stone; and this stone returns into water by heat, and vapor returns into water by cold . . . Eggs grow from insensible magnitudes, and change into animals; tadpoles, into frogs, and worms into flies.

All birds, beasts and fishes, insects, trees, and other vegetables, with their several parts, grow out of water and watery tinctures and salts; and by putrefaction, return again into watery substance, and water, standing a few days in the open air, yields a tincture which (like that of malt) by standing longer yields a sediment and a spirit; but before putrefaction is fit nourishment for animals and vegetables. And among such various and strange transmutations, why may not nature change bodies into light, and light into bodies?

This last query of Newton's must probably be answered in the negative. But we do know that the falling together of electrons and protons constitutes a suitable mechanism for transforming matter into energy. This provides the current explanation of the radiation of the stars.

For example, we know that every square inch of the sun's surface is discharging mass at the rate of a gramme and a quarter a century. Tomorrow, at this time, the sun will weigh 360,000 million tons less than it does now!

All the stars are losing mass in this way. This "capital levy" makes all the stars poorer, but it also tends to equalize what wealth remains. This is the attractive statement made by Jeans. This explains, in part at least, the reason why, the older the stars get, the more nearly equal their depleted masses become. Binary stars, the two components necessarily being of the same age, well illustrate this. The small stars of old binary systems are nearer to equality of mass than the massive stars of young systems.

A great mystery still surrounds creation—the scientific explanation of the original winding up of this colossal clock or mechanism we call the universe. It is slowly running down, and there is little or no evidence that it can be rewound by natural means. As Jean says: "Observation and theory agree in indicating that the universe is melting away into radiation. Our position is that of Polar bears on an iceberg that has broken loose from the icepack surrounding the pole, and is inexorable melting away as the iceberg drifts to warmer latitudes and ultimate extinction."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Prof. Watson, of Columbia University, thinks the human race would be greatly benefited if someone would remove babies from their mothers at two, and give them into less sentimental hands.

Personally I'm not quite sold on the suggestion, but if the learned gentleman will move up his dating about 20 years and propose a plan whereby big, bumpy boys with whiskers are forcibly yanked from their doting mamma's grip, I'm with him lock, stock and barrel.

The American mother is an amazing institution. She is, given any breaks at all, as pretty and bright at 40 as she was at 20. When it comes to force and efficiency; she has it all over her average mate. This idea of picturing America as a tall old gent in striped pants is nothing but a sop for the boys. What America really is, is a Stylish Stout model in a snappy sport skirt with a lot of trick pleats.

You've seen them by the dozens—these hand-raised young males who beau mamma around as if she were their best girl. And therein lies a very real tragedy—Mamma IS their best girl and they are, in all too horrid truth, their Mother's Sweeties.

Mamma, by her prettiness, her charm and her indomitable desire for power and petting, has done this thing. As a baby, her son is her plaything — her property. When he passes the doll stage, she promotes him into Mother's Little Lover class. By the time he is 21, he has become a living compensation for all the coolness and slights which age may visit upon her.

And son, unless he is possessed of almost superhuman resistance, falls for it like a million. Life is one long dream of devotion and adulation. Constantly he is assured that nobody understands him like Mother, nobody can make him as happy and comfortable as Mother.

What happens? Look around at what's wearing some of our prettiest plus sizes and you'll see what happens. This is what Mamma has made of what God intended to be a two-fisted, bow-legged, fighting guy with buck teeth.

Won't The Wife take it out of him? Perhaps—if he ever gets a wife. But the average young Percy will think long and fearfully before he swaps the sweet certainties of a mamma like that for the harsh hazards of matrimony.

And even if he does marry, what chances has the girl after 23 or four years of such mammying? She must compete with the jealousy and deliberate blandishments of a mature woman who, under the sacred guise of mother love, will confiscate her young husband's affections as wantonly as any professional vamp.

SO I'M SAYING, IF MAMMA WON'T UNTIE HER APRON STRING FROM SONNY'S WHISKERED NECK, SOMEONE SHOULD MAKE HER.

Write your problems to Elsie Robinson and she will be glad to give a personal reply. Address communications to Miss Robinson in care of this newspaper.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

From a Train Window

A winding river, gentle hills,
A drowsing little town,
And then, ten thousand daffodils
That trim a meadow's gown!
A flock of sheep, a silhouette
Of elms against the sky;
A tiny schoolhouse primly set
Where two roads travel by.

And just across a friendly field,
A hedge, a picket-gate!
Beyond, a low, white house revealed,
A house that seems to wait
With cheer and kindness in its air,
With willingness to prove
To any who may enter there
Its welcome and its love.
Though I forget blue seas and deep
And lands wherein I roam,
This picture I shall ever keep,
This house that speaks of home!

Text For Today

But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name.—John xx:31.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. F. J. Schumm, pastor, Squirrel Hill Lutheran Church.)

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Static

Once again we must make an attempt to trace the SOS call that crabbed Senator Jim Reed's fervent speech this month.

"Bugs" Baer

The Senator was all over the dial like ants at a picnic. His voice was coming in as sweet as berries on the vine.

Although we don't get television with our refrigeration we know that the good Senator was shadow-boxing with pride and squinting with alarm as he rattled off the short-wave length shillaber against predatory interests and six-button vested rights.

Just when he was shaking up on the triple climax that marks every good political speech, he was interrupted by the crackling staccato of a distress call.

Now, no speaker can stand being heckled by a powerhouse.

The Senator has a magnificent voice that could knock off a fireman's hat at 50 yards. But the SOS chirp did the same thing that the pillow did to Desdemona. It smothered him.

Where did it come from? It wasn't a ship's concert on the China-Malay line.

Senator Reed knows a catcall orchestration on the back fences as it wavers from diminuendo to crescendo and back again over the melodious scale.

Somebody may have dropped a shooting cracker in Charley Dawes' pipe. The explosion of a still in Arkansas would have supplied the essential noise but not the continuous encore.

It might have been Tom Heflin appealing to the common people or it might have been those 24 Alabama delegates still voting for Underwood. But all the tracers sent out failed to discover the source of the SOS referendum and recall.

There is no doubt it was a political caper intended to upset the decorum of Senator Reed's applecart. When a public man is pulverizing the welkin and tattooing the tocsin he should be allowed to proceed with his speech.

One minute we heard the Senator's magnetic voice and the next minute we heard the entrancing sound of a cat galloping along a tin roof with walnut shells on its feet.

Then we heard the Senator's plaintive tenor only to have the educational and progressive lull interrupted by the sound of a dishwashing machine trying to climb Pike's Peak in high gear.

Once again the Senator took the bull by the handle only to be engulfed in the syncopated racket caused by a swarm of bees hiving in an elephant's ear.

ON THE ATLANTIC

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC, June 23.—About three months ago I mentioned in this column incidentally, and, I suppose, a little airily, I was going to Europe. Things held me up and I kept hanging around New York. Friends were tolerant at first. Too bad and all that. But I became uncomfortable.

When I entered a room people grew suddenly silent. I heard whispers along the street and if I am not mistaken many became indignant and began to point. I expected any day for some one to step out of the crowd and sock me in the jaw, mumbling "So you won't go to Europe."

Finally I collected my wife and dog, and emblazoned with French line stickers, taxied to the pier, and here we are on A Deck, Cabin 282 in the Ile de France, bogging through a rather placid sea, although now and then there are a few fragile aquatic antics that cause me to gaze apprehensively at the life preserver.

But there was really no sense in crossing the ocean again. I've crossed it sixteen times and there is no particular reason for being in Europe. I don't drink and I don't care for foreign cooking. The only possible excuse for being here is that I talked out of turn. A failure of mine.

I am wondering if that is not why thousands go abroad. They talk big and have to make good. The only errand I have over there is to deliver a corn pone recipe to Will Hogg which could be sent for a nickel. And this trip already has cost me plenty of nickels.

There is, for instance that piratical custom of handling hand luggage at the New York docks. It required the services of two brigands to carry a portfolio and a typewriter from the taxi to an escalator. From then on until they reached my cabin four different men had to be tipped.

A belief is somewhat general that the French are indifferent seamen. In the great crisis they are supposed to be temperamentally unfit—too excitable. I was on a French vessel in one of the heaviest storms the Atlantic has ever known and saw them in action. They were superb.

The dog Billy is in charge of an old friend for his airings. He is a pink-faced 15-year-old chasseur in a flaming red suit and tambourine cap named Charlot. Billy jumped all over him in glad welcome and Charlot beamed. Charlot three years ago spoke only a few words of English. Today he talks with scarcely any accent. He expects some day to be a marine lawyer. I have a mental bet on Charlot.

The variegated crowd of passengers on an ocean liner are at first intensely interesting. Romance, glamour and the flush of excitement are bound up with them. But familiarity brings the inevitable contempt. Within a few days your own little circle has formed and all the rest become mere persons.

The ship was held up an hour in sailing. The rumor was it was to take movies of a departing dancer, but I am inclined to believe it was the heavy fog, for we nosed out to sea at a snail pace—the dolorous fog horn groaning at minute intervals.

* * *

I peeked into the bar to see the rush when the ship reached the three-mile limit. After waiting 15 minutes, a gentleman sauntered in and ordered a pot of coffee—the lone customer. The truth is, however, that the bon voyage cocktail parties in cabins had left those alcoholically inclined a little blotto.

Midnight sailings have been abandoned on account of these bon voyage celebrations. This boat was scheduled to shove off at 7 in the evening. Most of them are sailing at 10 a. m. or 5 p. m. Two drunks were trundled off our ship in stretchers a very few minutes before the gang-plank was lifted. Yip-ee-e-e!

The seasoned voyager does not don evening dress for dinner on the first night out but I always do. It is usually my only chance to show folks I have a double-breasted Tuxedo. From then on my meals consist chiefly of a nibble at a cracker or a pecked grape.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

At your service club dinners and luncheons do you make an effort to be a good fellow to those seated about the table near you, but when you meet these men at other times is there any evidence of any such spirit?

Is this especially true of your attitude toward those who have not been as successful or those who do not hold as prominent a position?

Do you regularly assume the character you are supposed to represent as a member of your club but only at the meetings of that organization?

If the teachings are worth carrying out at your meetings why are they not worthy to become a part of your daily life in the world at large?

When you joined you subscribed to certain principles, but did you make the reservation that you would exemplify them only at the meetings?

If so, you have no right to the benefits—no right to continue as a member.

You are not in true sympathy with its teachings and precepts.

If there are men in your club with whom you cannot feel like associating on an equal social basis why did you not say so when the names were proposed?

You had an opportunity to voice your disapproval and if you could have supported your opinion with proofs it would have kept these men out, but you did not and now there is only one thing you can honorably do and that is live up to your vows at all times.
